REV. MELATIAH EVERETT DWIGHT, M. D., D. D.

BY TOBIAS A. WRIGHT.

Dr. Dwight was born in South Hadley, Mass., Oct. 15, 1841, and died Sept. 15, 1907, on the heights of Mt. Holyoke, Mass., where his summer home overlooked the place of his birth. He was the eldest son of John Dwight of New York City, and grandson of Dr. Elihu Dwight of South Hadley, Mass., who was the eldest son of Justus Dwight and grandson of Capt. Nathaniel Dwight, both of Belchertown, Mass. The latter was fourth in descent from John Dwight of Dedham. His mother was Nancy Shaw Everett, daughter of Metcalf Everett of Foxboro, Mass., the son of John Everett and Melatiah Metcalf, daughter of Samuel Metcalf of Wrentham, Mass.

Dr. Dwight's boyhood and youth were spent in New York City, where his father was laying the foundation of a business prosperity that became the source of widely distributed benevolence. He studied in the public schools of this city, and the New York University Grammar School; graduated from the College of the City of New York in 1860; studied medicine at Thirteenth Street Medical College, graduating with the degree of M. D. from the latter in 1864; studied theology at Andover Theological Seminary, and was graduated in 1866. Being under appointment by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions as missionary to Turkey, he continued his medical studies at Bellevue Hospital Medical College, 1866-1867, travelled in Europe, Egypt and the Holy Land, 1867-1868, but on his return was constrained by ill health to give up his appointment as foreign missionary, and seek a home-missionary field. He was ordained and installed February, 1869, over the Congregational Church of Onarga, Illinois, where he remained until 1879, and was then called to the Congregational Church of Fairfield, Iowa, of which he was the pastor until 1888, when he resigned on account of pulmonary trouble. Being obliged to relinquish the active work of the ministry, and place himself under medical treatment, he removed to Plainfield, N. J., where he remained for eleven years. In 1900 he was called to New York City to be the companion of his aged father, (whose death occurred in November, 1903,) and continued his winter residence here, summering at Northampton, Mass., until the time of his death.

During the years of his pastorate in churches and his missionary work, he not only won a strong and commanding influence in the communities where he lived, but came to wide recognition in ecclesiastical affairs in the local and State associations of his denomination. He was made a trustee in the Congregational Church Building Society in 1906, and received that same year the degree of D. D. from Parsons College.

Dr. Dwight took a very active interest in the "National Federation of Churches and Christian Workers" and gave much of his time and means to the Inter-Church Conference on Federation, held in New York City in 1905, acting as Chairman of Committee on Meetings. In fact it was largely through his efforts and financial contribution that an exhaustive report of that organization was published in book form.

The leading religious Journals of this country have published extended obituaries of Dr. Dwight, paying high tribute to his zeal, to the beauty of his character, and his successful labors in the service of his divine Master, and it is not the purpose of this memorial to enlarge upon the record of the noble service of this man in the Church—abler pens have told the story of his devotion—but rather to treat of his work in our own Society.

When in 1894 he became a member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, and began attending its meetings, no one could have predicted that this modest gentleman, small in stature and pale of face, bearing evidence of ill-health and constitutional feebleness, was destined soon to lead in the work of the Society, become the strong, loyal and trusted friend of every member, and largely instrumental in the upbuilding of our cause. Becoming interested in genealogical and historical studies, Dr. Dwight began giving to the world the results of his researches in 1898 by publishing a genealogical record and history of "The Kirbys of New England," followed in 1901, by "The Journal of Nathaniel Dwight, 1775." Recognizing the assistance he had received in the preparation of these works from our Society's publications and Library, he began devoting himself to increasing and enlarging their resources, by giving of his own time and means, and by his enthusiasm and energy stimulating his fellow members to greater efforts, appealing to the strong, encouraging the weak, and harmonizing all with the matchless grace of his charming personality. He recognized the need of cooperation, and with magical diplomacy he brought men together and held them for good. Who could resist the kindly smile and the flashes of subtle humor that made his presence so agreeable? Who could go out of that presence without feeling that he had been in touch with a nobility without ostentation, a royalty without arrogance? In 1901 he was elected a member of the Board of Trustees, and in the following year editor of the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD. Though his predecessors had been such learned and eminent genealogists as Dr. Henry Reed Stiles and the late Dr. Samuel S. Purple, the magazine grew in importance and dignity under his guidance, wielding a wider influence. He took special pride in this publication, defraying the expense of illustrations out of his private means, contributing to the cost of indexing its volumes each year, and paying the entire outlay of making a complete index of subjects of thirty-eight volumes of the RECORD from the beginning of its publication in 1869, down to 1907, which the Society printed. This was the work he loved, and perhaps no where did his abilities show to better advantage.

To him genealogy was as legitimate a study as any other branch of history, leading him into the past in quest of types of pure manhood. It was a great storehouse from which to draw examples of goodness and greatness to be emulated and imitated, and of vice and vileness to be abhorred and avoided. The gartered knight and the crest of royalty had no special charm for him; "The simple annals of the poor" developed fields as rich in christian virtues, and the blood of simple, honest yeomen transmitted traits as worthy of emulation.

In 1905 he was unanimously elected President of the Society in which capacity he served with marked ability until the time of his demise. For many years he served as the Society's necrologist, and it will long be remembered by those who attended the annual meetings with what reverence and sympathy he read the brief memoirs which he had carefully prepared of the Society's dead.

His benevolence was boundless, and his daily generosity proved the very love he had of giving. The extent of his charity will never be known, for it was absolutely without ostentation. He waited not for appeals but watched for opportunities to assist the poor and needy, and found them in plenty. Of such was this man whose gentle spirit has gone to the Great Eternal and whose kindly face we shall see no more.

Dr. Dwight was a member of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, the New York Academy of Science, the Rhode Island Chapter of the Society of the Cincinnati, and the New York Gamma Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He married in Jacksonville, Ill., June 23, 1870, Helen McClure Kirby, daughter of Rev. William Kirby and Hannah McClure Wolcott, who with three sons and two daughters survive him.

The action of the Board of Trustees of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, the Committee of the Congregational Church of Fairfield, Iowa, the Congregational Church Building Society, and the City College Club of New York, form an appropriate addition to this tribute to Dr. Dwight:

At a joint meeting of the Board of Trustees and of the Executive Committee of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society held in the Society's office, November 12, 1907, it being the first formal Fall meeting of the Board of Trustees following the death of our late President, Rev. Melatiah Everett

Dwight, D. D., M. D., the following resolutions were unanimously passed, viz.:

WHEREAS, death has removed from our midst our late President, Rev. Melatiah Everett Dwight, D. D., M. D., who in addition to his office as President, Trustee and Necrologist of the Society, and Editor of the RECORD, had for many years served as a member of the Executive Committee, and:

WHEREAS, his excellent judgment, genial disposition and uniform gentleness and courtesy of manner, had endeared him to all members of the Board of Trustees and of the Executive Committee:

RESOLVED, that in his death the Society, Board of Trustees and Executive Committee have lost a most valuable associate whose memory will always be dear to those with whom he was brought in contact:

RESOLVED, that these Resolutions be engrossed and a copy sent to the family of Doctor Dwight; and that they be spread upon the minutes of this Society, and that a copy of them be published in the January, 1908, issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD.

FAIRFIELD, IOWA, September 26, 1907.

DEAR MRS. DWIGHT AND FAMILY:

We, as a church, desire to express our sympathy for you in your deep affliction. It is only a few days since we heard that our beloved pastor of former days has been called to be with our Heavenly Father in the Home above. We hope that you will be sustained, and that strength will be given you to bear this great loss. We feel that it is our loss too, for we remember his kindness of heart toward every one, his broad sympathies. His life with us was a blessing and a benediction and we are thankful to our Heavenly Father that we had him with us in the years that are past.

Very sincerely yours,

MRS. A. S. JORDAN,

F. J. L. BLACK,

MRS. JOHN WELLS,

Committee in behalf of the Church.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of The Congregational Church Building Society, held on Wednesday, September 18, 1907, the following resolutions were presented by the Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Plainfield, N. J., of which Mr. Dwight was a member, and they were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS it has pleased Almighty God in his wise providence to take out of this world our fellow-Trustee, Rev. Melatiah Everett Dwight, D. D.,

RESOLVED: That we, the Board of Trustees of the Congregational Church Building Society, do hereby express our sense of the great loss which the Board sustains in this removal, gratefully recognizing the able as well as faithful and interested service which he rendered this Society; that we put on record our appreciation of his personal character, the genial and cheery temperament with its gleams of humor, the mind keen and alert with unusual originality of thought and expression, the spirit devout, consecrated, singularly unworldly, the heart full of human kindness, the hands rich in helpfulness, finding many ways even in years of partial illness to minister to humanity. A brother beloved, one of God's chosen ones has gone from us.

RESOLVED: That we extend to the bereaved family our respectful sympathy and pray for them the consolations of the Son of God.

VOTED: That this minute be spread upon the records of this Society and a copy sent to his family.

WILLIAM HAYES WARD, Chairman.

Attest: CHARLES H. RICHARDS, Secretary.

CH. E. HOPE, Recording Secretary.

TO THE FAMILY OF REV. MELATIAH E. DWIGHT:

At the last meeting of the City College Club, it was unanimously resolved that in the death of Rev. Melatiah E. Dwight, long and honorably known as a loyal and distinguished alumnus of the College of the City of New York, the club has suffered the loss of one of its noblest members.

The City College Club sends its sympathy to you in your bereavement and trusts that the memory of a good name and work done efficiently will be a source of consolation.

JOHN LIEBERMAN, Secretary.

FERDINAND SHACK, President.

THE DUTCH TITUS FAMILY.

BY FRANK H. TITUS, M.D., DOVER, N. H.

This might with propriety be called the American Titus family, as it originated, as far as the name is concerned in Kings Co., N. Y.

The founder of the family was Titus Syrachs De Vries, who according to Bergen's Register of Early Settlers of Kings County, and Riker's Annals of Newtown, immigrated to this country at an early date. He was part owner of a gristmill operated by horse-power in New Utrecht in 1660. He was Lieut. of an Infantry Co. of Flatbush in 1673, and was probably promoted, as he is also styled Captain. That he was probably of the noble De Vries family of Holland is indicated not only by his name, which should have been Titus Syrachs simply had he been of the commonalty, but more suggestively that some of his children at least were baptized as Tryntje Titus De Vries, Syrach Titus De Vries, etc.

For some reason difficult to conjecture his children all seem to have dropped the name of de Vries and adhered to the less euphonious one, which, in accordance with the untrammelled custom of the time, they spelled as the fancy of the moment suggested Tetus, Tietus, Tites, Titos, Tytus or more often Titus. There still remains one branch which uses the spelling "Tytus," but the other forms seem to have disappeared.

Possibly the change of the name was in the nature of protective imitation as practiced by various forms of animated creatures lower than the human. Dutch blood was probably not as highly esteemed just after the land had passed from Dutch into English control as it is in our day, and the Britons have never been specially noted for tender consideration of the susceptibilities of those unwise enough to have been born under other skies. So the proximity of the large Titus family of English descent, who were numerous in the adjoining county, may have suggested the adoption of the father's given name according to the Dutch usage as a means of escaping the undesirable advertisement of their foreign blood. Or they may have felt the incongruity a noble name and the plebian occupations necessary for wringing a livelihood out of a new country. Be that as it may, De Vries they were; Titus their descendants are.

This line adheres to the spelling "Tytus;" but the recurrence of the family names is a good indication that they were of the same stock as the "Titus" family in the same neighborhood; and the County records reveal the fact that they did not always adhere to the one spelling, but used both indiscriminately.

Titus Titus seemed to have been a favorite name with the older generation. Besides Titus' (Francis,³ Titus'), there are known to have been five others if not more.

Tites Tites and his wife, Mary Morgan, were sponsors at a baptism, 1726.

Titus Titus m. Jane Boudet, 1726; had dau. Antje.

- xii. Rebecca, d. about 20 years old.

There are also Titus families in Brooklyn, N. Y., and in Camden, N. J., evidently of this stock, but whose connection with the parent stem cannot at present be demonstrated.

From the foregoing it will be seen that the available information of this family is very fragmentary, and as a search through the usual channels fails to yield further data, this article is published not only to put on record in a tangible shape the little already known, but in the hope that it may be the means of eliciting further information from sources hitherto undiscovered. Any additional items of the family history will be gladly welcomed by the writer.

NEW BRUNSWICK LOYALISTS OF THE WAR OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

COMMUNICATED BY D. K. JACK, HISTORIAN OF THE NEW BRUNSWICK LOYALISTS' SOCIETY; COR-SECY. OF THE NEW BRUNSWICK HISTORICAL SOCIETY; AUTHOR CENTENNIAL PRIZE ESSAY, HISTORY OF ST. JOHN; EDITOR ACADIENSIS ETC.

NOTE.—The reference letter in the second column in the list of New Brunswick Loyalists indicates, it will be remembered, the source of the information from which the list has been compiled. The readers of the RECORD are requested to note the following additions to the schedule which appeared in the January, 1904, issue.

"Q" Muster of passengers on transport Cyrus on 21st Aug., 1783, upon her trip from New York to the Saint John River. On the 6th of Sept., she was at sea, and on the 14th of Sept., she was in the Saint John River. Copy of return furnished by H. A. Powell, Esq., of Sackville, N. B. (See Collections of New Brunswick Historical Society, No. 5, 1904, pp. 277-8-9.)

"R," New Brunswick Loyalists, 1709 in number, whose names appear in the Passamaquoddy section of Major General Campbell's Muster of Loyalists and Disbanded Soldiers, from an original copy initialed by Col. Edward Winslow—of the expulsion of the Acadians fame—compiled 1784 (see Canadian History Readings by G. U. Hay, said original copy being now the property of Ward C. Hazen of Saint John, N. B.). The names appearing in this compilation have been copied from the said original by the compiler of this record.

"S," Loyalists who settled on Kemble Manor, Saint John River, N. B., mentioned by Jonas Howe in his article upon that subject, (see New Brunswick Magazine, Vol. 4, p. 157.)

— This sign indicates that the individual was less than 10 years of age in 1783.
 + This sign indicates that the individual was a child but more than ten years of age in 1783.

THE KNICKERBOCKER FAMILY.

BY WILLIAM B. VAN ALSTYNE, M.D.

The Knickerbocker family of New York, rendered famous by the genius of Washington Irving, has never to our knowledge been printed in genealogical form. This we now endeavor to do for the first four or five generations. Pains have been taken to secure accuracy and authorities are given for most statements. Traditions are current in the family concerning its origin and history in Holland, but these the writer, not finding leisure to verify them, has omitted. He has encountered many early spellings of the name of the family, such as Knikkerbakker, Knikkelbakker, and Knikkenbakker, but has adhered to the present spellings, Knickerbacker and Knickerbocker. Authorities differ as to the origin of the name Knickerbocker. William Arthur (Derivation of Family Names, p. 177) derives it from knacker, a cracker, and backer, a baker; while Edward M. Smith (History of Rhinebeck, N. Y., p. 174) derives it from knikker, a marble, and bakker, a baker. Consensus of opinion favors the latter explanation.

Harmen Jansen Knickerbocker, the ancestor of the family, came to this country from Holland prior to 1683 and settled at Albany, N. Y. Occasionally he added the termination Van Wie to his name indicating that he came from Wie, the present Wyhe, a few miles south of Zwolle, in the Province of Overijssel, Holland.

In 1683, Harman Jansz Knickelbacker and Lysbet Harmensz were members of the Dutch Reformed Church at Albany (Year Book, 1904, of the Holland Society of New York, p. 5).

On 6 May, 1684, Harmen Jansen Knickerbocker deeded land in Albany to Mews Hogeboom (Book 531, Public Records of Albany Co.). On 2 June, 1688, Peter Schuyler received a grant of land in Dutchess County near Red Hook. In 1689 he sold one-half of one-fourth of the patent to Harme Gansevoort of Albany, the fourth laying north of a line due east from a point on the river opposite the south end of Slipstein Island, the small island north of Cruger's. On 1 May, 1704, Gansevoort sold his moiety to Harme Jans Knickerbocker. In 1722 Schuyler divided the upper fourth of his patent into thirteen lots, seven of which he deeded to Lawrence, Cornelius, Evert and Pieter Knickerbocker of Dutchess County, Anthony Bogardus of Albany, and Jannetje, his wife, Jan Vosburgh of Dutchess County, and Cornelia, his wife, sons and daughters of Harmen Janse Knickerbocker, late of Dutchess County, deceased (Smith's History of Rhinebeck, N. Y., pp. 23, 80).

In April, 1698, the Earl of Bellomont succeeded Fletcher as Governor; in July he made a journey in great state to Albany and Schenectady, staying two weeks in the former and two days in the latter place, "My Lady" accompanying him. Among the items of expense were "£1 17s. to Harme Janse Knickerbacker for his Waggen and horses to Shinnectady" (Jonathan Pearson's History of the Schenectady Patent, p. 283).

On 16 March, 1706-7, the brothers, Daniel and David Ketelhuyn "of the city of Albany," bought of Harme Janse Knickerbacker, "late of the county of Albany," for one hundred and eighty-four pounds and ten shillings, "each one equall half of all that certain tract or parcel of land . . . on the west side of Hudson's river above the land commonly called the Half Moon, being about four English miles above the farm or boundary of Gerrit Hendrickse, which said land begins at the kill or creek that runs into Hudson's river between the Wijhe Vlackje and the said Harme Janse's house, and from thence along the river, on the west side of Hudson's river, and strikes from the river westward into the woods on the south and along the north side of the said kill or creek so as the same runs until you come to the high hills, which said hills run along the fly of the Half Moon and stretch as far as Sarachtogue; and on the north side from the northern end of the said Stonje Island with a direct west line into the woods till you come to the said high hills aforesaid." On 20 March that year, Daniel Ketelhuyn sold his share in this tract to his brother David, for one hundred and one pounds and five shillings (Deeds, book F, No. 6, pp. 3, 41, in the office of the Clerk of Albany County).

In 1711 Harmen Knickerbocker deeded lands in the south part of Amenia, N. Y., to Cornelius Knickerbocker (Isaac Hunting's Little Nine Partners, p. 366).

The will of Harmen Jansen Knickerbacker "of Dutchess County, in Province of New York," was made 17 Jan., 1707-8, and recorded in Albany County Wills, Lib. 1, p. 175. In it he mentions wife Elizabeth and "my seven children," namely, Johannes, Lourens, Cornelis, Evert, Peter, Jannetje Lansing, widow of Hendrick Lansing, junior, and Cornelia Knickerbacker; "eldest son Johannes." The will is written in Dutch and mentions real and personal estate. Executors: wife and sons Johannes and Lourens. Witnesses: Jan Ploeg and Pieter Pile.

In 1723 the widow of Harmon Knickerbacker residing in Dutchess County was taxed five pounds and five pence (Smith's History of Rhinebeck, N. Y., p. 45).

1. HARMEN JANSEN¹ KNICKERBOCKER, m. about 1681, Lysbet Janse Bogaert, b. in 1659, in Holland, dau. of Jan Laurensen Bogaert and Cornelia Evertse. Jan Laurensen Bogaert with his wife and two children, seven and four years old, came from Schoonderwoerd, a town in South Holland, in the ship Spotted Cow, 16 April, 1663, and it is probable that Lysbet was born there. Harmen Jansen Knickerbocker died prior to 1722, and his widow was living in Dutchess County in 1723. All of their children were born in this country, probably at Albany, where the younger children were baptised.

2. JOHANNES HARMENSEN * KNICKERBOCKER (Harmen Jansen'), m. 19 Oct., 1701, at Albany, Anna Quackenbos, dau. of Wouter Pietersen Quackenbos* and Neeltje Gysbertse. Johannes and his bride were born and living in the Colony of Rensselaerwyck.

On 10 July, 1708, the Common Council of the city of Albany announced the conditions on which the eight plantations on the south side of Schaghticoke Creek would be assigned to the applicants accepted by the corporation. Each farm, as determined by the municipal authorities, was to comprise twenty-five morgens, or fifty acres, of low or meadow land under the hill by the creek, and five morgens, or ten acres, of upland, toward the said hill, and all to lie connectedly together in a tract. Twenty persons severally desired to be assigned one. In order to avoid partiality in the assignment of the plantations; the clerk of the Common Council was ordered to prepare eight billets, severally bearing the number of the farm to be conveyed, and twelve blank ones, and place them in the mayor's hat, and let each one draw one, which was accordingly done. Johannes Harmense Knickerbocker was a successful applicant (Arthur J. Weise's Swartwout and Ketelhuyn Chronicles, pp. 543, 544).

On 22 Nov., 1712, Johannes Barentsen Bratt exchanged twelve morgens of land with that of Johannes Harmense Knickerbocker, that particular part of his farm, on the west side of Tamhenick Creek, for an equal quantity of land on the east side of that stream (above authority, p. 553).

12 Nov., 1709, Johannis Knickerbocker granted to Martin Dellemont five morgens of land at Schaghticoke (deed recorded 1 Feb., 1717-18, Public Records of Albany County, book 5, p. 386); 22 Nov., 1712, he granted to Daniel Ketelhuyn twelve morgens of land at Schaghticoke (deed recorded 1 Feb., 1717/18, above authority, book 5, p. 387); 2 July, 1735, he granted to Johannes Christianse eighteen morgens of land on Anthony Kill, Albany Co. (deed recorded 22 Feb., 1782, above authority, book 10, p. 311),

* Wouter Pietersen Quackenbos of Albany, N. Y., m. (1) Neeltje Gysberts m. (2) 4 Oct., 1696, at Albany, Cornelia Bogaert, dau. of Jan Lourensen Bogaert and Cornelia Evertse.

and 9 July, 1737, he deeded to Neeltje Bradt and John Schuyler land on the east side of Hudson River, in the Manor of Rensselaerwyck (deed unrecorded). The following children were baptised at Albany:

- 9 i. Lysbet,^a bap. 1 Nov., 1702; spon.: Harmon and Lysbeth Knikkelbakker; m. 8 Feb., 1725, at Albany, Sybrant Quackenbos.
 - ii. Neeltie, bap. 30 June, 1706; spon.: Wouter Quakkenbosch, Jr., and Neeltje Quakkenbosch; d. 1775, unm. Neeltje Knickerbacker of Schaghtakakock, Albany County, made her will 26 March, 1775; proved 9 Oct., 1775, and recorded at Albany. In it she mentions Dirk T. Van Veghten and son Teunis, Cornelia, dau. of Igenas Kip, and her brother Teunis, Annatje, wife of Igenas Kip, and Annitje, wife of Lewis T. Viele, and her dau. Maria, Elezibeth, wife of John Fort, Neeltje, dau. of Harme Quackenbush, Annaitie Viele, dau. of Johannis Knickerbacker, and Margrita, dau. of Dirk T. van Veghten. Executors: Johannis S. Quackenboss and Dirck T. van Veghten (Fernow's Calendar of Wills, p. 228).
 - 10 iii. Harmen, bap. 25 Dec., 1709; spon.: Kiliaan and Maria Van Rensselaer; d. 18 Sept., 1768, at Schaghticoke; m. about 1745, Rebecca De Wandellar.
 - 11 iv. Wouter, bap. 19 Oct., 1712; spon.: Wouter and Cornelia Quackenbosch; d. 8 Aug., 1797, at Saratoga, N. Y.; m. 9 Jan., 1735, at Albany, Elizabeth Fonda.
 - 12 v. Cornelia, bap. 21 Oct., 1716; spon.: Antony and Jannetië Bogardus; m. 29 Feb., 1744, at Albany, Teunis Van Vechten.
 - 13 vi. Johannes, bap. 24 March, 1723; spon.: Nicol. and Maria Groesbeek; d. 16 Aug., 1802, at Schaghticoke; m. 17 Feb., 1750, at Albany, Rebecca Fonda.
3. LAURENS^a KNICKERBOCKER (Harmen Jansen¹), m. about 1707, Maryke Dyckman, b. about 1688, dau. of Johannes Dyckman* and Jannetie Viele. A curious chain of evidence leads to the location of Maryke Dyckman. She appears in 1724 at Linlithgo, N. Y., as Maritje, in 1731 at Germantown, N. Y., as Marike, in 1741 at Athens, N. Y., as Marytje, and in 1747 at Germantown, as Mariken, the full maiden name in no case being given, but on

* Johannes Dyckman, b. 1662; m. Jannetie Viele, dau. of Cornelis Cornelisen Viele and Suster, his wife, of Schenectady, the latter supposed to have been a Mohawk Indian woman. On 10 April, 1676, his mother bound him out to Major Abram Staats (Notary Papers, vol. I, p. 556). He was son of Johannes Dyckman and Maria Bosyns. Johannes Dyckman had been "first clerk" to the West India Company, he came out in 1651 and served as clerk and commissary at Fort Orange of Albany, but in 1655 was laid aside by insanity (Riker's History of Harlem, p. 545). He d. in Sept., 1672, and his wife, Maria Bosyns, in 1676. They had two children, Cornelis, b. 1647, who m. Jannetie, dau. of Dirck Claessen Pottbacker and Wyntie Roeloffs, and became the ancestor of the Bloomingdale branch of the family, and Johannes, b. 1662. Johannes was son of Joris Dyckman and Aeltie Poulus Root of Amsterdam, Holland.

5 Oct., 1766, Domine Fryemont received into the membership of the Dutch Reformed Church at Red Hook, N. Y., from the church on the Flatts "Louwrenz Knickerbocker and wife Maryke Dyk." Extensive research shows only one other occurrence of the name of Dyk, namely when Jacob the five months old son of "Hannes and Engel Dyk" was baptised 19 April, 1738 at Athens. Hannes and Engel previously had children baptised at Linlithgo, but he is there called "Johannes Dyckman, Jr." Therefore it is evident that Dyk is equivalent to Dyckman. On the 24 Feb., 1723, Johannes Dyckman and Jannetje Dyckman, "echtelieden," or married people, became church members at Linlithgo. Johannes Dyckman m. Jannetje, dau. of Cornelis Cornelisen Viele of Schenectady, N. Y., and from her received land at the All Platts on which they lived but two years when the French and Indian massacre of 1690 happened. Cornelis Cornelisen Viele suffered great loss, for among the killed were his dau. Mary, the wife of Dowe Aukes, with her two children, and Mary Aloff, the wife of his son Cornelis; Arnout Viele, his grandson, was carried off alive to be held a captive for three years, but his dau. Jannetje with her husband and child escaped to Albany, later going to Dutchess County, but in 1715 removing to the Manor of Livingston. Johannes and Jannetje Dyckman had a son Johannes, bap. 11 May, 1690, at Albany, who m. Engel —, and left descendants who settled at or near Linlithgo, N. Y., and a dau. named after her father's mother, undoubtedly born on the All Platts prior to the massacre and destined to become the wife of Laurens Knickerbocker, singularly her full maiden name only appearing once and then under the the form of Maryke Dyk.

In 1715 Lawrence Knickerbocker was a member of a military company organized and under review at Oak Hill (Claverack, N. Y., Centennial, p. 45). An oath of abjuration and fealty was required to be taken by office holder in Dutchess County in 1729. Lowerens Knickerbacker, captain, was one of the signers (Edmund Platt's History of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., p. 24). In 1723 he was taxed eighteen pounds and eighteen shillings (Smith's History of Rhinebeck, N. Y., p. 45). He was a justice in 1735 (Platt's History of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., p. 25). In 1750 he lived on Magdalen Island, an island in the Hudson River between the upper and lower Red Hook landings. The will of Elbert Harmensen Liverse of New York City, lime burner, dated 15 June, 1750, proved 11 Oct., 1752, and recorded in Abstracts of Wills at New York City, vol. 18, p. 196, mentions his "wife's niece Catharine, the daughter of Lourens Knickebacker of Magdalen Island." The relationship is explained by the fact that Elbert Harmensen Liverse's wife Catharina Bogaert, and Lourens Knickerbocker's mother, Lysbeth Bogaert, were daus. of Jan Laurensen Bogaert and Cornelia Evertse. Catharina Liverse stood as one of the sponsors when her niece Catherine was bap. 19 Oct., 1731, at Germantown. In 1766 John Vosburgh and Cornelia, his wife, Lawrence Knickerbocker and Hans Jury Loundert, all of Rhinebeck precinct, in Dutchess County, of the one part, and Anthony Hoffman, of Kingston, Ulster County, and Zacharias

Hoffman of Rhinebeck, of the other part, agree to divide a certain tract of land lying adjacent to the south of the manor of Livingston, apparently belonging to them in common (Smith's History of Rhinebeck, N. Y., p. 80). Lourens Knickerbocker and Maryke Dyckman had the following children but their order is unknown:

- 14 i. Benjamin,⁹ m. Aletteka Halenbeck.
 - 15 ii. John, b. 1710; d. 10 Nov., 1786; m. (1) about 1732, Jacomyntje Freer; m. (2) 22 Feb., 1751, at Sharon, Conn., Jemima Owen.
 - 16 iii. Harmen, b. 1712; d. 19 Aug., 1805; m. (1) about 1737, Catrina Dutcher; m. (2) Elizabeth —.

4. JANNETJE⁹ KNICKERBOCKER (Harmen Jansen¹), b. in the Colony of Rensselaerwyck; m. (1) 22 March, 1704, at Albany, N. Y., Hendrick Lansing, Jr., b. there, son of Hendrick Gerritsen Lansing* and wife Lysbeth; m. (2) 6 March, 1709, at Albany, Anthony Bogardus, bur. there 14 April, 1744, son of Pieter Bogardus and Wyntje Cornelise Bosch (dau. of Cornelis Teunisen Bosch and Maritie Thomase Mingael). Children bap. at Albany, except Wyntje, who was bap. at New York City, as follows:
- 23 i. Lysbeth,⁹ bap. 5 Aug., 1705; spon.: Johannes Knikkelbakker and Lysbeth Lansing; m. 1722, Egbert Bratt.
 - ii. Wyntje, bap. 1 Sept., 1710; spon.: Elbert Harmense and Tryntje Van Brugh.

* Hendrick Gerritsen Lansing was son of Gerrit Fredericksen Lansing from Hassell, near Swoll, in Overyssell, Holland, and Elizabeth Hendricks, who m. 2d Wouter Van Den Uythof of Albany, baker. Van Den Uythof m. again 14 Oct., 1691, Elizabeth De Lint, widow of Jacob Meesz Vrooman.

- vii. Evert, bap. 10 June, 1722; spon.: Joh. Schoonmaker and Wyntje V. Vegten; bur. 23 July, 1746, at Albany.
 viii. Anna, bap. 17 Feb., 1725; spon.: Jisse and Neelt Forest.

5. CORNELIS² KNICKERBOCKER (Harmen Jansen¹), bap. 6 Jan., 1692, at Albany, N. Y.; d. 30 March, 1776, at Sharon, Conn.; m. prior to 1722 Johanna Schut, probably dau. of Myndert Schut* and Sara Persen, bap. 7 March, 1697, at Kingston, N. Y.

In 1711 Harmen Knickerbocker deeded land in the south part of Amenia, N. Y., to Cornelius Knickerbocker, who in 1743 was living in Salisbury, Conn., on a farm which in 1748 he exchanged with Capt. John Sprague for land on Gay street north of Sharon near a pond called Knickerbocker's Pond, now Beardslee Pond (Isaac Huntting's Little Nine Partners, p. 366).

A tax assessment in Dutchess County in 1723 shows that Cornelius Knickerbocker was taxed eleven pounds and eleven pence (Smith's History of Rhinebeck, N. Y., p. 46).

On 14 May, 1743, Cornelius Knickerbocker was one of the interpreters between the Indians Cabrickset and Tasawight, who were called to locate landmarks in the outline survey of Little Nine Partners made by Charles Clinton. In November Clinton and his men prepared to correct his Livingston "random line." They left the south bend of the Roelof Jansen for Nackawawick, the east end of the Livingston line, and spent the night at Cornelius Knickerbocker's who lived in that neighborhood. Again Knickerbocker was of service by helping show the Indian bounds of Nackawawick (Huntting's Little Nine Partners, p. 28).

Y., and on 5 Oct., 1766, were received into the membership of the Dutch Reformed Church at Red Hook, N. Y. In 1732 Jan Vosburgh was a supervisor in Kipsbergen, Dutchess County (Smith's History of Rhinebeck, N. Y., p. 47). REGULAR MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, NOVEMBER 12TH, 1907.

Present: Messrs. Bowen, Drowne, Eliot, Field, Gibson, Morrison, Mott, Totten, Walker, Wilson and Wright. Regrets received from Mr. Goodwin.

Chairman, First Vice-President Clarence Winthrop Bowen, called the attention of the Board to the loss by death on Sept. 14, 1907, of our late President Rev. Melatiah Everett Dwight, M. D., and moved that a Committee be appointed to draw up suitable Resolutions regarding the services of Dr. Dwight to the Society and embodying the Society's appreciation of its loss; also that these Resolutions, together with those passed by the Executive Committee be engrossed and a copy sent to the family of Dr. Dwight and spread upon the minutes of this meeting as well as published in the January issue of the RECORD. He suggested as members of the Committee Messrs. Gen. James Grant Wilson, Tobias A. Wright and George Austin Morrison, Jr., with full power to carry the matter to completion. Carried.

The Chair called attention to the loss by death since the last meeting of the Board of two Trustees: Bowen Whiting Pierson and Rev. Melatiah Everett Dwight, M. D., and moved that nominations be made to fill these unexpired terms in accordance with the provisions of the By-Laws, also that these nominations be acted upon and vacancies filled by election at once. Nominations were duly presented of Howland Pell in place of Mr. Pierson, and Archer M. Huntington in place of Dr. Dwight, and these persons were unanimously elected.

The Chair then called attention to the vacancy existing in the office of President of the Society, and that nominations were in order to fill said vacancy.

Nominations were duly presented and seconded of Gen. James Grant Wilson and Clarence Winthrop Bowen. On motion the nominations were closed and Mr. Field appointed as teller. Mr. Field reported that seven ballots had been cast for Mr. Bowen and four for Gen. Wilson.

Gen. Wilson moved that the election of Mr. Bowen be made unanimous. Carried.

Attention was then called to the vacancy existing in the office of First Vice-President and Mr. Morrison nominated Archer M. Huntington. Huntington as First Vice-President.

HENRY RUSSELL DROWNE, Secretary.

CORRECTION.

THE family of Richard and Mary (Rowley) Cook of East Hampton, Conn., and Plainfield, N. Y., is incorrectly given on p. 206, Vol. XXXVII, of the RECORD. A lineal descendant of this pair has furnished revised data as follows:

Richard⁵ Cooke (Josiah,⁴ Joshua,³ Josiah,² Josias¹), the youngest child of Josiah⁴ and Hannah (Sparrow) Cooke, was b. at Middletown (now Chatham), Conn., May 17, 1753 (Hinman's Early Conn. Settlers, p. 701), though the inscription on his gravestone at Plainfield, N. Y., reads: "died Aug. 13, 1833, aged 82 years." He was a Revolutionary soldier, serving from May 19, 1778, to Jan. 1, 1782, in the company of Capt. Edwards Eells of Middletown, and was a pensioner in 1818 (Connecticut Men in the Revolution, pp. 172, 317, 641). His will, dated at Plainfield, Aug. 12, 1833, probated Oct. 8, 1833, mentions wife Susannah, eldest son Alvan, and youngest son Nathaniel, and no other children. One son d. before the father, and the dau. Lucy Alvord is not mentioned. Children: i. Lucy, b. Aug. 7, 1784; m. Oct. 11, 1804, Dea. James Hall Alvord; she d. at Winsted, Conn., Sept. 11, 1850. ii. Alvan, b. Dec. 15, 1786; m. Aug. 31, 1811, Lucretia Smith, b. Nov. 10, 1786; they lived in Plainfield, N. Y., and Johnstown, Wis., where he d. Jan. 27, 1856. iii. Florus, b. April 26, 1793; m. May 7, 1817, Mary Couch, b. June 6, 1796, in Meriden, Conn., dau. of John and Anna (Rice) Couch; she d. in Wallingford, Conn., June 7, 1881; the family settled in Plainfield, N. Y., where Mr. Florus Cooke d. April 26, 1819. They had an only child, Richard Florus¹ Cooke, b. Jan. 19, 1818, at Plainfield; d. at Philadelphia, Sept. 26, 1876. iv. Nathaniel, b. —, 1794; m. Betsy Fuller, and d. Nov. 20, 1867, without children.

HOMER W. BRAINARD, Hartford, Conn.

NOTES.

SNOW.—Judd's History of Hadley, Mass., p. 140, states: "Josiah (Snow), son of Josiah,¹ So. Hadley, m. (1) Dec. 8, 1757, Azubah Dickenson, m. (2) —. Children by second wife."

James Henry of South Hadley, in will made March 6, 1767, mentions daughter, Elizabeth Snow, Hampshire Co. Prob. Rec. (at Northampton) Vol. XI, p. 14, and in a deed made by Josiah Snow of South Hadley, in Oct., 1765, he calls James Henry, his father, Hampshire Co. Deeds, Vol. VI, p. 506 (at Springfield).

Josiah Snow's first child was b. June 18, 1762, so it would seem that his second wife, mother of his children, was Elizabeth Henry, daughter of James (See Hist. Hadley, p. 68).

LOUISE TRACY.

VAN HOOK, SMIT AND CROSMAN FAMILIES. LAWRENCE VAN HOOK.—In Vol. X, p. 47, of the RECORD, it is erroneously stated that Lawrence Van Hook was "a Judge in New York." Research concerning this Lawrence Van Hook discloses that he probably died prior to 28 July, 1724, at Freehold, N. J., leaving a will dated 14 July, 1724, which was proved 14 Aug., 1724, at Perth Amboy, N. J. He m. (1) on 2 July, 1692, Johanna Hendrix of New York, who d. in 1693-4, leaving one child, Johanna, bap. 11 June, 1693; d. 1724, at Freehold, N. J. He then m. (2) probably about the latter part of 1694, Johanna Smit, dau. of Hendrik Barentse Smit of Boswyck, Long Island, by whom he had issue: Gerritje, bap. 29 Sept., 1695; d. in infancy; Gerritje, bap. 25 Dec., 1696; Arent, bap. 9 Oct., 1698; Hendrik, bap. 19 Feb., 1701; Isaac, bap. 22 Aug., 1703; Gerrittie, bap. 1 Oct., 1704; Benjamin, bap. 26 Jan., 1707; Maria, bap. 9 April, 1710; Francesca, bap. 31 Oct., 1714. All his children except Francesca were bap. in New York, but she was bap. in the Old Marlborough Church, near Freehold, Monmouth County, New Jersey.

Laurence Van Hook resided in the Province of New York as early as 1661, and at Boswyck about 1687, but returned to New York City prior to Sept., 1699, where he frequently held public office, viz.: as Constable, 29 Sept., 1689; High Constable, 29 Sept., 1700; Assessor for the Dock Ward, 29 Sept., 1705, reappointed 1706. He removed to Freehold, N. J., in the early spring of 1712, where he is described in various deeds recorded in the County Clerk's Office as a "bolter," as "of the City of New York, merchant," and as "of the County of Monmouth." He was a large land owner in the vicinity of Freehold, New Jersey, and also owned some land in Westchester County, New York. He served as "an Assistant Justice" of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Monmouth County, New Jersey, from 1714-1721.

ROBERT CROSMAN.—In Vol. XXII, p. 77, of the RECORD, John Crosman is given as the first ancestor of "The Crosman Family in America." This is an error as Mr. Baylies in his History of New Plymouth, Part 2, p. 286, mistook the name "John Greenman" for "John Crossman" in the list of the original purchasers of Taunton, Mass.

The original immigrant was Robert Crosman from Somertshire, England, who settled in Dedham, Mass., where he became a freeman in 1642. He m. there 25 May, 1652, Sarah Kingsbury, dau. of Joseph and Millicent Kingsbury, and had issue, his first child, Sarah, b. 1653, at Dedham. He removed to Taunton, Mass., in 1653, where he had eleven other children, descendants of whom still live in Taunton.

HENDRIK BARENTSE SMIT.—Hendrik Barentse Smit, m. Geertje Willemse, and his name apparently first appears on the records in the year 1655. The inventory of his estate is dated 6 Nov., 1690, and amounts to £16,407-10s-0d. His will appears in Book I, p. 236, Kings County Registry.

Any further information concerning the above Laurence Van Hook and Hendrik Barentse Smit is earnestly requested. J. HERON CROSMAN, 95 Elm Street, New Rochelle, N. Y.

QUERIES.

ABBOTT.—I would be glad to learn anything relating to James Abbott who came to Long Island about 1690(?), from Somersetshire, England. He is said to have married on Long Island and had five sons and two daughters. One of his sons, Benjamin, being the father of Rev. Benjamin Abbott (1732-1796), the noted M. E. minister of New Jersey. Date of birth and death, names of wife and daughters, and residence particularly desired.

A. S. ABBOTT, Bethel, Ohio.

KELSEY.—Wanted the parentage and ancestry of William Kelsey. I am told that in the year 1632 William Kelsey was a member of Rev. Thomas Hooker's congregation, in Braintree, Essex County, England. Mr. Hooker's flock was at that time in great trouble, their shepherd had fled to Holland to escape fines and imprisonment for non-conformity, and to enjoy the privilege of such a pastor they were willing to migrate to any quarter of the world. They turned their eyes to New England, hoping that if they could make a comfortable settlement there they might induce him to follow them. Accordingly they came to America in 1633 and "began to sit down" at Wollaston, a few miles south of Boston. But it was the policy of the colony to keep the population as much concentrated as possible, and by order of the Court they moved to Cambridge—then Newtowne—where they were known as the Braintree Company.

MARTENSE HARCOURT CORNELL,
Wappingers Falls, N. Y.

EARLY AMERICAN MERRITS.—Wanted, date of births and deaths, names of parents and wives: Ezekiel, Newport, R. I., 1638; Edward, New York, 1701-10; George, Boston, 1 May, 1684; George, Perth Amboy, N. J., 1694; Henry, Scituate, Mass., 1628, d. 1652; Isaac, Bristol, Pa., 1684, wife Joyce Olive; John, Scituate, 1652; John, Grand Jury, New York, 1641; John, Captain, m. Sybil Ray, 1649; John, killed at South Deerfield, 18 Sept., 1675; John, taxed in Maryland, 1681; John, m. Catherine Guthrie, 1684; Nicholas, Salem, b. 1613, d. 1686, wife Margaret Sandin; Philip, Boston, b. 1662, d. 20 Sept., 1735, wife Mary; Richard, Charlestown, Mass., m. Mary Simmons, 12 Jan., 1685; Samuel, Kent Co., Md., 1708; Thomas, Delaware Bay, 1664-80; Thomas, Rye, N. Y., 1673-1721, second wife Abigail Francis; William, New York, Mayor, 1695, d. 1708.

DOUGLAS MERRITT, Rhinebeck, N. Y.

OBDER.—Wanted information as to the origin of the name Obder. One of the sons of Elijah Miles and Frances Cornell is Thomas Obder Miles, b. 1789, Long Island or Nova Scotia. MISS G. C. MILES, 3231 Forrest Ave., Chicago.

PALMER.—Wanted in particular the parentage or ancestry of Samuel Palmer, b. in Westchester Co., N. Y., 1743; d. at Bloomingcove, Orange Co., N. Y., 1817; m. Sarah Pierce?

FLEWELLING.—Ancestry of Sarah Flewelling who m. Ajah Palmer, 1808?

VROOMAN.—Date and place of death of Abraham Vrooman, who m. Marytje Verplanck, 1735? E. COWING, 24 E. Bayard St., Seneca Falls, N. Y.

BOOK NOTICES.

COL. HENRY LUDINGTON. A MEMOIR. By Willis Fletcher Johnson, A. M., L. H. D. Printed by his grandchildren, Lavinia Elizabeth Ludington and Charles Henry Ludington. New York. The De Vinne Press. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. ix+235.

The first chapter of this memoir is taken up with the history of the Ludington name in England, and an account, in narrative form, of the American progenitors of Col. Henry Ludington. The last chapter contains brief notices of some later generations. The body of the work, therefore, is devoted to a study of the life and character of this worthy and efficient militia officer, and a large number of letters and other documents are given in full, thoroughly illustrating Col. Ludington's career. There are numerous excellent portraits and facsimiles, and an index. The compilation shows great care and research, and the make-up is in the usual satisfying manner of the DeVinne Press.

THE BARNES FAMILY YEAR BOOK. An annual publication issued under the authority of the Barnes Family Association. Compiled by Trescott C. Barnes, Secretary and Genealogist. Vol. I, 1907. New York. The Grafton Press. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. 64.

This is a sensible year book, composed entirely of Barnes genealogies, and with a good index. It contains accounts of some immigrant Barnes, and descendants of Thomas Barnes of Hartford, and Thomas Barnes of New Haven, of the Barnes Family of Long Island, and of Joshua of East Hampton. A novel idea is exploited in the Record of Ancestry, in which, as the basis for a Barnes Genealogy, the pedigrees of members of the Barnes Family Association are given. There are also obituaries and a department of Information Wanted. This practical form of family association report is worthy of imitation.

CLASS OF 1847. THE CENTENNIAL CLASS, COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY, PRINCETON, N. J., NOW PRINCETON UNIVERSITY, consisting of brief biographies of its members from 1847 to 1907. Compiled by its Historian and Secretary, Henry B. Munn and Alfred Martien, Philadelphia. Printed for the class by Patterson & White Co. 1907. 12D, cloth, pp. 04.

Clad in its University colors, this little volume is a tribute to the glories of their Alma Mater, Old Nassau, and contains biographies and portraits of the faculty and class of that far-away year. Of especial interest to this Society, is the account of Mr. Seth Hastings Grant, a former officer of the Society, and author of its name.

ANCESTRY OF COL. JOHN HARVEY OF NORTHWOOD, NEW HAMPSHIRE. By John Harvey Treat, A. M. Boston. Privately printed. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. 47.

This volume is a good example of a favorite present-day form of genealogical printing, namely, to set forth the ancestors and descendants of some favorite or especially distinguished individual. Col. John Harvey was an original member of the New Hampshire Society of the Cincinnati, although at the time of signing its rolls he was a Lieutenant. He is represented in this Society by the compiler of this genealogy. The book is well printed and indexed.

FITZ RANDOLPH TRADITIONS. A Story of a Thousand Years. L. V. F. Randolph. Published under the auspices of the New Jersey Historical Society. 1907. 12D, cloth, pp. 134 and a chart.

In this interesting little brochure nothing more is attempted than, as is stated in the sub-title, to tell the story of the family for a thousand years. The author is convinced that the descent of Edward Fitz Randolph of Scituate, Mass., and Piscataway, N. J., is proven from Rolf the Norseman, and his argument for this conclusion is very interesting. The work is attractively bound and illustrated, having a number of English views. It has always seemed a pity that this family has, to such an extent, dropped the distinctive part of the surname, but this little work may inspire some of them to replace it.

SOCIAL LIFE OF VIRGINIA IN THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY. By Philip Alexander Bruce, Richmond. Printed for the author by Whittet & Shepperson. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. 268. For sale by the Bell Book Company, Richmond, Va. Price, net, $1.50, postpaid, $1.60.

Written in a straightforward and pleasing style, this work will be found of great interest to genealogists as well as students of social life and customs. Several chapters are devoted to the English origin of the higher planting class, and authorities are liberally cited. The great events of life, and its diversions, are treated of in separate chapters, and the book is a valuable addition to Virginia.

MATTAPOISETT AND OLD ROCHESTER, MASSACHUSETTS. Being a history of these towns and also in part of Marion and a portion of Wareham. Prepared under the direction of a committee of the town of Mattapoisett. New York. The Grafton Press. 1907. 12D, cloth, pp. xii+424.

The various chapters in this history are by different hands, most of them, however, having been contributed by Miss Mary Hall Leonard and Mr. Lemuel LeBaron Dexter. There are about 150 pages of extracts from the Records, showing old Rochester soldiers and sailors, baptisms, marriages and lists of members of the Second Church, and other items. There are a number of good illustrations, and the index is well done. The work of this committee was in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the setting off of Mattapoisett from Rochester, and the result of their labors is a very worthy volume.

THE SACKETTS OF AMERICA, THEIR ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS, 1630-1907. By Charles H. Weygant. Newburgh, N. Y. Journal Print. 1907. Quarto, cloth, pp. 553.

Simon Sackett of Newtown (Cambridge), Mass., who came with a wife and one son in the Lyon in 1630, and John Sackett of New Haven, his brother, passenger in the same ship, with one son, are the progenitors of the large and highly respectable family whose records are herein set forth. The compiler has been generous and wise enough to include daughter's descendants, and many prominent people are to be found among them. Hon. Hamilton Fish, John Alsop, the Lawrences, the Kings, and many other well-known names appear among the daughters' descendants. In the male line will be found many military and civil records of importance. In some cases, the ancestors of allied families are given. The type is good, and good judgment has been used in the printing. There is an excellent index. This work has been long awaited, and is a very useful addition to genealogical records.

WILLIS RECORDS; OR RECORDS OF THE WILLIS FAMILY OF HAVERHILL, PORTLAND AND BOSTON. By Pauline Willis. London. Printed by St. Vincent's Press. 1906. 8vo, half leather, pp. 115.

Part I is concerned with the Willis family. Part II deals with the allied families of Gammell, Ball, McKinsty, Leonard, Kinsman, May, Sewall and Phillips. A third part contains family letters, but these and the illustrations are only included in volumes sent to members of the family.

THE HISTORY OF ULSTER COUNTY, NEW YORK. Edited by Alphonso T. Clearwater, LL.D. Kingston. W. J. Van Deusen. 1907. 8vo, leather, pp. 712+xii.

A new history of Ulster County, especially one edited by Judge Clearwater, is sure to attract attention. Perhaps the most important additions which this work makes to our knowledge of the county, are the carefully edited and corrected military records. About one hundred and fifty pages at the end of the book are devoted to biographical notices, and there is a partial index. The illustrations are remarkably good, and the book is of a more practical size than most county histories, and is attractively and substantially bound.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES OF THE CARPENTER FAMILY, including the Autobiography and Personal Reminiscences of Dr. Seymour D. Carpenter. Edited by Edwin Sawyer Walker, A. M. Springfield, Ill. Illinois State Journal Co., Printers. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. xv+242.

These Carpenters are descendants of Heinrich Zimmerman, anglicized Henry Carpenter, who came from Switzerland and settled in Pennsylvania. The major part of the book contains, in interesting narrative form, the family history, and the autobiography of Dr. Seymour D. Carpenter, and these are followed by the genealogy in brief, in an appendix. Letters, biographies, and other miscellaneous matter follow, and there is a good index. Dr. Carpenter was born in 1826, and spent his early life near Lancaster, Ohio. His recollections of pioneer life, and the War of the Rebellion, in which he served as a surgeon, being mustered out in 1865 with the rank of Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel, are full of interest.

THE ANCESTRY OF JANE MARIA GREENLEAF, wife of William Francis Joseph Boardman, Hartford, Connecticut. William F. J. Boardman. Hartford. Privately Printed. 1906. 8vo, cloth, pp. 133.

This is a companion volume to The Ancestry of William F. J. Boardman, and is arranged in the same manner. Allied families in this work are: Jones, Cleveland, Hartshorne, Hibbard, Champion, Johnson, Nichols, Sumner, Toocker and others. A number of family portraits are properly included, and the index is unusually good.

COLLECTIONS OF THE CONNECTICUT HISTORICAL SOCIETY, VOLUME XI. THE LAW PAPERS. Correspondence and Documents during Jonathan Law's Governorship of the Colony of Connecticut, 1741-1750. Vol. I, October, 1741-July, 1745. Hartford. Connecticut Historical Society. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. xxxv+391.

The Connecticut Historical Society, having previously published the correspondence and documents covering Joseph Talcott's governorship of the State, continue their work with the papers of Governor Law, who succeeded Talcott. Law was Governor at the time of the Louisbourg expedition in 1745, and during the trying times which succeeded it, and proved himself able and efficient under difficult conditions. This volume contains, amongst other valuable records, several lists of colonial soldiers.

VITAL RECORD OF RHODE ISLAND. Vol. XVI. James N. Arnold. Providence. Narragansett Historical Publishing Company. 1907. Quarto, cloth, pp. lxiv+601.

Like the previous volumes of this series, the present one will be found of the greatest assistance to genealogists. It contains marriages from The United States Chronicle and The Providence Semi-Weekly Journal, and both marriages and deaths from The American Journal, The Impartial Observer and The Providence Journal. These notices relate to persons all over the United States, and should not be overlooked by those making any genealogical research.

WILLIAMSBURG, THE OLD COLONIAL CAPITAL. Lyon Gardiner Tyler, LL.D., President of William and Mary College. Richmond. Whittet & Shepperson. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. 285.

This very interesting work, compiled by an authority of President Tyler's standing, is most acceptable to the students of early conditions in Virginia. Nearly one hundred pages of this book are filled with the history of William and Mary College, whose beginnings are found very nearly three hundred years ago, although the charter was not signed until February 8, 1693. But aside from the college, much of interest must always surround the old capital of Virginia. It was one of the earliest English settlements on this continent; in the house of burgesses here it was that Patrick Henry offered his famous set of resolutions upon the Stamp Act; it was here that Bruton Parish was established in 1674, and it was to the old parish church that a Bible has just been given by King Edward VII, and a lectern by President Roosevelt. The book is illustrated with good taste and judgment, many old views and facsimiles being shown, and there is a good index. Its general appearance is excellent.

MONOGRAPH ON THE SOUTHGATE FAMILY OF SCARBOROUGH, MAINE. THEIR ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS. Leonard B. Chapman. Portland, Me. Hubbard W. Bryant. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. viii+60.

These records are the outcome of a series of articles entitled Grandpa's Scrap Book, which appeared in the Deering News in 1900. Besides the Southgate data, considerable material on the Bowne, Boyd, Browne, Lawrence, Merrill and Smith families is presented here. Portraits of Bishop Southgate and Dr. Southgate are included, with a view of "Dunston Abbey." Some additional genealogical matter will be found in the Preface, and the index is well made and practical.

✕ GENEALOGY OF LAMB, ROSE AND OTHERS. Daniel Smith Lamb, A. M., M. D. Washington. Beresford, Printer. 1904. 8vo, stiff paper, pp. 100.

These are the ancestors of the compiler. The introduction gives a brief historical review of the early settlements in which the ancestors dwelt, followed by a list of counties in New Jersey and their principal towns in 1765. The principal families treated of, are: Bates, Clement, Colliers, Cranmer, Devinney, Hancock, Howard, Lamb, Matlack, Owen, Pennell, Rose, Stout and Van Princess. There are indices of names and places.

THE GRAVES WE DECORATE. Storer Post, No. 1, Department of New Hampshire, Grand Army of the Republic, Portsmouth, N. H. Prepared for Memorial Day, 1907, by Joseph Foster, member Storer Post. With an Appendix containing the list of graves and additional records prepared in 1893. Portsmouth. John D. Randall, Printer. 1907. 8vo, pamphlet, pp. 20+76.

This is a careful compilation by Mr. Foster, formerly a Pay Director in the Navy, now retired, who has for a number of years contributed genealogical material to the common knowledge. His work will be found of the greatest practical use. The names of the dead soldiers and sailors are given alphabetically under the names of their burial places, with service, rank or ship, death, age and part of the cemetery in which they lie. This work of Storer Post is worthy of emulation.

A CATALOGUE OF AUTOGRAPHS, BOOKS, MANUSCRIPTS, MEDALS, PEDIGREES, PORTRAITS, TRACTS AND OTHER MATTERS CONNECTED WITH THE SEVERAL FAMILIES OF THE NAME OF BAKER, now in the possession of Charles Edward Baker, Sherwhod, Nottingham, England. Nottingham. R. H. Judd, Printer. 1907. 12D, pamphlet, pp. 32.

This comprehensive title fully explains the little work. The lists of manuscripts ought to be of service to Baker genealogists, and the scheme of collection seems a most commendable one.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF CHEMUNG COUNTY, NEW YORK, FOR THE USE OF GRADED SCHOOLS. Ausburn Towner. New York. A. S. Barnes & Company. 1907. 12D, cloth, pp. ii+103.

While this history is written in a simple style for the purposes set forth, its footnotes will be found of value from a genealogical standpoint. A recapitulation of important events by years will be found in the back of the book.

NICHOLAS MUNDY AND DESCENDANTS WHO SETTLED IN NEW JERSEY IN 1665. Compiled by Rev. Ezra F. Mundy of Metuchen, N. J. Lawrence, Kansas. Bullock Printing Company. 1907. 8vo, cloth, pp. 160.

This work contains chiefly the record of Samuel, one of the sons of Nicholas Mundy. The compiler encountered the usual difficulty met with by those attempting New Jersey genealogy, but has succeeded in placing before us considerable material on the family, which is now largely scattered throughout the West.

THE ANCESTRY OF WILLIAM FRANCIS JOSEPH BOARDMAN, HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT. Being his lineage in all lines of descent from the emigrant ancestors in New England. William F. J. Boardman. Hartford. Privately printed. 1906. Quarto, cloth, pp. 419.

In this handsome ancestral memorial Mr. Boardman has apparently reached the apogee of his genealogical labors. Instead of dealing with each family name in a separate article, Mr. Boardman has arranged the work by generations, beginning with himself as generation number one. A second division of the book shows lines of descent from emigrant ancestors, and a third section contains charts. There are many excellent illustrations and a copious index.

IN OLDE NEW YORK. Sketches of old times and places in both the State and the city. Charles Burr Todd. New York. The Grafton Press. 1907. 12D, cloth, pp. 253.

A large portion of this volume was written twenty years ago and appeared in the Evening Post and Lippincott's Magazine, and is repeated with very little change because it describes types and conditions now passed away. This has its advantage, because the limited space allotted to this series, many things which were considered important twenty years ago would be slurred over in articles brought up to date. The author has a certain picturesqueness of style, and his accounts of persons and things are most realistic. Like Mattapoisett and Old Rochester, this is one of the Grafton Historical Series, edited by Henry R. Stiles, A. M., M. D.

WADHAMS FAMILY. A Genealogy of the Wadhams Family is being compiled by Harriet Wadhams Stevens (Mrs. George T.), 22 E. 46th Street, New York City. She would be glad to correspond with those interested.

SAMUEL WARD KING.

BY GEORGE AUSTIN MORRISON, JR., A.M., LL.B.

Samuel Ward King, the thirteenth Governor of the State of Rhode Island, was born on 23 May, 1786, at Johnston, Providence County, Rhode Island, and was the fifth child and third son of William Borden King and his wife Welthian Walton. He was a lineal descendant of Clement King, who appeared at Marshfield, Mass., in 1668 and removed to the Providence Plantations about 1687, where he died about 1690, leaving an eldest son John King, who had issue, a son Josiah King, who in due course had issue, a son William Borden King, the father of the future Governor. It is now clearly established that Clement Kinge, the first settler, was a son of Clement Kinge and Mary Raynor of St. Giles, Cripplegate, London, England, and a grandson of that Ralphe Kinge of Watford, Hertfordshire, England, who, in his will, dated 1 Aug., 1653, and proved 21 Nov., 1656 (P. C. C. Berkley 419), wrote in his own hand "and whereas my sonne Clement intended to make a will in writinge but the violence of his disease being so great he desired me not to have it perfected but said he would leave all to his wife's disposinge." Daniel Kinge, Gent. of Lynn, Mass., 1644, also mentioned in the will of his father, Ralphe Kinge, was an uncle of Clement Kinge of Marshfield. Through his mother, Mr. King was related to the Walton, Greene and Coggeshall Families, members of which held important and influential positions among the early Colonial settlers. Mr. King received his early education at the district school and for a short period was a student at Brown University, Providence.

He desired, however, to become a physician and as there was no medical schools in those days, he became the pupil and assistant of his relative, Dr. Peter Ballou, a learned and well established physician of Smithfield, R. I. After serving faithfully for some years, Mr. King received his certificate to practice medicine, dated 5 Aug., 1807, and signed by Peter Ballou, the original of which is still in the possession of his descendants.

Dr. King then started upon his career as a country doctor, but not finding that profession as lucrative as he expected, he him as their rightful Governor and informed him that the mass of the people were prepared to fight for their rights under his leadership. Mr. Dorr thereupon promptly issued a proclamation, signed as Governor, convening a General Assembly at Chepachet.

Governor King in turn had been active, calling upon the law-abiding citizens for aid and again appealing to the Federal Government, stating that he feared "insurgents from abroad" were being called into the State by Dorr and his friends. Finally on 25 June, 1842, martial law was proclaimed and serious steps taken to put down the so-called rebellion.

On 28 June, 1842, a small gathering of about 300 men with arms and 5 cannon met at Chepachet and made a military demonstration in favor of Mr. Dorr, seizing and fortifying "Acote's Hill," but upon the appearance of the State troops and other citizens to the aggregate number of 3,000 or more, the Dorr forces retreated from the field, and Mr. Dorr realizing that his cause was lost, ordered his forces to disperse and fled to Connecticut and subsequently to New Hampshire, a reward of $5,000 being offered by the Rhode Island State authorities for his capture. Gov. King applied to both Governors of Connecticut and New Hampshire for the surrender of Mr. Dorr, but both declined to take any action against the so-called "traitor," their sympathies being doubtless with the democratic rule. Quiet was entirely restored in a few days, and while a number of arrests had been made and a small number of persons imprisoned for a short period, the court proceedings were soon quashed and the incident closed.

Thus terminated the so-called "Dorr Rebellion" without serious injury to persons or property, the only blood shed being the death of one Alexander Kelby, an innocent by-stander who was wounded when the troops fired a volley at Pawtucket village on 27 June, 1842, and who subsequently died of his injuries.

The Legislature in June, 1842, now fully alive to the necessity for concession and change in the suffrage, issued a call for a new Constitutional Convention, which met at Providence in Sept., but adjourned to East Greenwich where, on 5 Nov., 1842, a new Constitution and form of government was adopted, based upon the old charter but eliminating most of the objectionable features of the ancient form of government. This Constitution, duly submitted to the people, was almost unanimously ratified by them and now forms the present Constitution of the State of Rhode Island.

Samuel Ward King was thus the last Governor of Rhode Island under the old Royal Charter.

Mr. Dorr subsequently returned of his own will to the State in 1843, was arrested and tried at Newport for high treason and on 27 June, 1844, condemned to imprisonment for life at hard labor. He was released, however, under a general Amnesty Act in 1847 and restored to his civil rights in 1851. In 1854 his friends in the Assembly succeeded in passing an act reversing the judgment in his case but the Supreme Court declared such act unconstitutional. Mr. Dorr died 27 Dec., 1854, and one of his biographers states "he was a man of strict honor and integrity and high character and to good abilities joined an untiring patience and an indomitable will."

The publications and newspaper articles for and against the Dorrites are voluminous, but viewed with the clear and calm judgment which reflection and years ever bring to concensus of public opinion, is that although the principles advocated for more liberal suffrage were sound, nevertheless the method attempted in carrying out such reform was unconstitutional and dangerous to the underlying principles of State government.

The attitude and action of Governor King during the entire episode was marked by constant watchfulness for the general public welfare, firmness in upholding the lawful authority of the State and conciliation toward the opposing party. His use of the military forces was temperate and able, and his tactful treatment of those of the "Suffragists" who were arrested, went far toward quieting party feeling and uniting the citizens into a law-abiding body.

Governor King was personally inclined toward a liberal interpretation of the charter and an extension of the voting power and it was due to his efforts in that direction that the new constitution was finally adopted. At the same time his sense of justice and right forbade any resort to violence for the purpose of forcing the illegally framed Dorr Constitution upon the State and he opposed this effort of the discontented element with all the resources at his command.

He was in his family and social life a man of peculiar charm of manner, a good conversationalist and possessed a well informed and retentive mind. His views upon questions of the day were liberal and founded upon well digested investigation, but he was tenacious of his opinion and direct in all statements of personal and political policies. Perhaps one of his most admirable qualities was a whole-hearted generosity and confidence in his fellow men, and it is said that he more than once returned to his country home without his coat, having given that garment to some unfortunate met on the road side.

Governor King was m. on 20 May, 1813, by Elder Elisha Sprague at Johnston, to Catherine Latham Angell, only child of Olney and Mary (Waterman) Angell, b. 6 July, 1795; d. 4 May, 1841. She was a lineal descendant on her mother's side of Frances, dau. of Lewis Latham, Falconer to King Charles I.

The children of Samuel Ward King and Catherine Latham Angell were as follows:

- i. Mary Waterman, b. 1 Dec., 1814; d. 26 March, 1815.
- ii. Mary Anna, b. 1 March, 1816.
- iii. Eliza Smith, b. 23 Jan., 1818.
- iv. James Laurence, b. 24 March, 1820.
- v. Charles Rollin, b. 8 May, 1822.
- vi. Samuel Ward, b. 4 Aug., 1824; d. 9 April, 1826.

held at Newport on 5 May, which was adjourned to meet at Providence on 5 July, 1841, where a call was directed for a State constitutional convention. An election of delegates was held on 28 Aug., 1841, who proceeded to meet at Providence on 4 Oct., and frame a form of Constitution, which was submitted to the people at a general election held the 27, 28 and 29 Dec., 1841. The Dorr party claimed that at this election 13,944 citizens, which number was not only a majority of the adult population of the State, but also a majority of those entitled to suffrage under the charter, voted to accept the new People's Constitution as that of the State.

There can be no question but that this constitutional convention, the constitution then framed, and the subsequent election to ratify same, were illegal.

The supporters of the government forthwith organized themselves into a so-called "Law and Order" Party, which was derisively called the "Landholders" Party by Dorr and his associates, who branded all opposed to their views and claims as "Aristocrats."

Realizing the serious nature of this popular movement and the necessity for some change in the voting qualification, the regular Legislature met on 6 Feb., 1841, and in turn called a Constitutional Convention, the duly elected delegates to which met in Nov. and adjourned until Feb., 1842. On this last date they agreed upon a form of Constitution, which was submitted to the people (entitled to vote under the old Royal Charter) on 21, 22 and 23 March, 1842, and rejected.

Meanwhile Governor King foreseeing that the rapid growth of the suffragist party and its revolutionary and rebellious attitude towards the established government would lead to serious trouble, on 4 April, 1842, sent a committee and two letters to President Tyler at Washington, stating "that Rhode Island was threatened with domestic violence," and asking for recognition and assistance in case of need. The President replied on 11 April stating that while he recognized the regular State Government, in his opinion the necessity for armed intervention by the Federal government had not as yet arisen, nor did it appear that the regular Government of Rhode Island was not able to cope with the situation; he therefore declined to interfere previous to an actual outbreak but promised if an insurrection should take place to come to the aid of the established government.

On 18 April, 1842, the so-called "Suffrage Party" held an election under the terms of the so-called "Suffrage" constitution, at which they chose Mr. Dorr, their leader, as Governor, and a Legislature composed entirely of his supporters.

The People's Assembly forthwith met for organization in Providence on 3 May, 1842, received Governor Dorr's inaugural message, remained in session for two days, during which they passed several unimportant acts, and then adjourned to meet in Jan., 1843. It never met again however, as later the movement was suppressed.

As soon as the rejection of the "Landholders" constitution was known, Governor King convened the General Assembly in extra session on 25 April, 1842, and they then passed an act known as the "Algerine Act," making it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine and imprisonment for any person to act as Moderator or Clerk at any election meeting, under the People's Constitution, and treason for any person to accept office under it. At the same time Governor King warned the militia to be ready for service at thirty minutes' notice.

The regular government in turn proceeded to hold the usual election under the charter, 20 April, 1842, and chose Samuel Ward King Governor for the third term.

Each government now claimed legislative power and while the regular government officers proceeded to organize at Newport on 3 May, the People's Party issued an appeal to arms and marching upon the State House in Providence attempted to seize the government offices. The "Law and Order" Party however, anticipating such action, had taken possession of the State House and barricaded the doors, so that Dorr and his friends could not effect an entry.

Matters now assumed so serious a look that many of Dorr's supporters hesitated to come into direct conflict with the governing powers and began to withdraw from his support and desert the party.

Governor King thoroughly alarmed at the situation once more despatched a committee with a letter to the President on 4 May, 1842, to which a second non-committal reply was made by the Washington authorities. On 17 May, 1842, Governor King was informed that an attempt would be made by the Dorrites to seize the State Offices and he immediately issued a Proclamation for the troops to repair to the State Arsenal and take up arms.

Meanwhile Mr. Dorr collected his forces, and on the evening of the 18 May, 1842, made an armed attempt to seize the State Arsenal at Providence, which was thwarted by the appearance of the troops, commanded by Governor King in person.

Mr. Dorr realizing the serious character of his attempt, and the consequences of its failure, fled to Connecticut, whence he set out for Washington to seek the sanction and support of the Federal authorities. Governor King immediately proclaimed $1,000 reward for his capture and punishment, at the same time writing the President on 25 May, setting forth the actions of the "Suffrage or People's Party," and stating that Dorr was actively engaged in raising forces in other States against the Government of Rhode Island.

The Federal Government however again declined to intervene in the matter on behalf of either party, and Mr. Dorr then returned to Rhode Island, stopping in New York on his way back, where he was cordially welcomed by the leaders of Tammany Hall and assured of their sympathy and support.

When Mr. Dorr reached the village of Chepachet, a small hamlet ten miles from Providence, in the Town of Gloucester, he was met by an enthusiastic crowd of his adherents, who acclaimed

Of these fourteen children, only seven reached adult age, and with the death of Charles Rollin King on 12 Jan., 1903, the male line of Governor King's family became extinct. After ending his last term as Governor, Mr. King retired from active life and d. on 21 Jan., 1851, at Providence, being buried in the private burial ground of the Kings at Johnston, R. I. A brief obituary of Governor King states: "The firm and conciliatory course pursued by Governor King did much to allay the bitterness of party strife and secure the satisfactory result which was at length reached in the settlement of the important questions which had agitated the public mind." . . . "Few men have enjoyed in their day to a greater degree the confidence of the public, and few men in their private lives have exhibited greater amiability and generous kindness of heart. In the troublous times of 1842 his conduct won the approbation of friends and conciliated his opponents and in his voluntary retirement he carried with him the respect and esteem even of those against whom he acted in seasons of unusual difficulties." The portrait of Governor King is taken from a very old painting, now in the possession of his descendants in Providence—and is said to be a good likeness.

In the course of tracing the ancestry of Martha Goodspeed, the wife of John Crosby of Lee, Mass., back to the emigrant ancestor, a curious error was discovered in the statement set forth in the work entitled Notes on Barnstable Families by Otis.

The data concerning the Crosby family stated that John Crosby, son of John and Mary Crosby, m. Martha Goodspeed of Barnstable, Mass., they having been published on 22 Aug., 1766, and m. on 26 Nov., 1766, by Nymphas Marston, Esq., in Barnstable. John Crosby with his wife and children removed to Lee, Berkshire County, Mass., in 1780, and in 1781 united with the Congregational Church there. Martha (Goodspeed) Crosby d. in 1812 at Lee, Mass., and her tombstone in the Lee Cemetery bears the following inscription:

*"In Memory of Mrs. Martha Crosby, wife of Mr. John Crosby, Sr., who died 25 May 1812 in the 71st. year of her age.

Farewell all sublunary things
I go to see the King of Kings."

From the age given on her tombstone it would appear that this Martha Goodspeed was b. 1741-2.

The record of the Goodspeed family contained in Otis' Notes on Barnstable Families, p. 404, shows that a Martha Goodspeed, dau. of James and Elizabeth (Fuller) Goodspeed, was b. on 31

* See Crosby Genealogy by C. C. McLean, pp. 3 and 4, and History of Lee, Mass.

July, 1741, at Barnstable, Mass., but Otis adds "She married on 12 June, 1760, Samuel Winslow of Hardwick."

A genealogical problem was at once presented as to whether the Martha Goodspeed, wife of John Crosby, was identical with that Martha Goodspeed who m. Samuel Winslow, or was an entirely different person, and whether she was a dau. of James Goodspeed or not.

An examination of the Winslow Memorial disclosed that Martha Goodspeed, wife of Samuel Winslow, was b. on 7 Feb., 1739, at Barnstable, Mass., and the History of Hardwick, Mass., and the History of Pomfret, Vt., confirmed this statement concerning the age of Martha (Goodspeed) Winslow. This birth date agreed with the birth date of a Martha Goodspeed, dau. of Ebenezer Goodspeed, given by Otis, p. 404, and thus clearly proved the existence of two of the name of Martha Goodspeed, both of Barnstable, Mass., born within a year or so of each other. Otis had erroneously allotted Martha, dau. of James Goodspeed, as the wife of Samuel Winslow, when his wife was clearly Martha, dau. of Ebenezer Goodspeed.

In order to make the proof of this error stronger, a letter was addressed to the town clerk of Pomfret, Vt., asking for a copy of the inscription on the tombstone of Martha (Goodspeed) Winslow. The town clerk in due course forwarded a letter which she had obtained from Mr. Walter E. Perkins, who had been making a study of Pomfret history for some years, which reads as follows:

Pomfret, Vt., August 10, 1907.

MRS. E. P. PERKINS, Town Clerk, Pomfret Vt.:

Respecting the inquiry of Louise Tracy of New Haven, will say, the grave of Martha Goodspeed, wife of Samuel Winslow, is at the Cushing Cemetery in Woodstock. The gravestone says: died March 9 1813, aged 74 years.

I have never seen the Winslow Genealogy, but here is what Samuel Winslow wrote: "I Samuel Winslow was born at Rochester april ye 6 Day old Stile A. D. 1735 my wife martha goodspede was born at Barnstable february ye 7 Day old stile 1739 we was marad at Barnstable june ye 12 New Stile A D. 1760"

"My Mother Martha Winslow Departed this Life at pomfret on the Ninth Day March 1813 at 9 a clock A M hur age was seventy four years and eighteen days old after a short But Distressing sickness of (—?) Days of Lung fever She Diede with a Smile on Her Countenance she lived with us twelve years ten Munths into 3 Day

March 9 1813

Ebenezer Winslow her oldest Son"

Respectfully yours,

WALTER E. PERKINS.

This letter certainly settles the question as to which Martha Goodspeed m. Samuel Winslow.

† In the sketch of (9) James^o Green, there is an error which should be corrected, it appears on page 8 of reprint. Speaking of Mary Drake, I should have said her mother was Hannah Moore, dau. of Deacon John Moore, for she was not a dau. of Henry Wolcott as has been said many times.

dation was visible some years since. It was afterward occupied by Mrs. John Marshall (who was Elizabeth Winslow) and her dau. Ruth. The foundation has now fallen into the river with the ground about it.

24. WILLIAM¹ GREEN (James,² William,³ William¹), b. Aug. 26, 1760; bap. March 14, 1773. Went into the navy, when young, during the war of Independence. He never returned and it was reported to his family that he was drowned trying to escape from the prison ship in Wallabout Bay, N. Y. Harbor. The Conn. ship-of-war, Oliver Cromwell, was ordered Dec. 5, 1777, to enlist crews with all speed, under the rules of the Continental Congress. Timothy Parker was made captain. She was built at Saybrook, 1775. April 20, 1778, Parker reported prizes taken, the Cyrus, 16 guns, the Admiral Keppel, 18 guns. In his report he speaks of the merit of his officers in action, "keeping such inexperienced young boys (as many of them were) to their quarters, without the show of fear or noise or confusion." Hence William then in his 18th year was not the only boy.

In a list* of prisoners committed to Forton prison, Eng., Oct. 13, 1777, appears the name "William Green, ship Oliver Cromwell." Another entry, same name, without vessel, later. The History of New London, says, "the crew were released Aug., 1779, they had been on prison ships Jersey and Good Hope." Webb's statement published in the N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record,† says: "The Cromwell was not captured until 1781. The list of Prison Ship Martyrs also has his name. He may have been in England as a prisoner and sent back for exchange or other reasons.

He had the example of his father who had gone to the war and his teacher, Nathan Hale, the martyr, who lived with them and was dead.

In the family cemetery on the Belden place is buried Mrs. Catharine Knickerbacker, who d. 4 Sept., 1772, in her 19th year. She may have been the young wife of one of Harmen's sons. In that cemetery are also buried two sons of Lawrence and Mary Knickerbacker, Samson, who d. 8 July, 1793, in his 5th year, and Silas, who d. 27 April, 1806, in his 10th year.

17. ELISABETH⁹ KNICKERBOCKER (Laurens,⁹ Harmen Jansen¹), no record of birth; d. 23 April, 1793, at Dover Plains, N. Y.; m. Gabriel Dutcher, b. 2 Feb., 1720, at Tackkanick, N. Y.; bap. 10

April, 1720, at Lonenburg, N. Y. (New York City Lutheran Church Records), son of Roelof De Deutser* and Jannetje Bressie. Gabriel moved from Dutchess County, N. Y., to Salisbury, Conn., with his parents and there inherited his portion of the estate. He returned to Dutchess County after 1759, but after his wife's death in 1793, went to live with his son John at Cherry Valley, N. Y., where he died. His wife was buried in the old graveyard at Dover Plains. Children:

- i. Lauwrenz,⁴ b. 17 Jan., 1740; bap. at Athens, N. Y.; m. 5 Nov., 1761, at Oblong, N. Y., Geertruy Wheeler.
- ii. Rulof, bap. 24 Aug., 1741, at Athens, N. Y.; "b. five weeks before at Camp;" spon.: Lour. and Marytje Knickerbocker, "the grandparents."
- iii. Mary, m. 8 Jan., 1765, at Oblong, N. Y., Edwardus Wheeler, formerly of Livingston's Manor. They had a son John, bap. 25 Dec., 1777, at Mr. Silas Belding's house (South Amenia, N. Y. records). It is not proved that Mary belongs to this family.
- iv. Benjamin, bap. 29 Jan., 1744, at Germantown, N. Y.; spon.: Pieter Ben and Malche Knickerbocker. Benjamin moved to Dutchess County, later to White Creek, Washington County, N. Y., and finally to Shaftsbury, Vt., where he d. He m. Thankful Benson. They had eight children for whose descendants see Ballou's History of Milford, Worcester Co., Mass.

* Roelof De Deutser, m. 17 Nov., 1700, at Kingston, N. Y., Jannetje Bressie, dau. of Christoffel Bressie and Styntje Claes. He d. 19 Jan., 1737, and his wife d. 26 July, 1749.

The origin of the Dutcher family in this country is obscure. Two branches appear at Kingston. The first represented by Machteltje Roelofse De Deutser, who m. 19 Aug., 1683, at Flatbush, Long Island, Jan Hendricksen Oosterom, and had children bap. at Bergen, Flatbush and Kingston. She was dau. of Roelof Willemsen (Van Heerden) of Albany, New York City and Brooklyn, and Willemtje Tyse, who m. (2). Jan Cornelisen Buys. The second branch consists of the following De Deutsers:—Cornelia Janse, who m. prior to 1689, Jan Wels; Cornelis, who m. prior to 1693, Leonora de Hooges, widow of Willem de la Montague; Catharina, b. at Flatbush (Kingston), who m. 11 Feb., 1700, at Kingston, Jan Rolan, widower of Judick Schirard; Dirick, b. at Hurley, who m. 19 Nov., 1699, at Kingston, Jannetje Bont; Roelof, who m. 17 Nov., 1700, at Kingston, Jannetje Brussy; Barent of Tarrytown, N. Y., who m. (1) prior to 1701, Marijke Conkele, and m. (2) 29 Dec., 1717, Dirckje Smit, widow of Hendrick Lammersen; and David, b. in Esopus, who m. 19 Feb., 1714, at Kingston, Elisabeth Deffenport. It is probable that they are brothers and sisters, for we find them standing reciprocally as sponsors at baptisms of each others children, and prominent among those children the names Johannes and Margrietje. "John Williamson, ye Dutcher," took the oath of English allegiance in Ulster County, 1 Sept., 1689, and "Cornelis ye Dutcher" failed to appear. Jan Willemsen Brant and Grietje Cornelise had children bap. at Kingston: Willem, 22 Jan., 1662, and Tys, 24 April, 1681. Further research may prove that the second branch of the Dutcher family are children of Jan Willemsen Brant and that he is a brother of Roelof Willemsen previously mentioned.

For further particulars concerning the Dutcher family see Our Colonial Ancestors and Their Descendants, by Henry Whittemore.

- v. Cornelius, bap. 24 May, 1746, at Germantown; spon.: Cornelius Knickerbocker and Ellaar Ben.

- vii. Catharina, b. 17 Sept., 1749; bap. at Athens; no spon.; may have m. William Woolcutt. They lived in Dover, N. Y., and had a son Sebastian, b. 13 Dec., 1748; bap. at South Amenia, N. Y.; spon.: John Wheeler and Ruth Samson.

On the 1 May, 1768, they became church members at Mount Ross, N. Y. 20. JANETIE (JOHANNEKE)³ KNICKERBOCKER (Laurens,² Harmen Jansen¹), b. 5 Nov., 1721; d. 18 March, 1799; m. 27 Dec., 1743, Silas Belden, b. 13 Nov., 1717, at Wethersfield, Conn.; d. 9 April, 1787 (data from family records); son of Silas Belden and Abigail Robbins. The house where Silas brought his bride stood in what was called Dover, or more exactly the town of Washington, at the foot of Plymouth Hill, on the left-hand side going up from Dover. Their grandsons Lawrence and Silas began their married lives in the homestead, but later Silas moved to the second house at the right of the foot of Plymouth Hill, on the right side of the road from Amenia. Lawrence remained and finally built a new house, moving the old one to the rear but with a space between them. A few months after the death of his wife, Louisa Ketcham Gregory, both structures were torn down. Tabor Belden (son of Joseph Belden and Eliphah Tabor) and his son Joseph built the present house on the lawn back of the old homestead further up the road and in the town of Amenia.

Silas Belden, Sen., of Charlotte Precinct, Dutchess County, made his will 20 Feb., 1786, proved 19 April, 1786, and recorded at Albany. In it he mentions wife Janetie, sons Silas and Lowrens, and daus. Mary, Jane and Elizabeth, and heirs of dau. Abegal and Katrine. He wills personal property and land in Charlotte Precincts, in Salisbury, Vermont, and in Canaan Township, Albany County. Executors, the wife, son Lourens and son-in-law Christopher Dutcher (Fernow's Calendar of Wills, p. 47).

Children of Silas Belden and Jane Knickerbocker:

- ii. Mary, b. 5 Nov., 1746; d. y.
- iii. Lorentz, bap. 25 Jan., 1747, at Germantown, N. Y.; spon.: Lorentz and Mariken Knickerbocker; d. y.
- iv. Laurentz, bap. 22 Feb., 1749, at Germantown; spon.: Benjamin and Catharina Knickerbocker; d. y.

- vi. Mary, b. 23 Feb., 1751; m. her cousin Christopher Dutcher, bap. 3 Jan., 1748, at Germantown, son of Gabriel Dutcher and Elisabeth Knickerbocker. Either the date of her birth or that of the preceding Lawrence is wrong. We are inclined to think that the latter should be b. 18 Dec., 1748, and refers to a younger Lawrence.
- 68 vii. Abigail, b. 4 March, 1753; m. Clement Ray. She d. before Feb., 1786.
- 69 viii. Lawrence, b. 2 Sept., 1755; d. 20 Dec., 1832; m. 3 Oct., 1776, Susanna Wheeler.

Nathan was the son of Nathan, son of Samuel, son of Samuel, son of Samuel who came to Salem about 1639 from England; he was a soldier of the Revolution, and first settler of Stockbridge, New York. Any one having any information about any of the ancestors or descendants of Nathan Edson are requested to communicate with me.

GEORGE THOMAS EDSON, Rumley, Van Buren Co., Ark.

MAYO.—I am compiling a brief history of the descendants of John Mayo of Roxbury, Mass., and of the Rev. John Mayo of Barnstable, Mass., and any facts and material of an historical or biographical nature, bearing on the use of this name will be highly appreciated, and all information gladly received in order to compile a full genealogical record.

MONNETT.—In New York in the Revolution appears the record of Anger Monett, as an enlisted man in the Orange County Militia (p. 255). Who can give any further information concerning him, his ancestors or descendants?

In "Report, State Historian, Col. Ser., Vol. II, p. 499, appears the record of Abraham Munnett (phonetic spelling was Monnett), as ensign 1738 in Capt. Thos. Van Pelt's Co. of Richmond Co. Militia, Richard Stillwell, Col. I am inclined to think he was a son of Isaac Monnett of Calvert Co., Maryland. Who can give any further information concerning him, his ancestry or descendants?

I am interested in any one of the name, as variously spelled: Monet, Monete, Monette, Monnet, Monnete, Monnet, Monnette, Munnett, Munnitt, Money, Maunay, etc.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE BIBLIOGRAPHER'S MANUAL OF AMERICAN HISTORY, by Thomas Lindsley Bradford, M.D. Edited and revised by Stan. V. Henkels. Vol. I, A to E, Nos. 1-1,600, pp. 340; Vol. II, F to L, Nos. 1,601-3,103, pp. 349. Cloth, Royal 8vo. Press of Maurice H. Power, Philadelphia, Pa. 1907.

This work, which will ultimately reach five volumes, contains an account of all State, Territory, Town and County histories relating to the United States with verbatim copies of their titles and useful bibliographical notes, together with the prices at which they have been sold for the last forty years. The final volume will consist of two indices arranged alphabetically, one of short titles of authors, under the names of the States; the other of titles of subjects, localities, names of towns; the references in both these indices being to the number of the book in the author-title. This comprehensive list fills a long felt want among historians, librarians and collectors, and it is reasonable to predict will be the standard reference book on Americana for years to come. The subject matter evinces the greatest care and research and a thorough digest of all catalogues, lists and copyrighted publications, while the plan and scope of the work reflects the highest credit on the compiler and editor. No library of any pretension should be without this Manual and it should prove invaluable to those interested in historical subjects. The type, paper, composition and binding leave nothing to be desired and form practical working volumes, which deserve extensive patronage and success.

THE CHEROKEE INDIANS, with special reference to their relations with the United States Government, by Thomas Valentine Parker, Ph.D. Cloth, 12mo, pp. 116. The Grafton Press, 1907.

This small volume is a valuable addition to the Grafton Historical Series and in style, typography and binding fully up to the high standard set by these publishers. The treatment of the American Indian by the Federal Government has been the subject of so much ignorant and prejudiced criticism that any authoritative study of the problem will be more than welcome. The Cherokees being one of the "five civilized tribes," of a high order of intelligence and civilization, and largely Christians, are admirable examples of the application of Federal principals and policies to the Indian question. The work is well arranged, clearly and forcibly written, and evidences much research on the part of its author to establish his facts. It will be a valuable addition to literature already printed on this subject.

DUNHAM GENEALOGY. ENGLISH AND AMERICAN BRANCHES, by Isaac Watson Dunham, A.M. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 363. Press of Bulletin Print, Norwich, Conn. 1907. Full Index.

This work sets forth the general records of families named Dunham in England and the claim of specific descent of Deacon John Dunham from Sir John Dunham of Schrooby. The compiler asserts that "John Dunham, the emigrant," was identical with that "John Goodman," whose name appears as one of the signers of the Mayflower pact of 11 November, 1620, and that he adopted the Goodman name to escape religious persecution. This assumption appears to be unsupported by any substantial proof and is the more improbable in that no other signer of the pact used an "alias" or substituted a false name. Much time, labor and ingenuity has been expended upon tracing the Dunham descendants in America and the record appears to be complete and accurate. It is to be regretted that the system of indicating genealogical descent and indexing is one peculiar to Mr. Dunham and not the standard and accredited system. The book is illustrated with a cut of the Dunham Arms in colors and portraits of ancestors.

RECORD OF THE FARGO FAMILY, by John J. Giblyn. Morocco, 12mo, pp. 32. Privately printed. Press of The American Bank Note Co. 1907.

A brief and well arranged genealogy of the descendants of Moses Fargo, and his wife, Sarah, who emigrated from Wales about 1680 and settled at New London, Conn. The spirit which prompted a descendant to collect and place in permanent printed form the genealogy of this early New England family should be highly commended as it preserves for all time a record of a family of commercial importance. The press work is excellent and the pamphlet is well bound and contains a full index of names.

SOME SPECIAL STUDIES IN GENEALOGY. I. AMERICAN EMIGRANTS—HOW TO TRACE THEIR ENGLISH ANCESTRY, by Gerald Fothergill. II. THE QUAKER RECORDS, by Josiah Newmab, F. R. Hist. Soc. III. THE GENEALOGY OF THE SUBMERGED, by Charles A. Bernau. Cloth, 12mo, pp. 96. Press of Dunn Collin & Co., London. 1908.

For those unskilled in the intricacies of the English Record Offices this little work will prove invaluable, setting forth, as it does clearly and tersely, the successive steps to be followed in tracing our English forbears. It is astonishing to learn that a complete alphabetical list of all Quaker births, marriages and deaths from about 1650 down to the present time can be found at Devonshire House, whereby any Quaker descendant can in a few moments find his ancestry, if recorded. The chapter on the Genealogy of the Submerged, viz.: paupers, vagrants, tramps, bastards and removed families, is a revelation of a hitherto unexplored source of family history and in defence of such searching it may be quoted that one of the great-grandmothers of Queen Anne was only a poor bar-maid of a public house. This complete small book should be consulted by any one contemplating searching among the English records.

HERALDRY AS ART, by G. W. Eve. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 308. Full index. Published by B. T. Batsford, 94 High Holborn. Imported by Charles Scribner's Sons. Press of The Selwood Printing Works, Fram and London. 1907.

This work fills a long desired want and the author is to be highly complimented upon his simple, direct and scholarly treatment of an intricate science. Perhaps no art has suffered more at the hands of ignorant and unskillful craftsmen than the gentle art of tracing coat-armor. In spite of numerous treatises on the subject, the modern use of heraldry in architecture, painting, ceramics, decorations and sculpture has been lamentably bad, in part owing to the difficulty in acquiring a sound knowledge of the subject, and in part due to the inherent desire of modern workmen to improve or create new forms for what the ancient designers had developed into an exact science. Mr. Eve has not only recognized the inartistic results of modern heraldic decoration, but has set about pointing out the plain path to a revival of correct chivalric picture-painting and has compiled an admirable guide for future illustrators. His work is a "book beautiful" in selection and finish of type and in clearness of illustration—some of the cuts being almost as fine as engravings, and those illustrations made from his own design indicate artistic conception and feeling of a high order. The author's style is clear and terse, the lesson taught in the text being the more easily learned because the opinions are modestly advanced and courteously expressed. The book deserves liberal patronage and will be a most desirable addition to the collections of those bibliophiles interested in artistic subjects.

GENEALOGY OF THE HILL, DEAN, PINCKNEY, AUSTIN, BARKER, ANDERSON, RHOADES AND FINCH FAMILIES, by Franklin Couch, LL.B. Cloth, small Quarto, pp. 120. Full index. Printed for private circulation by Newburgh Journal Co. 1907.

This comprehensive genealogy of seven prominent families, related to the Hill Family, was completed from data furnished by Mr. Uriah Hill, Jr., of Peekskill, N. Y., who was greatly interested in perpetuating a record of his forefathers for all time. It is an encouraging sign for future genealogical research in this State when one of such practical business life as Mr. Hill devotes his leisure hours to sustaining and advancing Mr. Couch in collecting such records as these. The line is traced in detail from Anthony Hill, an Englishman, born in Holland, who came to America in 1720, settled in New York City and eventually removed to Fox Meadows, now part of Scarsdale, Westchester Co., N. Y. The book is well printed, in legible type with good margins, and while the arrangement of heads of families does not show the full line of descent at a glance, yet the numerical system employed enables one to turn back to the preceding ancestor with ease and despatch. The work should receive a welcomed place among the standard genealogies of New York State families.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE HERNE FAMILY, from A.D. 1066 to A.D. 1907, by William T. Herne. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 753. Press of Examiner Printing Co., Independence, Mo. 1907.

Although the author of this work heads its title with the words "Brief History," the size of the volume and the voluminous data dealt with all bear witness to a marvelous amount of patience, industry and perseverance. As a record of William Herne, the London merchant, who came to America in 1680, and of others bearing the Herne name, whenever and wherever mentioned in Mss., State, County, Town and Family records, and newspaper of the day, this book will be found most complete and Mr. Herne is to be congratulated upon the successful result of years of study and research. It is profusely illustrated with wood cut portraits of the Hernes and their numerous descendants, and while the fact that it has no full name index and is not arranged according to genealogical methods will militate against its utility as a work of general reference, nevertheless it will be treasured by those whose families appear in its pages.

GENEALOGY OF THE JAQUETT FAMILY, by Edwin Jaquett Sellers. Revised Edition—Limited to 100 copies. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 226. Press of Allen, Lane & Scott, Philadelphia. 1907.

This record of an ancient Delaware Family, in type, press work, quality of paper and illustrations, attains a standard seldom reached in genealogical publications. The author traces his descent in unbroken lineage from Pierre Jaquet, citizen of Geneva, Switzerland, about 1500, who was the ancestor of Jean Paul Jaquet, the first of his name in this country, in the year 1654. The early records of this family when in Geneva and Nuremberg are given with extraordinary completeness and the expense, time and care which must have been devoted to searching for, examining and transcribing these Swiss and German records would seem enormous. The author has arranged the names upon a numerical plan, which is somewhat confusing to the average student of genealogy, and while this system lends itself to ready reference, when studied and thoroughly comprehended, yet its general utility is not to be compared with the standard plan, followed by the chief magazines and publications. An individual and thus necessarily limited system of indicating descent can never be consulted with ease and expedition by the general reading public, no matter how clear and perfect it may seem to its deviser. The book is fully indexed and well worth acquisition by those who desire a select library of genealogical publications.

LANE GENEALOGIES, Volume III, compiled by James Hill Fitts. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 439. The Nair-Letter Press, Exeter, N. Y. 1906. Full Index.

This is the concluding volume of the series and deals with the English Family of Lane settled at Rickmansworth, Hertfordshire, England, 1542-1758; Job Lane of Malden, Mass., 1649; James Lane of Casco Bay, Maine, 1650, and Edward Lane of Boston, Mass., 1657. The compiler, now deceased, has collected a valuable number of records, and after arranging the varied families—not necessarily related—has placed them in such genealogical form as to render the task of the future family historian in continuing the lines comparatively easy. The extracts from English wills of Lane are particularly interesting and the fact that from 1652-1816, or about one hundred and fifty years, the Job Lane family received an annual rental from the English estates, is an unparalleled instance in New England history. So few of the early Colonial families can make the connecting link with English ancestry of good yeoman stock that every additional work tracing origin in the Old Country is more than welcome. The book is the production of a scholar and merits the highest praise, not only for its accuracy and research, but for the admirable style of arrangement and letter press. It is well illustrated with portraits and pictures of the Lane kith and kin.

GENEALOGIES OF THE LEWIS AND KINDRED FAMILIES, edited by John Meriwether McAllister and Lura Boulton Tandy. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 416. Press of E. W. Stephens Publishing Co., Columbia, Mo. 1906. Full Index.

The authors of this interesting record frankly avow their desire to compile a genealogy of the Lewis Family of Virginia rather than a biographical record of their ancestry and have completed a work of value and utility. Every item of importance in public or private records has been secured and given its place in the pages of the book. The press work, paper and binding are excellent, without being extravagant, and the reading matter is tersely set forth. The arrangement of the lines of descent and the index are unusual, an individual system being used rather than a standard one. No matter how clear and simple such may be to the authors, it is difficult for the general student of genealogy and to this extent the usefulness of the book will be crippled.

MACOMBER GENEALOGY, by Rev. Everett S. Stackpole. Paper, 8vo, pp. 88. Press of The Journal Company, Lewiston, Me. 1907.

A well arranged genealogical record of John Macomber of Taunton, Mass., 1643, and his descendants, brother of William Macomber of Duxbury, 1638. The compiler has taken particular pains to trace the Revolutionary and Mayflower ancestry and his search among public and private records appears to be exhaustive. He further gives full notes upon those in England and Scotland bearing the Macomber name and a frank criticism and description of the several alleged Macomber coats-of-arms, which in most cases appear to have been made to order. His disavowal of all pretensions in regard to the right to coat-armor without ample proof of authority to bear same is encouraging in this age of sham pedigrees and impossible royal descents. Mr. Stackpole has gone to some expense in collecting and publishing this record, and his appeal for subscribers to the book deserves generous response, particularly as the contemplated genealogy of William Macomber of Marshfield, 1638, cannot be issued unless the sales of the present genealogy warrant the future volume. It is to be regretted that no present index has been printed, although the intention is to index both volumes, when the second volume is issued.

AN ABSTRACT OF A GENEALOGICAL COLLECTION, by Malcolm Macbeth. Volume I. Paper, Small Quarto, pp. 50. Press of Nixon-Jones Printing Co., St. Louis, Mo.

The idea of this preliminary publication is to place data so far collected before the public in such shape that members and kinsman of the Macbeth Family will be interested in correcting all errors and forwarding such additional information as they may possess. The names of a number of Huguenot families will be found on these pages, with facsimiles of original signatures, etc., and it is earnestly hoped that those related will make many additions to the compiler's store of genealogical history. The completed genealogy will contain over 55 portraits of ancestors, and about 75 pictures of houses occupied, monuments, tombstones, etc., and be issued in three volumes.

MEN OF AMERICA. A Biographical Dictionary of Contemporaries. Edited by John W. Leonard. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 2,188. Press of L. R. Hamersly & Co., New York. 1908.

The utility of this work cannot be questioned and the list of names appears to be a fairly representative one in view of the difficulty of choice involved. A number of like publications have been issued during the past few years and contain many prominent names omitted from the present work, so that the editor seems to have produced a selective rather than comprehensive book. The magnitude of his task, however, precludes perfection and the list of biographies will be welcome as a ready book of reference.

NEW ENGLAND FAMILY HISTORY, Vol. I, April 1, 1908, No. 4. Edited and published by Henry Cole Quinby, A.B., LL.B. Paper, Royal 8vo, pp. 42. New York. 1908.

This quarterly has undertaken to place in print the genealogical records of families of Maine and Massachusetts. Its pages will doubtless be devoted to printing the history of those early settlers, whose families have been less prominent and hence more neglected than the original Colonial leaders and their descendants. This purpose at once entitles it to a safe place upon the shelves of all historical-genealogical libraries and will result in the preservation of data rapidly becoming most difficult to secure. The magazine is well illustrated and printed and should do considerable work in the line selected.

NEW JERSEY ARCHIVES, First Series, Volume XXVI, Newspaper Extracts, Volume VII, 1768-1769, Edited by William Neilson. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 649. Full index. The Call Printing and Publishing Co. 1904.

A continuation of the publication of Documents relating to the Colonial History of the State, the present volume consisting of extracts from American Newspapers relating to New Jersey. No more instructive and valuable work could have been undertaken by the New Jersey Historical Society than this admirable digest of the Colonial press and its utility to future historians of New Jersey renders this series invaluable. The time and labor expended in searching and transcribing items from the contemporary journals, both local and foreign, must have been great and the decision as to the importance of the items must have required nicety of judgment and sound historical ability. The example set by the New Jersey Society should be followed by other State Historical Societies in regard to their own commonwealths, and funds expended in such research and publication cannot fail to yield a large return in membership and donations. These books are printed in clear, legible type and the pages bound for service, rather than ornament. The entire series, to which Volume XXVI is a worthy addition, should be a delight to scholars and should be found upon the shelves of every library of any pretention throughout the United States.

COLLECTIONS OF THE NEW YORK HISTORICAL SOCIETY for the year 1900. Abstract of Wills. Volume IX. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 373. Printed by the Society, New York. 1901.

This fine publication is a continuation of the Series of Abstracts of Wills on file in the Surrogate's Office of the City of New York, and contains the Wills filed and proved from 7 January, 1777 to 7 February, 1783, with Letters of Administration from 17 January, 1779, to 18 February, 1783. The period covered by this volume is peculiarly interesting, embracing as it does the most important years of the Revolutionary War, and its subject matter proves beyond dispute that any impression that wills were not recorded during the struggle for liberty is erroneous. Both the British and the State Governments exercised probate jurisdiction during the war, the former covering New York City, Long Island, Staten Island and the lower part of Westchester County, while the latter covered the remaining part of the Province of New York. At the end of the War, Samuel Bayard, the last Royal Secretary delivered over to Lewis Allaire Scott, Deputy State Secretary, some 709 original wills, probate and administration papers, etc., and also the volumes of recorded wills. The record from Colonial to State Government is thus continuous and full, and this volume of the Historical Society should be a mine of information to those interested in the history and genealogy of the patriots and Tories. The book is clearly printed, has an exhaustive index of names and is fully up to the high standard set by the Society in all its publications. Great praise should be accorded to Mr. William S. Pelletreau, the compiler, for his invaluable labors in this field.

GENEALOGICAL COLLECTIONS RELATING TO THE FAMILIES OF NOBLET, with some particular account of William Noblit of Middletown Township, Chester County (now Delaware County), Pennsylvania, U. S. A. Compiled by John Hyndman Noblit. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 400. Printed for private circulation by Ferris & Leach. 1906.

This is a most complete collection of data concerning the family records of those named Noblat, Noblot and Noblets of France; Noblet and Noblett of Great Britain; Noblet, Noblett, Noblit and Noblitt of America, illustrated by facsimiles of the several coat-armors used by the various families in France. Tho the name is an unusual one, Mr. Noblit has gathered together a mass of important material, and while he has made no attempt at genealogical arrangement, the gleanings are now preserved for all time and will prove a mine of information for future searchers in this field. Each French record is followed by its careful translation, and the style of arranging and printing this work is heartily to be commended, while a full index renders all references ready and time saving. The task of putting the different records into type was no light one and the entire appearance of the book reflects high credit upon the intelligence and artistic facilities of its compiler.

THE OGDEN FAMILY IN AMERICA, ELIZABETHTOWN BRANCH AND THEIR ENGLISH ANCESTRY, compiled by William Ogden Wheeler. Edited by Laurence VanAlstyne and Rev. Charles Burr Ogden, Ph.D. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 532. Full Index. Printed for Private Circulation by J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. 1907. With a Second Volume of 37 Charts showing Descent of Female Lines.

The lives of John Ogden, the Pilgrim, and his descendants, 1640-1906, inspired this magnificent work, one of the finest ever published in this country, and in searching out and arranging the historical and genealogical matter incorporated in the book the compiler, who unfortunately died before the completion of his task, erected an everlasting monument to his industry, ability and family pride. It is difficult to review the characteristics of this volume, when all it contains is admirable and beyond criticism. No less than 30 general illustrations and 54 portraits are incorporated in the family history and the diversity of type, intricate press-work, beautiful paper and margins all make it a masterpiece of composition. The genealogical system of arranging the names not only follows the most approved custom but in some regards is an actual improvement upon the standard arrangement—the ancestral chain, given after the name of each descendant having issue, showing the full line of descent at a glance and each descendant having his or her own number. Ancestors of any line can be turned to instantly. The index of names might have referred to the name number instead of the page number, and thus obviated some delay in looking down the page for the name, but this is a debatable improvement. The history of this family discloses a long line of patriots—many of whom held positions of the highest responsibility and trust in the community and none of whom were unworthy of perpetual record. This work is a model for all would-be family historians to follow and neither years nor progress in the art of book-making will make obsolete this volume or take from it the unique quality of being as perfect as human skill can make it.

ONTARIO HISTORICAL SOCIETY. PAPERS AND RECORDS. Volume VIII. Paper, 8vo, pp. 228. Published by the Society, Toronto. 1907.

This is a continuation of the admirable series of publications of this Society and the present volume is fully as interesting as the seven preceding books. It contains well written articles on The Insurrection in the Short Hills in 1838; The Hamiltons of Queenstown, Kingston and Hamilton, and three papers on Kingston History, together with the Church Records of the Niagara Peninsular, Stamford and Chippewa, and Extracts from the Cummings Papers. The annals of early Canadian settlers are being rapidly gathered together and put into reference shape by this excellent Society.

PORTSMOUTH AND NEWCASTLE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, CEMETERY INSCRIPTIONS, by Arthur H. Locke. Paper, 8vo, pp. 44. Portsmouth, Privately Printed. 1907.

This interesting record consists of abstracts from some two thousand of the oldest tombstones in the cities of Portsmouth and Newcastle, N. H., and is supplementary to material already published in the New England Register. It completes the vital statistics of the early settlers of Portsmouth and its alphabetical arrangement of names, abbreviation marks of locality and form of printing attest to the time, labor and care of the compiler. It is due to the generosity and genealogical sense of such men as Mr. Locke that this country will in time have secured as complete a record of its early colonists as can be obtained at this late day.

SHAKERS OF OHIO. Papers concerning the Shakers of Ohio, with Unpublished Manuscripts, by J. P. McLean, Ph.D. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 415. Press of L. J. Heer Printing Co., Columbus, O. 1907.

It is somewhat paradoxical that any historical-genealogical record should be kept of a sect whose foundation principle was opposed to the perpetuation of the race. Nevertheless the story of the rise of the Shaker Communities in Ohio and their present decline and disintegration is interesting reading and the author has accomplished a fine task in collecting and printing these records, fast going to decay and destruction. Shakerism was promoted in this country by Ann Lee in 1779 at New Lebanon, Columbia Co., N. Y., where the parent community established itself and under the leadership and revelations of this extraordinary woman, claiming to be a manifestation of the second coming of Christ, the sect flourished and spread throughout the United States. The book is well illustrated with portraits, pictures of Shaker communities and homes, and will prove a mine of information to those interested in the growth and fall of a peculiar people.

HISTORICAL MANUAL OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF TOPSFIELD, MASS., 1663-1907. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 60. Published by the Church Press of A. T. Merrill, Topsfield, Mass.

This early Colonial church was organized in 1663 with the Rev. Thomas Gilbert as minister. The early town records, which also contained the church records prior to 25 March, 1659, were lost by fire, and the first volume of church registers commences in 1684, when the membership was 49, viz.: 22 males and 27 families. This little book, setting forth, as it does, the simple annals of a quiet parish, should be interesting reading to the descendants of the early founders and parishioners. The biographical sketches of the Ministry of the Church evince careful research and preparation and the book is a fit memorial of a religious establishment which did much to sustain and advance the early colonists of Massachusetts.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY OF GOVERNOR WILLIAM TRACY OF VIRGINIA, 1620, AND OF HIS ONLY SON, LIEUTENANT THOMAS TRACY OF SALEM, MASS., AND NORWICH, CONN., by Dwight Tracy, M.D., D.D.S. Paper, Quarto, pp. 31. Press of The Journal of American History, New Haven, Conn. 1908.

This pamphlet is of unusual interest in that it proves beyond peradventure that the English Pedigree of Tracy, printed in J. Britton's "Toddington" in 1840, is erroneous and incomplete, in setting forth that William Tracy, who married Mary, daughter of Sir John Conway of Arrow, Co. Warwick, died without issue. Britton was a leading English authority and without doubt compiled his genealogical chart of the Family of Tracy from ancient deeds, records and Heraldic visitations. His error is shown clearly by the early letters of William Tracy and records of the Virginia Co., wherein is mentioned his wife Mary, son Thomas and daughter Joyce, who married Captain Nathaniel Powell. This son Thomas is later identified with Lt. Thomas Tracy of Watertown and Salem, Mass., in 1636, and thus a long line of descendants can be linked up to an ancient and noble family in England, descended from Egbert, first Saxon King of England, 800-838 Anno Dominic. The evidence is indisputable and sets forth not only in reprints but in facsimile reproduction of the ancient documents the proof positive of the continuation of the line of William Tracy in Virginia and New England. Relation to English nobility and the right to bear coat-armor is so frequently assumed without the slightest proof save the statement of furnishers of ready-made pedigrees that Dr. Tracy's scholarly and exhaustive research should be a matter of pride to all his kin. The pamphlet is illustrated with a full page plate of the Tracy Arms, blazoned in proper colors, and a portrait of Dr. Tracy, together with excellent facsimile reproductions of ancient documents and pictures of the several manors and county seats of the family in England.

ANCESTORS OF REV. WILLIAM HOWE WHITTEMORE, Bolton, Ct., 1800, Rye, N. Y., 1885, and of his wife, Maria Clark, New York, 1803, Brooklyn, 1886, by William Plumb Bacon. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 124. Limited Edition. Press of Adkins Printing Co., New Britain, Ct. 1907.

The compiler has charted and traced back as far as possible the several ancestors of the Rev. Mr. Whittemore and his wife and set forth no less than 55 lines of descent converging in the two subjects of this work. Such method of genealogical record is of value and interest to the immediate family of the Rev. Mr. Whittemore, and from the publication of this interesting record it is hoped the compiler will be encouraged to devote a full genealogical volume to the Whittemore family only. The book is well printed but is not arranged according to the now well established and standard form insisted upon by the leading genealogical societies and the lack of an index of names must be deplored. The compiler frankly states that the arrangement of the work in his opinion renders an index superfluous but the utility of his work is thereby minimized and localized to individual members of the Whittemore family.

MR. THOMAS FLOYD-JONES has issued an 8vo, cloth, index to his "Floyd-Jones Family," reviewed in the April, 1907, RECORD.

MR. FREDERIC G. MATHER, compiler and editor of New York in the Revolution, and the supplement to the same, is now engaged upon the story of the Refugees who crossed from Long Island to Connecticut in 1776. The story will include copies of all the original documents which Mr. Mather already has. He would, however, appreciate any information (more especially as to the return of the Refugees to Long Island, and the whereabouts of their descendants to-day) that descendants of the Refugees may have and are inclined to give. His address is, Stamford, Conn.

MAJOR-GENERAL GARRIT HOPPER STRIKER.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

The subject of this sketch was born in the mansion at Striker's Bay, which stood on an eminence overlooking the shores of "a certain cove," as the deed words it, at present 96th Street and Riverside Drive. He descended in the sixth generation from Jacobus Strijcker—the progenitor of the family in America—Magistrate of the Court of Burgomasters and Schepens, whose history has been heretofore told in this publication for January, 1907. The General's grandfather, Gerret Striker, for whom he was named, assumed the method of spelling his name which has been retained by the Manhattan branch of the family and differentiates it from the rest of the clan. He settled at the Bay in 1764 with his wife and son James, born Sept. 18, 1755, where he built his home.

The mansion stood on the edge of the line of British defence before and during the Battle of Harlem Heights. This locality was for long periods a hotbed of discord. For many years the residents of the district lived in daily fear and expectation of incursions and indignities. Mrs. Gerrit Striker whose husband had lately died (Sept. 17, 1775), opposed the enlistment of her son for these reasons, feeling with just cause that his assistance at this juncture would be needed. It is known that during the battle he used the family wagon to convey the wounded from the field and that the mansion was turned into a temporary hospital. Many soldiers of either side were cared for here with the aid of his mother. Twice the house was pillaged and finally all the live stock was driven off. Several skirmishes between the picket lines occurred on the immediate premises, in one of which a patriot and two Tories were killed in the lane which led from the Bloomingdale Road. These were buried near where they fell. Early in the struggle some officers were quartered in the house and at least one party of captives was billeted on the inmates, pending their removal to improvised prisons at the lower end of the Island. James Striker joined the American army, going to New Jersey where he enlisted as a member of the Light Horse Troop, 2nd Battalion of Somerset Militia, of which his relative in the same generation, John Stryker, was captain. This troop formed part of Washington's forces and was present at the battles of Trenton, in Dec., 1776, Princeton, in Jan., 1777, Germantown, in Oct. of that year, and Monmouth, in June, 1778. It was during his absence that these incursions occurred. The place was again invaded by the enemy in 1781. The slaves and servant men were driven off and the women compelled for days to cook and attend to the wants of their captors.

Yet a boy when his enlistment expired, a longing for home caused Striker, in the summer of 1780, to set out towards that goal. On reaching the ancestral habitation of his Captain, at Millstone, N. J., he was fitted out as a yeoman and in this disguise proceeded on his way. At Tilly Tudlum, just north of Fort Lee, he succeeded in getting a boat wherewith he reached the shores of his mother's property "in the enemy's country." Soon after his arrival he took out a license from the Secretary of the Province on Sept. 23, to marry Mary, dau. of Johannes and Wyntje (Dyckman) Hopper. She lived only six years, dying at the age of twenty-six, on Sept. 20, 1786. Her remains were deposited in the Hopper burial ground, at the southwest corner of Ninth Avenue and 50th Street. Three children resulted from this union, viz.:

i. Ann, b. Feb. 23, bap. June 25, 1781; d. unm. April 12, 1860.

ii. Lavinia (Winifred), b. May 27, 1782; m. Jordan Mott, at Striker's Bay, Sept. 24, 1801; d. at "Mott's Point," March 16, 1862.

iii. Garrit Hopper, b. March 29, 1784.

After James Striker's death the mansion became a tavern. In 1841 Joseph Francis was its landlord. The years of his tenancy were memorable for the number of noted personages who assembled there. Poe and his child wife, Virginia, spent the summers of 1843 and 1844 in a cottage near by which stood at 84th Street. While he resided in Bloomingdale he wrote that that notable poem, The Raven, and it was his habit to wander down the declivity to the shores of the bay. Often did he occupy a seat on Francis's piazza to enjoy the prospect and commune with his friends and familiars, of whom the names of Woodward, Morris, Willis, English, the author of Ben Bolt, and the lawyer-poet, William Ross Wallace, are recalled. Trees of tremendous girth and height were on the ground, one of which, "a grand old elm," inspired Morris to compose that noble lyric, Woodman, Spare that Tree. In 1837, wrote the poet, he caught a tenant of the property in the act of cutting it down for firewood. "The old gentleman," with whom he was walking, asked the iconoclast what it was worth when felled, and ascertaining that ten dollars would prevent its destruction, paid the price and exacted an agreement in writing that it should be saved. We have Morris's testimony that in 1862 it was still standing.

Under the tavern's successive bonifaces it became a noted resort for excursions, target-shooting, etc. There was a dock and small station of the Hudson River Railroad on the grounds. The lawn fronting the river made a fine dancing floor, and at the rear of the house were found the targets. A well-known clergyman is authority for the statement that here was a scene of sylvan beauty unsurpassed, and that he had never in his long life been in so entrancing a spot. The property was sold in June, 1856, and the house was destroyed by fire in the early sixties, when Robert Pennoyer was its landlord.

The youngest child and only son of the family passed his boyhood at his father's house and after an education which befitted his position, started his business career with money supplied by his grandfather. In 1801, at the age of seventeen, he was living at 181 Broadway. He was a merchant in 1833 at 55 Broad Street and in 1852 and 1853 the directory places his office at 78 Broadway with his son Garrit, although military headquarters continued to be his downtown centre, he having exhibited a marked aptitude for that career. An early biographical sketch of him asserts that he had before his twenty-second year proved himself a good soldier and thereafter an efficient officer, panting for service and eager for the attainment of those laurels which can be earned alone in such employ. At the age of 26, he was commissioned Lieutenant in the 5th N. Y. Regiment, 2nd Brigade of Infantry, under Col. J. W. Mulligan, with rank from March 25, 1809. On the breaking out of the Second War with England he was assigned as Captain of the 4th Company in the 5th Regiment of Volunteers. Isaac A. van Hook having succeeded Mulligan in command. During the excited period of the fortifying of Bloomingdale Heights, while he was living at Striker's Bay, he attended the different calls of his home ward (the Ninth) and was active in obtaining subscriptions and laborers. Meetings were held in Rodger's Tavern, at 70th Street and Bloomingdale Road, which were attended by the neighbors in a united effort to hasten the erection of defences for the safety of their homes, that ward in which the work was carried on being the centre of active preparation. When not engaged in a military capacity Captain Striker lent the enthusiasm of his youthful endeavors to stimulating others, to seeing that the family horses did their proper share at the works and to collecting vegetables from the farm and attending to their distribution. His home was so near the line of defences that he passed much time during their construction on the ground, and with the assistance of his father's slaves, aided and abetted the progress of the work. The regiment to which he belonged was the last to be regularly designated by the Committee of Defence and it practically completed the works on Bloomingdale Heights.

On March 22, 1816, Striker was promoted to the rank of Major in the 82nd Regt., 3rd Brigade, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Joseph D. Fay, and in the regimental orders issued at this time, his former Colonel (van Hook) expressed himself in the warmest terms of Capt. Striker's "soldierly conduct and gentlemanly demeanor" while under his command. Promotion to the Lieut.-Colonelcy of the same regiment followed April 24, 1818. He reached the grade of Brigadier in 1828, and rose to the rank of Major-General in Feb., 1837.

The General commanded the 2nd Division of uniformed troops on Oct. 14, 1842, in the notable pageant that marked, amid great popular rejoicing, the completion of the Croton Water Works. In fact, he was a prominent figure in all the celebrations of his time, for example: the reception to ex-President Lamar of Texas, in 1840; the anniversary of the Battle of the Thames, Oct. 5 of that year, at which Gen. Harrison won renown, when he served as Grand Marshal of the parade and the ball at Harrison's inauguration March 4, 1841, at Washington Hotel. "The immense ball room, the most magnificent in the Union, was arrayed with all the taste and elegance which the unrivalled Dejonge could bestow," says the newspaper report of the affair. In April of the same year, he was aide at the funeral ceremonies in Harrison's memory, and was one of the committee at the reception to Charles Dickens and wife who reached New York, Jan. 20, 1842. In June, 1843, President Tyler visited the city on his way to the dedication of Bunker Hill Monument. The great parade was held on the day of his arrival. The steamboat New Haven, Capt. Vanderbilt, left Castle Garden wharf on the 17th and proceeded to Perth Amboy where the President was met and escorted to the city. During the funeral honors to Major-General Morgan Lewis, April 10, 1844, he was likewise conspicuous. Webster made his debut before the New York bar in the General's employ in May of this year.

A "grand military ball" was tendered to the General at the Apollo Rooms in 1846, at which he was presented with a service of plate, a gold medal and a pair of "Revolutionary boots." The Sun of April 4 reported that the beauty and fashion of the city graced the occasion. London Punch printed a facetious diatribe anent the boots, with a picture thereof, which filled a page of that noted periodical. The General was also prominent at the funeral solemnities over the death of Andrew Jackson, and at the great pageant on Oct. 19, 1847, at the laying of the cornerstone of the Washington Monument at Hamilton Square.

"Being the idol of the boys," says a chronicler, "the General's appearance with them in military costume on horseback was the signal for an unflinching ovation." His hair and eyes were as black as a raven's wing. He used to relate that he had lived in the Outward, in the 9th, 12th and 22nd Wards although he had never moved. The Evening Express dubbed him "gold snuff-box Striker" from his ostentatious manner of using that article. His speeches as reported were of a lively and spirited disposition, full of gracious raillery, good humored and witty withal. In his personal appearance he was immaculate. The N. Y. Gazette noticed the military ball, of which he was a manager, which was held at the N. Y. Theatre in the Bowery, Jan. 8, 1829, to celebrate the victory at New Orleans. This edict of fashion was laid down in the advertisement announcing the event: "Small clothes are considered as part of full dress for officers and citizens, but pantaloons, having been recently admitted as appropriate costume, will be approved." The General was a "decided but reasonable Whig" and served as Deputy Receiver of Taxes on the Native American Ticket in 1844, and represented the 12th Ward in the Legislature in 1848.

On June 25, 1818, General Striker (then Colonel) m. Eliza Bella, dau. of Capt. Alexander McDougal, of the British service, and his wife, Mary Elsworth of New York. They continued to reside at Striker's Bay until John Hopper, the younger, died the following year, when they removed to the latter's residence "Rosevale" on the Hudson at the foot of what later became 53rd Street. It was approached by the lane which his great-grandfather laid out from his homestead at the Bloomingdale Road and 51st Street, and which ended at the mansion. It took the name of Striker's Lane thereafter. Entrance was obtained to the grounds through two stone posterns leading to a road which divided around a circle lying immediately before the house and led to the family barns and stables. The old place was set in the forest with gardens to the east, and on the west massive trees to the water's edge. Trees such as were not deemed to be found within miles of the city towered overhead. Majestic peacocks guarded the portal and strutted about in august grandeur. Looking from the broad veranda, a superb river view met the gaze, and in the immediate foreground one saw a goldfish pond, surrounded by a railing on which sat plump Muscovy drakes, which flew at one's approach and struck the water with a resounding splash. Descending the steps to and beyond the pond, winding walks under the trees and by rocks and wild flowers and bushes, finally brought one to the billiard house, where an old-fashioned table, so large as to leave barely space to promenade around it, occupied the lower story. Upstairs were garnered the fruits and nuts for winter consumption. Continuing the walk, still under grand natural trees and along narrow meandering paths, the bath-house was reached, situated in a cove over the sandy floor of which flowed a stream whose sources were the springs in the pond above. The old soldier was a man of taste and culture and the conservatories were his great pleasure. The name "Rosevale" was doubly appropriate, as a large share of the enclosed grounds were given to rose culture, the remainder being a valley sloping precipitously in places but generally gradually towards the river, the mansion itself being the line of demarcation.

Here the General maintained a boundless hospitality and dwelt some fifty years, constantly adding to the charms of his garden, his particular hobby. His numerous friends and admirers flocked around him and the abode was the centre of hospitality for leading men of the nation. On one of the window panes in the parlor appeared the names of Lafayette, Kossuth and Clay, scratched thereon with a diamond during their respective visits. "Old Bullion" Benton, Webster, Greeley, General Scott and other military celebrities, with a host of lesser lights, were welcome here. At the funerals of two of his distinguished friends during 1852 Striker acted as aide in the procession in honor of the obsequies of Clay July 20, and as pall-bearer for Webster he represented one of the then 31 States of the Union, Nov. 16. The General was a conspicuous figure in the New York of his day, strikingly like his old friend Winfield Scott. It has been said of him that he united in his person the gentleman and the soldier, the high-spirited convivialist, the good husband, the tender father, the kind friend—in short all the qualities that were centered in the gentleman of the olden time. He departed this life at his home on April 15, 1868. The Rev. Dr. Hutton of the Washington Square Church and Domine van Aken of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church officiated at the ceremonies held there, when a vast concourse thronged the spacious mansion and lined the lane and the street as the procession passed. His remains were interred in Trinity Cemetery, where a plot had been prepared owing to the contemplated demolition of his ancestral church and the consequent abandonment of the family vault. At one of the last services held there, his funeral discourse was preached by Domine van Aken, which was published in full in the Christian Intelligencer. In recognition of his active participation in the construction of the defences on Bloomingdale Heights, the descendants of those who aided therein, as represented by the Daughters of 1812, inscribed his name on the tablet placed on Fayerweather Hall of Columbia University to commemorate the defences erected during that war.

BY WILLIAM B. VAN ALSTYNE, M. D.

21. MARITJEN³ KNICKERBOCKER (Laurens,² Harmen Jansen¹), m. 24 May, 1748, at Salisbury, Conn., Ruloff White (Weit), b. about 1724, son of Joshua White* and Christina Dutcher. Their marriage is recorded on the church records at Germantown, N. Y., in 1748 (full date is not given), he being "son of Gasguve Weit" and she "daughter of Laurenz Knickerbocker." There is no such name as Gasguve, but it is interesting to note that Gzysyn and Mary Weydt have a child baptised 23 Nov., 1721, at Albany, N. Y., and that Gryphyn Wyet stands as sponsor there in 1722. The settlement of the estate of Jane Dutcher proves that Ruloff White was son of Joshua White and Christina Dutcher.

On the 21 March, 1767, Christiana White requested that letters of administration be granted on the estate of her mother Jane Dutcher, late of Salisbury, Conn., to her son Ruliff White. In the distribution of this estate the heirs of Kathren Knickerbocker have a share, no names being mentioned (Sharon, Conn. Probate Records, book 3, p. 190). Children baptised at Germantown:

- i. Maritgen,⁴ bap. 24 July, 1748; spon.: Benjamin and Catharin Knickerbocker.
- ii. Christin, bap. 30 Jan., 1750; spon.: Herman and Catharin Knickerbocker; d. 23 June, 1818; m. Gabriel Dutcher, b. 16 June, 1747; d. 22 Oct., 1820.

22. CATHERINE³ KNICKERBOCKER (Laurens,² Harmen Jansen¹), bap. 19 Oct., 1731, at Germantown, N. Y.; m. 17 Sept., 1762, at Claverack, N. Y., Willem Van Alstyn, bap. 10 Dec., 1721, at Albany, N. Y.; d. May 22, 1802, at North East, N. Y.; son of Thomas Van Alstyn and Maria Van Alen. Willem m. (1) about 1744, Christyntje Van Alen, bap. 16, June, 1723, at Kinderhook, N. Y., dau. of Stephanus Van Alen and Marya Muller.

William Van Alstyn probably lived on the farm inherited in 1760 from his father to whom it was granted in 1752 by John Van Rensselaer. It was described as lying between the Kinderhook Creek and the Claverack Creek.

On 1 May, 1772, William Van Alstyn of Claverack, yeoman, leased a house and shop and a fulling mill with mill dam and two acres of land to Thomas Avery of the same place, fuller, for the term of seven years. Said Thomas was to have wood for his own fire, and also for "the press" from any part of said William's land.

* Joshua Weyt (White), m. 24 Nov., 1720, "at the parsonage at Claverack, N. Y.," Christina Dutcher (New York City Lutheran Church Records). He was son of Willem Wit and Judith Meels, bap. 1 May, 1698, at Kingston, N. Y.; she was dau. of Roelof de Duidser and Jannetje Brusy, bap. 8 Aug., 1703, at Albany, N. Y. Roelof de Duidser and Jannetje Brusy were m. 17 Nov., 1700, at Kingston; she being dau. of Christoffel Brusy and Sijntje Claes.

In Aug., 1791, he bought a farm in Hillsdale, N. Y., of John Collier.

On 19 Oct., 1793, William Van Alstyne deeded as a gift to his son Lawrence a negro boy called Tom. The residence of both father and son was given as Hudson, but in Dec. of 1794, articles of agreement were entered into between Nicholas and Philip Hoffman of the one part, and William Van Alstyne of Columbia County, of the other part, wherein the party of the first part bind themselves to convey on the first day of April, 1795, unto the party of the second part a certain farm in the town of Amenia, in the county of Dutchess, which formerly belonged to Col. Brinton Paine, and was at that time in the occupation of Elijah Bryan, as overseer for the said Nicholas and Philip Hoffman. In the final division of the county into townships this farm came to lie in North East instead of Amenia.

On 12 July, 1799, William sold to his son Lawrence, also of Amenia, N. Y., the farm he had bought of Nicholas and Philip Hoffman.

William Van Alstyne was a captain in Col. Jeremiah Hogeboom's regiment which served during the Revolutionary War. His commission, dated 4 April, 1770, and signed by Cadwallader Colden, Governor of the Province of New York, is in the possession of the Holland Society.

He was buried in a small burying ground on the farm bought from the Hoffmans. His wife was also buried there but the tombstone has long ago disappeared. She survived her husband, for in her son Lawrence's will, made 2 May, 1806, he provides that his mother, Catharine Van Alstyne, shall have her support out of his estate, and at his house as long as she lives (Lambert Janse Van Alstyne and Some of His Descendants, by Lawrence Van Alstyne of Sharon, Conn.).

Barent Albertsen was son of Albert Andriessen Bratt "de Noorman" and Annetje Barents Van Rotmers, natives of Frederickstad, Norway, who left Amsterdam, Holland, 25 Sept., 1636, in the ship The Arms of Rensselaerwyck, which arrived in Albany 7 April, 1637. They settled on a stream just south of Albany which in consequence became known as Norman's Kill, and here he laid out a farm and built a mill (N. Y. GEN. AND BIOG. RECORD, Vol. XXXV, p. 45). Annetje Barents Van Rotmers d. in 1662, and on 10 July, 1663, her children gave to Storm Albertsen Van Der Zee, her eldest son, power of attorney to collect property inherited from Pieter Jacobsen van Rendsburgh (Rynsburgh), husband of Geesie Barents, their maternal grandmother (Notary Papers at Albany, p. 347). This right enabled Storm to sell a share in a house and lot at New Amsterdam inherited from his mother and occupied by Burgomaster Allard Anthony. Geesie Barents was in this country as early as 1642, for in June of that year Pieter Jacobsen, b. in Rendsburgh (probably Rendsburg, a town of Prussia, in Holstein, on the Eider), and "Gysje Pieters" (Pieters meaning wife of Pieter), both of Fort Orange, made a joint will (Berthold Fernow's Calendar of Wills, No. 956) in which real and personal property was left to her dau. "Annitje Alberts" (Alberts meaning wife of Albert). In 1667 Geesie Barents was at Kingston, N. Y., standing as one of the sponsors for Cornelia, dau. of Roelof Swartwout and Eefgen Albertse Bratt.

On 31 July, 1695, Geertruy Vosburgh received from the heirs of Pieter Van Alen a grant of land on the Kinderhook Creek, consisting of one-fourth that property called the Groot Stuk and occupied by her for her eldest son Pieter, the grantee. This deed was confirmed in April, 1713, by a quit claim deed. Albert Andriessen Bratt d. 7 June, 1686.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES RELATING TO THE ENGLISH
ANCESTORS OF THE YOUNGS OF SOUTHOLD, N. Y.

COMMUNICATED BY LUCY DUBOIS AKERLY.

One of the interesting characters of our Colonial history was the Rev. John Younges (Yonges), principal founder of Southold, the earliest town on the east end of Long Island.* He m. (1) Joan Herrington; m. (2) Mary Warren. The baptisms, marriages and burials given below and relating to the families of Herrington and Warren, have never before been printed, and are from a transcript of the Parish Register of Southwold, England, and are published through the courtesy of Rev. Epher Whitaker of Southold, N. Y., and Rev. Claude Hope Sutton, Vicar of Southwold, England.

John Yonge of St. Margaretts', Suffolk, ae. 35 yrs.,† and Joan, his wife, ae. 34, with 6 children, John: Tho: Anne: Rachell: Mary & Josueph, were examined by the Commissioners, 11 or 12 May, 1637, being desirous to pass to Salem in New England to inhabit, & being forbyden passage, went not from Yramouth.‡

Nevertheless on 14:6:1637, Mr. John Younges was received as an inhabitant of Salem, Mass. How he became in 1640 the first minister at Southold, Long Island, and the central figure there, is too well known to be repeated here.§

Just what was intended by St. Margaret's, Suffolk, is hard to determine, probably the edifice at Reydon, and the mother church of St. Edmond's, Southwold, two miles distant; although there were apparently other St. Margaret's in Suffolk at the time, at Easton Barent, Ikelshall, Heringham, Leiston and Lowestoft.

The father of Rev. John Yonges, Rev. Christopher Yonges, was inducted to the living of Reydon with Southwold, 14 Jan., 1611.¶

On the last day of Feb., 1611, a mandate was issued for inducting Christopher Yonges, Clerk, into the real possession of the Vicarage of Reidon, which position he occupied until his death in 1626. His will describes him as of Southwold, and he is interred in the chancel of the church there.

His widow Margaret, and six children survived him, five of whom came to America. Two children, Edward and Elizabeth Yonges, presumably the eldest of the family, were drowned on St. James day, 16—, in company with 30 others from Southwold in returning from Dunwich Fair.¶¶

† His tombstone says he d. 24 Feb., 1671-2, in his 74th year.

There was early a chapel at Reydon, known as St. Margaret de Rissemere. Greatly do we deplore the loss of the early Reydon and Southwold Parish Registers with their priceless genealogies. That of Reydon now dates from 1712, that of Southwold from 1602.

The latter has the following: "1622, July 25, John Yonges, & Joan Herrington, widow," and the baptisms of their children John and Thomas in 1623 and 1625, respectively.

Their marriage license, 24 July, 1622, calls John, bachelor, and Joan, spinster. The bond was in Mr. Christopher Yongs.*

The original Southwold Parish Register, a long, narrow book, which the writer had the privilege of examining, reads distinctly, "Joan Herrington, widow." The writing is the same as for several years previously, an unusually clear hand, presumably that of the father of groom, Rev. Christopher Yonges, himself. At any rate, the entry was unquestionably made during his incumbency, and is therefore that to which we attach most weight.†

If a widow as seems probable, Joan was doubtless that Joan Jentilman, who m. at Southwold, 7 March, 1613, Robert Herrington. His son Robert was bap. 1 Oct., 1616, after which we hear no more of him.

Joan, dau. of William and Agnes Jentleman, was bap. 5 July, 1603; Robert, son of Margt. Herrington, the 2 Nov., 1607. If these parties were m. in 1613, they could not have been bap. as infants.

A Joan Jentilman m. Thomas Beaumont 14 Nov., 1628.

Margaret Herrington was buried 6 Dec., 1611.

William Jentleman was buried the 28 April, 1616. Letters of administration on the estate of William Jentilman of Southwold were issued 11 Feb., 1616 (qu. 1617?), to his widow Anne.

Thomas Jentilman (Jentleman) b. in Southwold in 1511, was Bailiff there in 1534, '72, '86, '96 and 1604, and d. 30 July, 1609.†

Probably Thomas, son of Rev. John Yonges was named after him.

Other Jentilman entries are:

1603: March 2, Thomas, son of James & Mary Jentleman, baptized.

Marriages:

1603, Feb. 6, Richard Jentleman & Susan Capp.

1605, Feb. 13, Richard Garrard & Martha Jentleman.

1614, Jan. 2, Thomas Hunter & Susan Jentleman.

The name Jentilman was found at Dunwich, near Southwold. In the Church of the Grey Friars, one of those buildings "eaten by the sea," were entries of Jentilman in 1506 and 7. Mrs. John Jentleman was buried in 1511, John Jentleman in 1522, and Robert Jentleman in 1525.*

Letters of Administration were issued on the estate of John Jentleman of Southwoude, to Richard Garrard, 13 April, 1622.

Letters on the estate of William Herrington, late of Hintlesham, with a non-cupative will attached, were granted 29 June, 1632, to his relict Barbara.

The will of William Yonges of Lowestoft, 22 June, 1530, proved 7 March, 1530, names William Hocker of Lowestoft, executor.

William Yonge & Estabel Beelle were m. at Heacham, 11 Oct., 1558.*

1632, Jan. 14, Letters on the estate of Doratie Yonges of Stoake, with a non-cupative will attached. Administration to George Harvie, principal legatee.

* Phillimore and Johnson's Parish Registers of Norfolk.

1633, Nov. 15, Letters of Administration of — Yongs of Oxford, to — Daniel, mother of the deceased.

1636, Aug. 6, Will of Henry Young of Henley, proved.

That Yonges abounded in Suffolk is shown by the fact that in 1674, 46 Yonges households paid the hearth tax in the above county.

A small farm of 160 acres, near Wenhaston station, about seven miles from Southwold, was entailed for three generations and intended "to be kept in the family so long as there was a John Yonges."

The tenants were unable to hold it, and when the entail expired, the land was sold in Oct., 1901. Two of the owners, John Yonges, were buried at Wenhaston in 1868 and 1899 respectively.

The last owner, the third John Yonges, told the writer in 1903 that his grandfather probably came from Uggelshall, as they were obliged to settle the above estate there.

Thomas Warren (Warryn), merchant, was of Southwold. His will, 4 March, 1641, proved 13 Sept., 1645, names son Thomas, dau. Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Gooch of Southwold; two grandchildren, Mary Gardiner and Benjamin Youngs, children of his dau. Mary, wife of John Youngs, now in New England; dau. Margaret, wife of Joseph Youngs; dau. Christian, wife of Symon Barnard; son George Warren; son Robert Warren, deceased; son Thomas Warren and son-in-law Simon Barnard, executors. (Arch. Suff. Ipswich, Original Wills [1645], 120.)*

There appears to have been two families at Southwold, one of Thomas Warren, Bailiff in 1614, '20, '27, '33 and '38, and the other of Thomas Warne, who was buried 23 Jan., 1637.

Some of the Warne entries below were probably intended for Warren and written Warin.

"1602, June 7, Mary, dau. of Thos. & Mary Warne, baptized."

Mary, wife of Rev. John Youngs, of whose marriage dates we have no record, calls John Youngs her "last husband." She d. after 5 Nov., 1678, on Long Island, N. Y.†

"1604, May 23, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas & Mary Warne, baptized."

"Elisabeth Warren m. Thomas Gooch 20 June, 1620," and had children christened: "Thomas Gooch, 6 May, 1621," and "John Gooch, 27 Oct., 1623."

Thomas Gooch, Sr., Thomas, Jr., John Gooch & others refused to take the oaths & superscriptions in 1662, & were discharged from being four & twenties.

1607, April 8, Robert, son of Thos. & Mary Warne, baptized.

1640, Dec. 7, Robert Warren buried.

1609, Oct. 18, Margt. (Martha erased), dt. of Thos. & Mary Warne, baptized.

* See N. Eng. Hist. & Gen. Register, April, 1898, and N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, April, 1904.

† Southold Town Rec., II, 18.

1611, Nov. 11, Christian, d. of Thomas Warren, baptized. We have not the date of her marriage to Simon Barnard.

Christian was a favorite name in the Youngs family on Long Island. It was used at Southwold by the Gentlemen as well as by the Warrens.

1613, March 2, George, son of Thos. Waryn, baptized.

In 1662, Mr. George Warren, one of the Bailiffs, desiring time to consider the oaths & superscriptions imposed by Acts of Parliament, etc., is ordered to be discharged from being Bailiff, or from bearing any office in the corporation at Southwold, unless he subscribes to the said oaths before December 1st. Mr. Simon Bernard to officiate in his room.*

1613, Jan. 23, Margaret, dau. of Thomas Warne, baptized.

1632, Feb. 5, Joseph Yongs & Margt. Warren married. She was living at Southold, N. Y., 9 May, 1669, a widow.†

Her son Gideon Youngs was perhaps named after the Gideon of the next entry.

1616, June 5, Gideon Warne, son of Thos. & Margt. Waryne, baptized.

1618, Dec. 6, Deborah, dau. of Thos. & Mary Warne, baptized. Deborah Warren doubtless single in 1641.

1688, Dec. 12, Thos. Warren & Martha Senor, of Sd., married.

Letters of Administration on the estate of Christopher Warren of Hennesfield, dec'd., issued to his Relict, Anne, 4 Dec., 1631.

1633, Jan. 20, marriage license granted to Thomas Warren & Ann Noaks of St. Matthew's (Ipswich?).

The marriage license of Thomas Warren & Judith Fisher of St. Clement's, Ipswich, was dated 3 July, 1634.

Possibly Thomas Warren, the Southwold merchant, who d. in 1644, and John Warren, who m. Alice Keble in 1619, were brothers, and sons of George Warren who was buried at Southwold, 14 Dec., 1614.

The Warren family furnished Bailiffs for Southwold Borough at intervals from 1614-1662. According to the Parish Register there, they seem to have resided in that town from 1611-1705.

In this connection it is gratifying to learn that the title deeds of the Southwold Vicarage, at Queen Anne's Bounty Office in London, show that the property, including a mansion and enclosed piece of land, was sold in 1705, by the late widow of John Warren to John Thompson, whose heirs, lineal and collateral, and others held it till 1829, when it was sold to the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty, and is now held by them in trust for a Vicarage.

The "mansion" of the title deeds was built on the foundations of an older house, in which are the cellars of the existing house.

There are two deeds, with the signatures of Mrs. Hannah Knowles, formerly widow of John Warren, of Hannah Bohm, and of Mary and Elizabeth Warren. The seals against the last two names, are distinctive, and the same in both documents.

Warren, as a family name, comes from Normandy, whence William de Warrenne came with William the Conqueror, and whose daughter, Gundreda, he afterwards married. He was greatly esteemed and trusted by his royal father-in-law.*

Burke's General Armory mentions 45 armorial families of Warren, 2 of Warreyn and 2 of Warryn, and the particular one to which Thomas Warren above, of Southwold, belonged is much to be desired.

FIFTH GENERATION.

32. MERCY⁵ GOFF (Desire⁴ Green, Warren,³ William,² William¹), bap. Jan. 12, 1757; m. Zaccheus Cook, Jr., Middle Haddam, Conn., Jan. 18, 1776, probably of the family of Henry of Mass., who had three children who removed to Conn. John settled in Middletown, Henry and Samuel in Wallingford, Conn. His father d. April 19,
1812, aet. 93, therefore b. about 1719, probably at Eastham,
Mass. He signed a petition to Conn. Legislature, 1744.

about the church at East Hampton. Zaccheus Cook, Jr., was administrator on the estate of (33) Benjamin Green^o Goff, and acted Sept., 1782, in the administration. He and his family removed to N. Y. State, I have not the town.

33. BENJAMIN^o GREEN GOFF (Desire⁴ Green, Warren,³ William,² William¹), bap. Oct. 9, 1757. He was a soldier in Capt. Holmes Company of Col. Samuel Selden's Regiment, and private First Regt. Continentals from East Haddam, April 22, 1777, to April 22, 1780, when he was discharged. The history of Wethersfield says: he was killed June 24, 1781. He was then in the militia.*

34. TIMOTHY^o GOFF (Desire⁴ Green, Warren,³ William,² William¹), bap. July 27, 1760. Went into the service in Lieut. David Smith's Company, Col. Thomas Belden's Regiment, April and May, 1777, served at Peekskill, N. Y. There was a Timothy Goff of Easthampton, Conn., m. Eveline, dau. of Elihu and Almyra (Wright) Cook, but I have not been able to identify him.

35. PHILIP^o GOFF (Desire⁴ Green, Warren,³ William,² William¹), b. Aug. 17, 1766; bap. June 2, 1767; m. Oct. 19, 1787, Chloe Cole, dau. of Marcus and Phebe (Scovill) Cole; he was the eldest child of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Cole, who removed from Eastham, Mass., to Chatham, Conn., 1748, and d. 1752. Elizabeth Cole d. Feb. 19, 1794, aged 85. Ebenezer and Elizabeth had: i. Marcus; ii. Ebenezer; iii. Elizabeth; iv. Jerusha Cole. Philip Goff d. Oct. 23, 1823. Marcus Cole was in the French War, and in the Continental service, May, 1775, to Feb., 1778, when he was lieutenant in Huntington's Regiment of the line. Marcus and Phebe Cole had: i. Abner, b. 1754; m. Lydia Freeman, 1785; ii. Hendrick, m. Phebe Griffith; iii. Marcus, m. Sally White; iv. Phebe, m. Thomas Ackley; v. Reliance, m. Joseph Knowlton; vi. Chloe, m. Philip Goff; vii. Rebecca, m. Isaac Johnson; viii. Mary, m. Benjamin Leonard.

The U. S. census of 1790, under Chatham gives Philip Goff's family as consisting of two males over sixteen and one female; and Philip Goff, Jr., had in family one male over sixteen and two females. It would seem these were Philip, who m. Desire, and his son, Philip, Jr., who m. Chloe Cole.†

Philip and Chloe (Cole) Goff united with the church at Middle Haddam, July 18, 1790. This family removed from the neighborhood probably at the same time as Philip and Desire (Green) Goff, before 1800. Among my notes about Chloe Cole, I find

* There was a Benjamin Goff of Easthampton, m. Feb. 5, 1786, Abigail Brainard; they removed to Middle Haddam. They had: i. Benjamin, d. inf. ii. Niel, never m. iii. Phila, m. John Cole, and other children. The absence of the initial of the middle name makes me doubt the identity.

† Mr. H. B. Brainerd says: Philip Goff was b. about 1730, perhaps earlier; he was bap. at Middle Haddam, March 24, 1742, his grandfather, Philip (b. 1685), being alive, for his father is called Philip Goff, Jr. In records of Rev. John Norton, East Hampton, appears Philip Goff, d. Oct. 27, 1779, and Philip Goff's wife d. April 22, 1767. The first is the father-in-law of Desire; the latter is possibly Sarah (Atwell) Goff, his wife, tho' that is not certain.

these, b. Sept. 7, 1768, and d. Oct. 23, 1823. The future may explain them.

I have not been able to discover whether Philip and Chloe Goff had any children.

He was an enthusiastic yachtsman. Was at one time Commodore of the Larchmont Yacht Club and was the recipient of a large number of prizes for victories in many yacht races. He was also a member of nearly all the leading yacht clubs as well as the Union League, University, Manhattan, Riding, Players, United Service and the Country Club of Westchester County. He was also a patron of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He resided a great deal in Paris and was on here for a short visit when he died.

STONE, COL. WILLIAM LEETE, A.B., A.M., LL.D., an ex-member of The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, died on Thursday, June 11, 1908. He was a member of this Society during the year 1806. Amongst the publications of which the late Col. Stone was a collaborator in translation and which work was of great genealogical interest was the translation of the Dutch Records of New York City, and it may be of interest to state that his associates in this literary production were all members of The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society. Three of his most important works were: The Life and Times of Sir William Johnson, Bart.; Burgoyne's Campaign and St. Ledger's Expedition, and History of Washington County, New York.

QUERIES.

MARIS.—Among the first settlers of Hudson and Bergen Cos., N. J., appears the name of Jury Maris—an Englishman. Jury Maris also owned land at Schraalenburgh. In 1723 (16 April) a Jurran Morris was requested by Cornelius Haring and Barent Nonel (both of Tappan), executors of the will of John Hart of Woodbridge, N. J., to examine said will. On church records of Hackensack, N. J., and of Tappan, N. Y., are the baptisms of the children of Jurian Maris and Freda Hause Harty (she bap. N. Y., 26 Aug., 1671). Can any one give parentage of above Jury (Jurie, Jurran, Jurian) Maris? His descendants all call themselves Morris. CATHARINE T. R. MATHEWS, Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y.

ROWLAND.—Wanted, the ancestry and parentage of David Rowland, b. 1762; d. 1843; buried near Fabius, Onondago Co., N. Y. Was he a son of David Rowland to whom, with others, the township of Sharon, N. Y., was granted on Feb. 12, 1767. He m. (1) Anna —; m. (2) Zarviah Whipple, dau. of Isaiah and Eunice Whipple of Alexander, Genesee Co., N. Y., and had issue, a son Harry, who m. Mary Ann Parkerson, dau. of William(?) and Mary A. (Tompkins) Parkerson of Stony Point and Haverstraw, N. Y. Any information as to his brother or sister, as well as names of ancestors will be greatly appreciated. GRACE M. ROWLAND, 502 Bee Building, Omaha, Neb.

SEELEY.—Fanny Seeley who d. in 1834; m. Joseph Bennett, b. Dec. 31, 1783, in Newtown, Conn.; d. in 1862. Can any one give me the names of the parents of Fanny Seeley.

BENNETT—FORD.—Thomas Bennitt or Bennett, b. Nov. 9, 1732, at Newtown, Conn.; d. Feb. 7, 1836; m. Sept. 29, 1772, Mollie Ford, who d. Aug. 9, 1814. Who were the parents of Mollie Ford?

Thomas Bennitt built over the Hoosatic River a bridge known as the "Bennitt Toll Bridge." Tradition states that Patriot troops were allowed to pass over this bridge without paying toll. I would be glad to know if there is any historic proof of this tradition. v. v. H., P. O. Box 536, New York City.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE ANTI-RENT WAR, by Albert Chapman Mayham. Cloth, Small Quarto, pp. 89. Press of Frederick L. Frazee, Jefferson, N. Y. 1906.

The attempt of Stephen Van Rensselaer to eject certain tenants in the Townships of Bern, Westerlo and Rennesaerville, Albany County, N. Y., and on "Blenheim Hill" from the lands owned by Patroon Van Rensselaer, because of non-payment of rent is the theme of this small book. The author tells the story of the anti-rent agitation of 1839-1846 in a clear, conversational style, which makes pleasant, as well as instructive reading. How the trouble of John A. King of Jamaica, Long Island, with his farm tenants on Blenheim Hill arose, and how they were settled has been hitherto almost an unknown chapter in the land history of the State of New York, and the author is to be heartily congratulated in placing the facts and persons engaged in this mimic war so vividly before the reading public. Clear type and excellent wood-cut illustrations make the work attractive and a desirable acquisition to both large and small libraries.

THE ANCESTORS OF ABNER BRUSH AND LAURA (HUBBARD) BRUSH, by Mrs. Chauncey H. Brush. Boards, 12mo, pp. 58. Privately printed. 1908.

This small brochure traces the descendants of Thomas Brush of Huntington, Long Island, N. Y., who owned a lot at Southold prior to 1653, and gives in narrative forms the genealogical details of their family history. It is more of a memorandum than a genealogy, but it is interesting reading and the notes are of value. The idea of tracing out and describing the several family bibles is excellent and worthy of being followed in more pretentious works.

THE CLARK FAMILY GENEALOGY, by Dr. A. W. Clark. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 149. Press of The Mirror-Recorder, Stamford, N. Y. 1907.

While this work purports to be a comprehensive genealogy of the Clark Family in the United States, it is practically only a record of the descendants of Randall and Dorothy (Tucker) Clark and Hazard and Eunice (Clark) Clark, carried out in the female as well as the male lines. A mass of disconnected data is included in the work, much of which has little or no reference to the families of Clark traced out. The compiler appears to have levied tribute upon various standard Clark Genealogies already published, without giving the authors any credit or notice for the extracts. Notably pages 72 and 78 are taken verbatim from The Clarke Families of Rhode Island, the standard work on this Rhode Island family—which unfortunately was not copyrighted. This abstracted material Dr. Clark has actually copyrighted in his book as if it was from original research—'tho it is the usual courteous custom in such cases to acknowledge the source of such wholesale extracts.

There are a number of errors and inaccuracies in the data—notably the descent of Timothy Clark, b. 29 March, 1710, stated on p. 13 to be a son of Timothy and Sarah (Richardson) Clark of Stonington, Conn., 'tho actually a son of John and Lydia (Andrews) Clarke of Stonington, who is assumed to be a son of Timothy and Sarah (Robbins) Clark of Bristol and Stonington, Conn., as the compiler admits in his introduction on p. 5. There is not the slightest proof that this Timothy Clark was in any way related to the great Clark family of Westhorpe, Co. Suffolk, England, which by the by Dr. Clark states came from Bedfordshire—an error which he found and copied from Austin's Rhode Island Dictionary—and which Austin some time past acknowledged to be a mistake.

The compiler frankly admits the basis for this work in the introduction, and the authority of the sources of his record may well be questioned by skilled and accurate genealogists.

The book appears to be a loose compilation of Clark facts and records already printed in other works, gathered from examination of printed works in libraries and historical societies rather than from the original records, and taken without acknowledgment or reference to the authors. Its utility will be confined to the recent generations of the particular branches of the Clark Family dealt with, viz.: that of Blenheim Hill, who hold an annual reunion and desire to see their names in print. The work is well printed and illustrated with wood cuts, but the index is not exhaustive.

THE COOPER AND ALLIED FAMILIES OF DETRICK, DOBELL, DOBINS, DOWDY, GILMORE, GREENE, HANNA, HENRY, LYMAN, MILLER, MILLS, MOORE, MORRIS, MOSS, RAWLING, RODECKER, STANTON, WILLET, YOUNG, AND UNVERSAW, by W. F. Cooper. Paper, 8vo, pp. 16. 1906. Privately printed.

This small pamphlet is merely a convenient statement of the data gathered concerning the families set forth above. It is arranged alphabetically and not chronologically and hence will not be easy to consult save by those members of the Cooper family who know their own descent. It is evidently the intention of its author to elaborate and place in final genealogical form the valuable information here collected, but for the present the utility of the material published will be confined to a small and special circle. The line commences with Apollos Cooper of London County, Virginia, who lived in Revolutionary times and served in that war as a second lieutenant, and the record of his descent is carefully traced out.

THE DOBYNS-COOPER AND ALLIED FAMILIES OF BALLOU, BRAMBLE, COULTER, CREDIT, DUVAL, HENRY, KEMP, LAREW, LYON, NORWOOD, PERRY, PIERCE AND TAYLOR, by Miss Aurelia Anna Pierce Ballou and W. F. Cooper. Paper, 8vo, pp. 31. No index. Press of State Printers, Lansing, Mich. 1908.

The object of this pamphlet is to give those of the name interested an early opportunity of using the material therein digested and to arouse interest and bring forth further information on the subject in hand. Edward Dobyns, born England on December 7th, 1747, was the first immigrant to settle in Culpeper Co., Virginia, prior to the Revolutionary War. His numerous descendants are set forth, with brief biographical sketches of the more prominent members of the family and many useful genealogical facts are collected for future reference. The spirit which prompted the compilers to record their family history is to be commended and every effort of this kind will render the task of future genealogists not only more easy but more accurate.

THE ELGIN BOTANIC GARDEN, its later history and relation to Columbia College, The New Hampshire Grants and The Treaty with Vermont in 1790, by Addison Brown, A.B., LL.B., LL.D. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 57. Full Index. Press of The New Era Printing Co., Lancaster, Pa. 1908.

The fact that Dr. Alexander Hosack in 1801 purchased land opposite the present Cathedral at Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, developed it into a garden called the Elgin Botanical Garden, which he subsequently sold to the State in 1811, is little known even to many who pride themselves of their knowledge of early New York History. The garden did not flourish and in 1814, when Columbia College obtained the grant of lands embracing this small botanical experiment, it was suffered to go to ruin and decay. Owing to some doubt as to the intent of the Legislature in conveying the ground occupied by the garden to Columbia College, Judge Brown prepared this little sketch, clearly proving that the grant to Columbia was not made in compensation for her land claims in Vermont or for any loss or injury to the College through the treaty of 1790.

The sketch shows much research, and the subject is happily treated by its author, who has brought a clear and judicial mind upon what has always been a somewhat obscure point of State history.

While the book has more historical than genealogical value, it contains a brief but admirable biography of Dr. Hosack and many items useful to searchers for the annals of some of the early New York families.

MAJOR WILLIAM FERGUSON, by Charles Beatty Alexander, LL.D. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 70. Limited edition. The Trow Press, New York. 1908.

This is a brief memorial of Major William Ferguson, born in Armagh, Ireland, son of Usher and Mary Ferguson, member of the American Philosophical Society, and officer in the army of the Revolution and in the army of the United States, and deals with his military career during the War of the Revolution and a subsequent campaign against the Indians, in which he met his death. The facts of his life as gathered from his letters and other memoranda are tersely set forth and make a valued record of one of the early patriots, who laid down his life for the privileges of freedom and the land of his adoption.

The little book is beautifully printed in large type on Italian hand-made paper and is a worthy tribute by a descendant to the valor and virtue of his ancestor.

JENKINS FAMILY BOOK, being a partial record of the descendants of David Jenkins and notes of families intermarried with them, by Robert E. Jenkins of the Chicago Bar. 1904. Cloth, small 8vo, pp. 213. Privately printed. No Index.

The compiler of this little book frankly states that he considers the tracing out of his maternal lines of quite as much importance as those on the paternal side and devotes much space to the maternal ancestry of Robert Jenkins of Clark Co., Missouri, the Ancestors of Maria (Raymond) Jenkins, the Masters Memoranda, and the Logan Memoranda. It is presumed that these allied families have never before been genealogically traced. David Jenkins came from Wales before 1700 and settled in the Great Valley of Chester Co., Pa., where comparatively little is known of him, but he left a sturdy line of children who have carried the name down to the present time. The book is not arranged according to genealogical standards, nor is it indexed, but has been compiled evidently from a desire to place in available printed form such facts as are known to its author and thus give a working medium for the future family historians. Any record is better than none and apart from the special interest to those appearing in its pages, the value of this book lies in its straightforward statement of the family line and branches.

THE FAMILY OF LEETE, by Joseph Leete, Chevalier de La Legion D'Honneur, South Norwood, Surrey, in conjunction with John Corbet Anderson. Crushed Levant, Quarto, pp. 211. Second Edition. Revised and Enlarged. Press of Blades, East & Blades, London. 1906.

This beautiful volume contains the genealogical cronicle of the English family of Leete, whose ancestor was John Leete of Eversden, Co. Cambridge, and also incidently records a number of other Leete families, notably of Oakington, Co. Cambridge, of Governor William Leete of Guilford, Conn., the American branch, of the Irish branch, of Nicholas Leate, Alderman of London, and of the De Lettes of France. The author seems to have made an exhaustive search in the English Counties for records of all bearing his name from the earliest time and with a view to making a lasting memorial of his ancestry, has arranged and printed this great collection, with numerous pedigree charts and illustrations of ancient Mss. and places and persons of note. Undeterred by the great cost of such a search he has spared no expense in the publication, and the beauty of the paper, press work, type, illustrations and binding, would be difficult to surpass.

An honest pride in an ancient and honorable lineage has been stimulated by a praiseworthy desire to give to all of this name the results of many years' research, and the spirit which prompted so generous an action cannot be too heartily commended. The volume is unique not only as a family record but as an artistic publication, and those libraries or societies possessing copies of this valuable work are to be congratulated. Mr. Leete should feel assured of the thanks and appreciation of all future generations claiming descent from this English country family.

LYON MEMORIAL: Families of Connecticut and New Jersey, including records of the descendants of the immigrants Richard and Henry Lyon of Fairfield, Conn., with a sketch of "Lyons Farms" by S. R. Winans, Jr. Illustrated with maps and fully indexed. Edited by Sidney Elizabeth Lyon, Louise Lyon Johnson and A. B. Lyons, M.D. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 453. Press of William Graham Printing Co., Detroit, Mich. 1907.

The above book forms publication No. II, of the Lyon Genealogies, and in it is suggested the theory that the progenitors of these early New England Lyons were of the Scotch blood and related to the present family of Bowes-Lyon. The impression of an ancient seal of the lion rampant in a lozenge on the will of Samuel Winans of Elizabeth, N. J., dated 13 June, 1744, goes far toward establishing the above theory of descent, as the testator was a brother-in-law of Ebenezer Lyon of Lyons Farms. The idea and character of these Lyon compilations is excellent and in view of the destruction of many of the early records, perhaps the only accurate method of tracing a particular genealogy is to hunt out all early Colonial families of the name and trace them down to present time. Such material, well digested and indexed, may enable many families and descendants to link up their lines, who otherwise would be groping in the dark and unable to avail themselves of records not only unknown to them, but inaccessible because of distance. The Memorial is a valuable contribution to the genealogical shelves of libraries and historical societies, and reflects high credit upon its editors.

XY LYON MEMORIAL: NEW YORK FAMILIES. Edited by Robert B. Miller and A. B. Lyons, M.D. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 539. Fully indexed. Press of William Graham Printing Co., Detroit, Mich. 1907.

This volume forms one of a series of contemplated publications tracing all available records and information concerning the several Lyon families established in New England prior to 1650. The original prospectus contemplated only a single volume but the immense mass of data discovered soon extended the work into three sections, viz.: I. The Descendants of William Lyon of Roxbury, Mass., and of Peter and George Lyon of Dorchester, Mass. II. The Descendants of Richard and Henry Lyon of Fairfield, Conn. III. The present book, which traces those descendants of Thomas Lyon of Rye, once of Fairfield, Conn., who form the allied New York families of the name. The work is supplemented by an introduction by Dr. G. W. A. Lyon on the English Lyon families and illustrated with maps and facsimile reproductions of interesting ancient manuscripts.

Thomas Lyon of Rye married a granddaughter of Gov. John Winthrop of Salem, Mass., and left a number of interesting letters addressed to his Winthrop relatives, all of which have fortunately been preserved by that family. The style of composition and handwriting of these ancient letters indicates their writer to have been a man of education and gentle birth, and while the modesty of the compilers of this record, in not claiming coat-armour and descent from titled forebears is to be commended, there is every reason to believe that these Lyon colonists were of ancient and honorable lineage.

The book has been compiled and printed in a direct, workmanlike manner, without useless digressions upon or assumptions of any vague family traditions and will be hailed as the authoritative work on this family.

THE NEW YORK OF YESTERDAY. A descriptive Narrative of Old Bloomingdale, by Hopper Striker Mott, with 78 illustrations, diagrams and maps. Fully indexed. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 597. Limited edition of 500 copies. Published by G. P. Putnam's Sons. The Knickerbocker Press, New York. 1908.

This fine publication had for its primary object the perpetuation of the History of The Bloomingdale Reformed Church, organized 1805, and incorporated 1806 as the Church at Harsenville, but fortunately the author was impelled to extend the work to a general historical and genealogical description of the entire district—a section of Manhattan Island but little mentioned in the many works descriptive of the growth of the great City of New York.

The book is divided into chapters respectively dealing with Bloomingdale, its boundaries, families, farms and landmarks, as well as its war history, Harsenville, and the Harsen Family; the First Consistory of the Church and the subsequent development of that house of religious worship; the Old Time Families; Reminiscences, Vital Statistics, being the registrar of Marriages and Baptisms, with exhaustive Indices; Appendices, containing transcripts of important documents, facsimile signatures, etc.

An immense amount of time, patience and labor must have been expended not only in collecting the material for this work but in digesting and arranging it. The author has shown a keen critical sense and a nice discrimination in utilizing many facts of minor importance to bring into greater prominence the vital annals of the district and the arrangement and narration of the data concerning the old time Bloomingdale families, shows him to possess not only sound genealogical methods, but a happy style of narration as rare as it is desirable in works of this character. Apart from the natural interest of his facts, the author has made a book of agreeable and easy reading, one that disguises dry historical data under a fluent descriptive style—and with the exception of the bare church vital records there is not a dull page in all the volume. The illustrations are wonderfully good, not only in subject and selection but as wood-cut reproductions, and evidence an exacting taste. The book is beautifully printed in large type with ample margins and the style of composition and arrangement leaves nothing to be desired. As a graceful tribute to its subject it is bound in blue, white and orange, the Dutch colors. This exhaustive work is worthy to grace the shelves of every public and private library of prominence in this country, and from the standpoint of a work of reference no library, that contains an historical department, should be without the book.

HISTORIC HOMES AND INSTITUTIONS AND GENEALOGICAL AND FAMILY HISTORY OF NEW YORK, by William S. Pelletreau, A.M. Cloth, 8vo, 4 Vols., pp. 1479. Illustrated. The Lewis Publishing Co., New York. 1907.

The idea of publishing a work dealing with the genealogical history of the early settlers of the City of New York and their descendants is praiseworthy and such a collection, if properly selected and correctly set down would have filled a long felt want. Unfortunately the author falls short of the standard such a book exacts and whether from commercial necessity or lack of nice discrimination, has filled up the pages with uninteresting annals of unimportant families. In a number of cases the ancestor described has been foreign born and only lived in this city a comparatively few years, and his influence in advancing the renown of the Empire City might be measured by his subscription to a work publishing his name and portrait.

In the last ten years a number of publications of this character have been exploited and their utility, accuracy and value are open to grave doubt. Biographies of the unimportant and genealogies of the uninteresting are becoming a drug on the library shelves, and the time is rapidly approaching when the leading historical and genealogical societies must exercise a judicious selection in accepting new works of this character. The books are well indexed and clearly printed but the glazed lead paper makes them heavy and unwieldy and the binding is bad. The entire publication—both as to the quality and quantity of its subject-matter, letter-press, style and illustrations is commercial and cheap.

A PORTER PEDIGREE, being an account of the ancestry and descendants of Samuel and Martha (Perley) Porter of Chester, N. H., who were descendants of John Porter of Salem, Mass., and Allan Perley of Ipswich, Mass. Compiled by Miss Juliet Porter, Worcester, Mass. 1907. Paper, 8vo, pp. 161. Indexed. Privately printed.

The compiler states that this volume is only the fore-runner of a more complete genealogy and has been printed to call forth further data and to ascertain whether the family interest is such as will warrant a publication in more permanent form. The work of collecting the records has been carefully done and the transcripts of wills, deeds, inventories, etc., appear complete and accurate. Dealing as it does with the families of Perley, Dodge, Herrick, Smith, Grover, Barney, Trumbull, Dresser, Howe, Thorley, Dana, Peabody, Andrews and Foster, comparatively small space has been allotted to each line, but a mass of valuable data has been printed and it is hoped that the compiler will receive substantial encouragement to continue her work. The book is printed in large, distinct type, but the numerical arrangement of names is not standard and will only be clear to the compiler. It is strange that family historians cling to an individual numerical arrangement. Doubtless it is a method saving of labor, but one of small value to the general searcher, and seriously handicaps a book intended for general circulation.

THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS AT PRINCETON, by Varnum Lansing Collins. With a Portrait of General Washington, engraved by Sidney L. Smith. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 295. Full index. The University Library, Princeton, N. J. 1908.

The thanks of all the students of American history are due to the Princeton Historical Society for the publication of this scholarly work, dealing with important and little known episodes of the Revolutionary War. The story of the mutiny of the Pennsylvania Troops of the Line in June, 1783, the consequent flight of the Continental Congress from Philadelphia, and the five months sojourn of that body at Princeton, together with the description of congressional life in its official and unofficial sides in the little academic town makes delightful reading. The author shows a keen appreciation of his subject, a nice discrimination in setting forth his facts in due order and a comprehensive grasp of the value and importance of his documentary data. The chapter describing the great debate on the location of a permanent federal residence is of peculiar interest. The letter-press, paper and wood-cut illustrations are in excellent taste and the work is assured of a permanent place in the list of desirable Americana.

PURMORT GENEALOGY, by Rev. Charles H. Purmort, D.D. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 148. Indexed. Press of The Homestead Co., Des Moines, Ia. 1907.

This interesting work traces out nineteen generations—the first nine of which are in England—of a family bearing an unusual name. The name is clearly of a French origin and doubtless was originally "Pour Morte" or "for death." The first immigrant in America was Philemon Portmort or Purmort, first teacher in 1635 of what is now known as the Boston Latin School. While the compiler must perforce assume that Joseph Purmort of New Castle, New Hampshire, whose descendants are fully compiled in the work, was a grandson of Philemon above, yet the ground of this presumption is almost as strong as if sustained by actual recorded data. The book represents years of research and reflects high credit upon its author, whose modesty in presenting this well-printed and illustrated work to students of genealogy is much to be commended. It is to be hoped that the book will bring forth much more data of value and that its author may be the one chosen to put a second edition into circulation.

VITAL RECORDS OF RHODE ISLAND, Vol. XVII, Providence Phenix, Providence Patriot and Columbian Phenix—Marriages, A to R, by James N. Arnold. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 599. Press of Narragansett Historical Publishing Co., Providence, R. I. 1908.

The new volume of this fine record of Rhode Island births, deaths and marriages, is fully up to the earlier publications of this series, not only in interest but in general style of press work and binding, and is admirably indexed as to names and localities. It covers the period 1802–1832, bridging over the period from Revolutionary to comparatively modern times and including the vital annals during the War of 1812. The patience, pertinacity and courage which Mr. Arnold has brought to his stupendous task arouses the greatest admiration, and as the work approaches its conclusion and wins a deserved financial success, no praise will be too great for this valuable genealogical record. It is hoped that Mr. Arnold will be inclined to take up the ancient burial ground records as well as a Digest of all the Wills and Administrations in Rhode Island from the earliest date of settlement to 1850. This would complete and make perfect the genealogical history of Providence Plantations.

HISTORY OF SAINT MARK'S CHURCH, New Britain, Conn., and its predecessor, CHRIST CHURCH, Wethersfield and Berlin, by James Shepard. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 707. Full Indices of Subjects and Persons. Press of the Tuttle, Morehouse & Taylor Co., New Britain, Conn. 1907.

This work is an exhaustive history of two important Episcopal parishes in Connecticut, introduced by a comprehensive statement of church history in America and in the State of Connecticut.

While the subjects of this work were not the largest or most important churches in Connecticut, yet their ministers were men of learning and repute, and among their congregations were those who have advanced the importance of the State of Connecticut and sustained her record of a God-fearing and observing Commonwealth. Full records of baptisms, marriages and burials are printed in the pages and the biographies of the successive ministers show painstaking research and accuracy.

The collection of facts for such a volume requires not only unlimited patience, but a mind naturally bent toward historical research and nice skill in arranging and placing in narrative form data voluminous enough to daunt the most enthusiastic antiquarian. Mr. Shepard has admirably completed the task and the memorial history does credit to its author and these early religious establishments.

In spite of its bulk, the book is readily handled, and owing to its excellent type and quality of paper, and 42 fine illustrations, it deserves a place on the shelves of every important historical society.

THE WHITMORE GENEALOGY. A record of the descendants of Francis Whitmore of Cambridge, Mass., 1625-1685, by Jessie Whitmore Patten Purdy. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 158. Indexed. Press of Pengelly & Broth, Reading, Pa. 1907.

The foundation of this work was the Whitmore Genealogy, compiled by Hon. William H. Whitmore in 1855, and the present volume carries down the earlier compilation to date. It is confined almost exclusively to a strict genealogical table of descent, with the few biographical facts tersely set forth, and forms a complete and concise family record of this branch of the name in America. The accuracy and arrangement of the facts shows patience and ability, and in style of press work, quality of paper and binding, the book will rank with the best productions of its kind. Essentially a genealogy, it should win a permanent place among kindred standard works.

THE WOOLSON-FENNO ANCESTRY, AND ALLIED LINES WITH BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES, by Lula May (Fenno) Woolson and Charles Amasa Woolson of Springfield, Vt. Cloth, 8vo, pp. 143. Illustrated and Indexed. Privately printed. Press of T. R. Marvin & Son, Boston, Mass. 1907.

This work traces back the ancestors of the authors, paternal and maternal, to the original immigrants into the Colonies, some twenty-five heads of families each, and thus is of a specific rather than general value. It is admirably arranged and contains much biographical data of rare interest but is in no sense a complete Woolson or Fenno genealogy. As a record of lineal descent from some fifty ancestors, the book merits the support and approval of the present representative family, and the authors have acquitted themselves well in tracing their intricate pedigree back to original sources. It may be said that too little importance has been made of collecting the annals of ancestral every day life—many genealogists confining themselves to a bald table of descent and accurate but meagre pedigrees. The authors of this work, however, have collected all possible material concerning each ancestor, and the result is a happy improvement on many works of this character. The book is beautifully printed on fine paper and makes a handsome volume.

No. 4

GROVER CLEVELAND.

BY LYMAN ABBOTT.

A biography of Grover Cleveland will not be expected by the readers of the RECORD. Such a biography would involve an account of at least four important episodes in our National history, and an adequate account of either one of these would be impossible within the limits of a magazine article. This is rather an appreciation than a biography, and is written by one who might probably designate himself by the once familiar phrase of a Cleveland Republican. For from my first boyish activities in the Fremont campaign I had been until 1882 a persistent though sometimes a disgruntled Republican. Like many other Republicans I was opposed to the reconstruction policies of the Radicals; to the partnership between the Federal Government and the railways which resulted in the Credit Mobilier scandals; to the development of the doctrine of protection into a species of bargaining legislation favorable to special interests; to the corrupt doctrine "To the victor belongs the spoils" unsuccessfully concealed by defenses that were not even plausible. The administration of President Arthur, though better than was expected, seemed to me and to others a politician's administration. And when a factional fight in the Republican party in New York State,—a fight not between opposing principles but between opposing spoilsmen—issued in 1882 in the nomination of good men by nefarious means, I welcomed the nomination of Grover Cleveland by the Democratic party as an opportunity to rebuke and resist pernicious tendencies within the party with which I had affiliated ever since my first vote in 1860 for Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Cleveland was elected by a majority of upwards of 150,000 votes over all other candidates; not because he was a Democrat, but because he was Grover Cleveland, and by his administration of the Mayoralty in Buffalo had illustrated the policy which he afterwards interpreted in the now well-known phrase "A public office is a public trust." The doctrine has never been more happily phrased, and by no man in public office since George Washington's time had it been more consistently and courageously illustrated.

This administration of the State compelled a reluctant Democratic machine to nominate him for the Presidency in 1884 against James G. Blaine, the plumed knight of the Republican party. I do not here raise the hotly disputed question concerning Mr. James G. Blaine, who was at once the most admired and the most contemned statesman of his era. But I was among those who regarded his nomination as a victory of the corrupt elements in the Republican party, and followed Henry Ward Beecher out of the Republican ranks, though not into the Democratic ranks. Mr. Cleveland was elected in that campaign of 1884 by the votes of men one of whom aptly described himself as an independent in municipal politics, a Republican in State politics, and a Democrat in National politics.

There are times when all questions of policy take a second place, overshadowed by the struggle of the humbler, less brilliant, but most essential virtues to assert themselves. Such was the period in American politics from 1882 to 1892. Mr. Cleveland stood for the virtues of truthfulness in promise and profession, honesty in administration, and economy in public business. The two characteristic American admirations—that for brilliance in speech and action and that for rugged honesty in both,—were appealed to by the Presidential conflict of 1884, and the enthusiasm for honesty won. Mr. Cleveland's administration was not brilliant, but it was honest. It may not have been the administration of a great statesman—on that question opinions may differ; but it certainly was not the administration of a wily politician—on that question opinions will not differ. It was a business man's administration and it appealed to the business men of the Nation by its integrity, its sanity, and its business conservatism. Perhaps his most distinguished service to the Nation, it was certainly his first, was his practical adoption of what had before been a much praised and little practised theory, the merit system applied to public appointments. He added 30,000 posts to the Civil Service list, making a total number of competitive places of 86,000. Others had preceded him in elucidating the theory, but he was the first to reduce the theory to practice; and though the country has since carried the principle still further, it has never receded from the standard he set.

It was characteristic of Mr. Cleveland to mean what he said and to say what he meant. He had been elected in 1884 upon a platform which pledged the party to tariff reform. The tariff was not reformed. And in the Fall of 1887 he threw down a challenge to the special interests in a message which pledged him and so pledged the party if it re-nominated him, to a tariff for revenue only. This message was criticised at the time as impolitic. Perhaps it was. The Democratic party lost the election, probably in consequence of that message. But he did not lose the respect of his countrymen, and in the next succeeding campaign, that of 1892, he was elected on the issue which he had so clearly raised. The Wilson bill, as introduced into the House, was a consistent revenue tariff bill; but when it issued from the Senate, after it had been manipulated by the representatives of certain special interests, it was neither a consistent revenue nor a consistent protective measure. That Mr. Cleveland allowed it to become a law, though without his approval, has always seemed to me one of the mistakes of his political life; though it is to be said that other issues, of more immediate and pressing importance, had meantime arisen to justify Mr. Cleveland's reluctance to engage in a tariff controversy with Congress. However that may be, the Democratic party has never recovered from the injury inflicted on it by the refusal of the Democratic Senators to carry out in good faith the policy to which the Democratic platform pledged the party. Sixteen years have passed and Senator Gorman is dead; and still Independents like myself, who ardently desire a tariff for revenue only, while we have little hope of radical tariff revision from the Republican party, have even less from the politicians who gave the country the mongrel legislation known as the Wilson-Gorman bill.

There is no space here to discuss the perplexing currency problem which confronted President Cleveland's second term, and agitated it so fiercely in the campaign which immediately followed. It is difficult even to state the problem so that readers of different political opinions will understand it alike. There were many in the country who believed with President Walker of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, that by an International Agreement a parity of values could be maintained between gold and silver, that in this way both could be made a common standard of values, and that such a common standard would result in less fluctuation of values than would result from any single standard, whether gold or silver. When it was found impossible to secure such an International Standard, a natural division arose among those who believed in International bimetallism, some urging a gold standard, some an attempt to secure such parity of value by National legislation alone. Those of us who believe, as I do, that National bimetallism would have been bimetallism only in name, that it would really have meant for the United States silver monometallism, and that it would have inflicted untold disaster upon the country, and especially upon the agricultural and laboring classes, must ever recognize the indebtedness of the Nation to Mr. Cleveland for the rugged defiance with which he faced popular clamor, both within and without his party, in his belief that a gold standard was the only honest standard. Even those who do not agree with him in that opinion, and were most bitterly hostile to him at the time, have, almost without exception, come to recognize the purity of his motives and the courage of his political action.

With the exception of Mr. Debs and his associates, the leader of the strikes then, the leader of the Socialist party now, the country has come also to recognize and approve the courage of his course in dealing with the famous Pullman strike in the summer of 1894. At that time the issue was somewhat confused. The irritating injustice of the Pullman Company, which laid all the burden of the hard times on the wage earners and none of it on either the stockholders or the higher salaried officials, created a sympathy for the strikers, which their boycott of perfectly innocent parties, and their acts of lawless and inexcusable violence, turned to sympathy against them, so that the general public had little inclination to side with either the Pullman Company or the strikers. But what I wrote in 1894 I may here repeat as an expression of the public sentiment outside the immediate battle field: "Rioting is not so dangerous to American civilization as compromising with rioters. * * * The battle field is not the place to debate delicate questions of rank and precedence; and we are in the midst of a battle. It is a time for men of all parties to sustain the President in using all the power which his law officers affirm that he possesses in enforcing law and punishing crime." It was much easier to write these lines than to act upon this principle. Mr. Cleveland in acting upon this principle, and in using the power of the Federal Government to put down mob violence, enforce law, restore order, and protect persons and property, in spite of the indifference, not to say the opposition, of both the city and the State authorities, rendered a service in checking the rising spirit of lawlessness in this country which the country hardly appreciates even yet. It may be added that it is doubtful whether even Mr. Roosevelt, Republican as he is, has done more to commend to the people of the United States the doctrine of the New Federalism—the doctrine that all the power which the Federal government possesses is to be employed whenever it is necessary to conserve those interests which are common to all the people of the Nation—than Mr. Cleveland, Democrat as he was, did in using the Federal powers to protect the United States mail and Interstate Commerce from the violence of local mobs.

All men have the defects of their qualities. If the diplomatic temperament leads its possessor at times to blur the line which separates tactful from untrue utterances, the honest temperament sometimes leads its possessor to declare his purpose in language which is needlessly offensive. This was in my judgment the only defect, though the very serious defect, in Grover Cleveland's famous Venezuelan message. Whether this was due to Mr. Cleveland or to his Secretary of State, Mr. Richard Olney, history does not know—it can only guess. A long drawn out boundary dispute between Great Britain and the irritating State of Venezuela threatened to issue in open war, and that in turn to result in bringing part of that Central American Republic under British sovereignty. That this would be in flat contravention of an American policy which Great Britain had been the first to recommend to us, but which is popularly known as the Monroe doctrine, is indubitable. It was wholly in accordance with our traditions to propose to Great Britain to arbitrate the question, and when she refused, to investigate the issues involved for ourselves that we might determine what course we would pursue. But it was neither courteous nor wise to announce beforehand that if Great Britain did not accept the results of such an investigation, the United States would "resist by every means in its power, as a wilful aggressor upon its rights and interests, the appropriation of any lands or the exercise of any governmental jurisdiction over any territory which, after investigation, we have determined, of right, to belong to Venezuela." No doubt in this utterance Mr. Cleveland meant what he said, but it was a case in which it would have been better had he said less than he meant. That his message did not lead to a rupture of friendly relations between the two countries, if not to open war between them, is due not to the wisdom of Mr. Cleveland's language, but to the self-restraint of the English government and the English people.

Since his retirement from the Presidency and from active politics in 1896, Mr. Cleveland has been widely known as America's most distinguished private citizen. His life has been quiet; his inclination has been to retirement; his public service has been mostly confined to occasional utterances, always in favor of the highest and best ideals in our National life. His interest in education was indicated by his active work and wise counsel as a Trustee of Princeton College; in the welfare of the common people by his consent to act as Trustee in the reorganization of the Equitable Life Assurance Society; in National affairs, by his willing co-operation with President Roosevelt in the latter's successful endeavor to save the country from the disastrous consequences which a continuance of the great coal strike of 1902 would have inevitably brought upon the country.

Mr. Cleveland was essentially a product of American Democracy. Like Abraham Lincoln, our greatest President, like Chief Justice Marshall, our greatest Judge, he had not a college education. He was what men call a "self-made" man. His only schooling was such as he received in a public school, as clerk in a village store, as assistant to his uncle in a brief piece of literary compilation, and subsequently as clerk in a law office. From 1880, when he was elected Mayor of Buffalo, to 1892, when he was elected President of the United States, his political promotions were rapid and were never due to political chicanery nor to demagogic arts, but to popular appreciation of his character. But if he had not educational advantages, he had a good inheritance. From his English ancestry he derived, along with a lack of imagination, which was his most serious intellectual deficiency, an indomitable will, an aggressive honesty, a transparent truthfulness, a courage that never quailed, and a habit of vigilant and tireless industry; qualities that constitute the best characteristics of English blood. If he was neither an astute politician nor a great statesman, he was an honest business man. Charged with the business affairs first of a City, then of a State, finally of a Nation, at a time when nothing was so much needed in order to expose crookedness in public life as an example of its opposite, that example Mr. Cleveland furnished without a taint of that self-conscious showing forth of virtue which is the essence of Pharisaism. His name is an honorable addition to the Annals of America and his life is an example and an inspiration to its young men.

COMMUNICATED BY D. R. JACK, HISTORIAN OF THE NEW BRUNSWICK LOYALISTS' SOCIETY; COR-SECY. OF THE NEW BRUNSWICK HISTORICAL SOCIETY;
 AUTHOR CENTENNIAL PRIZE ESSAY, HISTORY OF ST. JOHN; EDITOR ACADIENSIS ETC.

NOTE.—The reference letter in the second column in the list of New Brunswick Loyalists indicates, it will be remembered, the source of the information from which the list has been compiled. The readers of the RECORD are requested to note the following additions to the schedule which appeared in the January, 1904, issue.
 "P." Roll of Loyalists, etc., settled in Belle Vue in Beaver Harbor, Charlotte County, 10th July, 1784.
 "O." Muster of passengers on transport Cyrus on 21st Aug., 1783, upon her trip from New York to the Saint John River. On the 6th of Sept., she was at sea, and on the 14th of Sept., she was in the Saint John River. Copy of return furnished by H. A. Powell, Esq., of Sackville, N. B. (See Collections of New Brunswick Historical Society, No. 5, 1904, pp. 277-8-9).
 "R." New Brunswick Loyalists, 1799, in number, whose names appear in the Passamaquoddy section of Major General Campbell's Muster of Loyalists and Disbanded Soldiers, from an original copy initialed by Col. Edward Winslow—of the expulsion of the Acadians fame—compiled 1784 (see Canadian History Readers by G. U. Hay, said original copy being now the property of Ward C. Hazen of Saint John, N. B.). The names appearing in this compilation have been copied from the said original by the compiler of this record.
 "S." Loyalists who settled on Kemble Manor, Saint John River, N. B., mentioned by Jonas Howe in his article upon that subject, (see New Brunswick Magazine, Vol. I, p. 157).

This sign indicates that the individual was less than 10 years of age in 1783.

+ This sign indicates that the individual was more than ten years of age in 1783.

THE HOPPE-HOPPEN-HOPPER LINEAGE.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

I.

Long before the first of the name set foot upon New Netherland's soil, this family was rich, prominent, powerful and, as a consequence, much respected at Amsterdam. Its history harks back to ancient times in Holland where the name was spelled both Hoppe and Hoppen, a custom the pioneer in this country continued.

From Beschryvinge Van Amsterdam door Casparus Commelin, 1691, these data are derived:

Jan Claesz van Hoppen was Schepen of Amsterdam in 1469, '74, '79, '81, '83, '88, Councillor of the City 1483, Burgomaster, 1490, '91, and again Schepen 1494, '98, 1500, '02. Another Jan Claesz van Hoppen, doubtless his grandson, was Councillor of Amsterdam in 1549, Burgomaster the same year, Schepen 1554, again Burgomaster in 1560, '61, '64, '66, '67, '69, '71, '72, and Orphan Master in 1562, '63, '65, '68, '70, '73, in September of which latter year he died and was succeeded by Gerbrand Klaesz Banning. On one of the windows of the Old Church at Amsterdam is written, as translated from Vol. I, p. 426:

"This Church pane has been presented to the church by Jan Claasz van Hoppen, who has been Burgomaster, Schepen and Councillor of the City, who having been accused of being favorable to the new religion and subsequently taxed with being a heretic, was, by his Confessor, as a punishment for his conversion, ordered to proceed to Rome and there to purge himself, where (apparently on account of letters by the clergy from here, they knowing that he was a rich man) he was condemned as a penance to present this window to the Church, which seems to make known what is written on a sheet over his head, floating from the Bishop's staff:

Nemo Laeditur Nisi se ipso.

Besides, he was condemned not to drink anything but water during an entire year, but on his trip hither from Rome the use of water became very irksome and he returned to Rome and requested the Pope, because the water in this country was unhealthy without having been boiled in hops, to be permitted to boil some hops in his drinking water, which (those in Italy not knowing this to be beer) was permitted him, thus having been able, owing to this use, to mitigate his penance."

This pane of the Salutation of Maria was made by — Digman. The Hoppe Coat-of-Arms is seen on this pane; he, Hoppen himself, lies buried in front of this pane, in the chancel of the Holy Virgin, as shown by a certain tombstone whereon the said Coat-of-Arms is also to be seen.

At page 550 it is related: "On the day of the Visitation of Our Lady we are bound annually to give every patient in our Hospital a clear white loaf of bread and a pint of wine which has been donated by Jan Claesz van Hoppen and Styn his wife. On the 13th of September we are bound, on account of Jan Claesz Hoppen, to give the patients a meal consisting of boiled meat and wine; and in case the same be fishday, then fish shall be served as is proper."

Page 554: "Jan Klaesz van Hoppen was a regent of the Guesthouse or Hospital in 1511. Jan van Hoppen was a regent of the above hospital in 1547."

"But before commencing to preach, the Pastor Jan Aartsz prepared a Remonstrance to be delivered to the Burgomasters, as had been also done at Haerlem, which Jan Pietersz Reaal had delivered by a certain sailor, Pieter van Grieken, at the house of Jan Claasz van Hoppe, Burgomaster. But he refused to accept it, so that on July 30 the messenger had to deliver it at the City Hall, in the Little Tower."

Page 992: "Aug. 26, 1566. The Resolution (concerning the people of the new religion or protestants) was published throughout the town by the sound of the trumpet, in the presence of the Burgomaster Jan Klaasz van Hoppen, of Adriaan Paauw, Arent Brouwer and Egbert Roeloffz."

Page 1005, 1566, circa December. "When now the Colonel, in accordance with the Prince's [William the Silent] desire, retained the privileges accorded to the militia, everything turned out right and the militia men were invited to the house of the presiding Burgomaster Jan Claasz van Hoppe, who admonished them to observe harmony and to keep the above compact and rules. In the meantime the Prince took leave and departed via Haarlem for Antwerp. Since that time also the six chief Captains were not much troubled thereafter."

Page 1014, April 5, 1567. "In accordance with the above privileges the choice of delegate from among the City militia is confirmed by Burgomasters Joost Buik, Jan Klaasz van Hoppe and Hendrik Cornelisz."

Page 1019, May 5, 1567. "With approbation of the Court, Harman Roodenbug and Adriaan Reyniersz Pauw were charged to go with Burgomaster Joost Buyk to Antwerp and to request the Duchess [of Parma] not to station a garrison [Spanish] in the city. But arriving at Rotterdam they met Burgomaster Jan Klaesz Hoppe, who came from Antwerp and intended to return to Amsterdam, with orders to go back to Antwerp within four days and to reply to the question whether or not those of Amsterdam were inclined to accept a garrison. But the envoys, continuing their journey by carriage, met about eighty or a hundred ships with soldiers who were already ascending the Yael for Gouda and further to Amsterdam."

The following individuals are presumably of the same family: From 1666 to 1668 Dr. Cornelis Hop was pensionary [chief law councillor or Corporation attorney] of Amsterdam.

In 1678 Dr. Pieter Hop and in 1680 Dr. Cornelis Hop were Secretaries of the same city.

Cornelis Hoppesack was in 1655, Regent of the Poor House in Amsterdam, and from 1648-1663, Regent of the Poor House on the Old Side [of the City].

Gysbert Michielse Hoppesack was a Regent of the Old Men's and Women's House from 1634-1639.

Jan Hendrikz Hoop was a Regent of the Insane Asylum in 1615.

Jan Hendriksz Soop from 1611-1638 was Regent of the same Asylum.

Jacob Hop was, in 1690, City Advocate or Corporation Counsel of Amsterdam, and in the same year Cornelis Hop was one of the Twelve Secretaries of that city.

Vol. II, p. 1027. "On Feb. 16, 1569, Jan Cornelisz Kettelaer was imprisoned and Hendrik in de Hoppesack was summoned to the Hague [both for having embraced Protestantism]."

Hoppers was the name of a castle or Noble House in Friesland, in the village of Hemelum, under the district of Hemelumer-Oldevaart and Noordtwolde, in the quarter of Westergoo, says Tooneel der Vereenigde Nederlanden, (Scenery of the United Netherlands) by François Halma, Leeuwaarden, 1725.

In de Vroedschap (Town Council) van Amsterdam, 1578-1795, Vol. I, pp. 39, 258, are found these data:

"Jan Claesz van Hoppen was Schepen and Register at Amsterdam in 1549, Burgomaster in 1560. His daughter, Wijburch Jansdr. van Hoppen m. Jacob Jacobsz. Bennigh, son of Jacob and Maria Jacobsdr. Verheyen, Register 1578-1581, chosen Deputy of the Guard (Schutterijen) May 27, 1578, Schepen 1578, Cloth Merchant, Warden of the Cloths, 1580. Buried O. K. (Old Calender) Aug. 7, 1581. Their daughter Agnieta Jacobsdr. Bennigh, b. 1561, became first wife, July 20, 1596, of Dr. Sebastiaen Egbertsz, alias Sabastiannus Egberti, who was Register 1602-1618, appointed Governor of Maurits, Nov. 3, 1618, Schepen, 1593, Burgomaster 1606-8, Commissioned to the Council 1609-1611, High Professor of Anatomy in the Atheneum Illustre at Amsterdam 1595, Doctor of Medicine resident in 1596 in the Convent of the Eleven Thousand Virgins, in 1606 at the Old Side Cemetery and upon his death in Kalverstraat. His collective wealth and that of his two lamented wives at his death was florins 206,000. He was the son of Egbert Meynertsz and Diewer Jacobsdr., was born 1563 and buried O. K. April 16, 1621."

The Memoirs of one Joachim Hopper are often quoted. In William of Orange by Ruth Putnam (N. Y., 1895) at Vol. II, p. 122, is found: "Joachim Hopper was a learned Doctor of Laws, a Fleming, a Catholic and a Nationalist—that is, he was loyal to Philip, but wished the Spanish to be withdrawn. In 1566, he went to Spain to give the King information on the affairs of the Netherlands and remained there as representative of the Provinces. His counsel to Philip to permit an interregnum at this crisis, shows how little he understood the situation at home. As a practical man of affairs he was considered very effective. On March 18, 1577, Granville wrote: 'The letter seems to be very odd and evidently from the forge of poor Sieur Hopperus, who did not write the best French in the world, God pardon him. He was learned, but knew little of business, as can be plainly seen.'"

La Nouvelle Biographie Generale, Vol. 25, states he was born at Sneeck in Friesland, Nov. 11, 1523. He received the degree of Doctor in 1553 and forsook the profession of teaching the following year, on his appointment as a member of the Grand Conseil de Malines. When the Spanish Government undertook the creation of a University at Douay, he was put in charge of its formation. Called to Madrid in 1566, he became Privy Councilor to Philip II, and Chancellor of Affairs of the Low Countries. He was more moderate than the other ministers of that monarch and was the author of numerous noted books and Mss. He died at the capital, Dec. 15, 1576. Vide also Motley's Rise of the Dutch Republic, Part II, Chap. V; Part IV, Chap. IV.

Christiaan Hoppe, born 1621, at Amsterdam, studied at Helmstadt and in 1647 became Lutheran preacher at Enkhuizen. In 1656, he removed to Haarlem and in 1660 was called to his native city where he died in 1670. After 1652 he devoted himself to educating young men for the ministry. A sermon written by him, though only of six pages, 4to, was published for the fourth time in the year 1710, forty years after his death.

SOME COLONIAL HOPPERS.

Three brothers, natives of County Durham, England, settled in Flushing, L. I., circa 1675. About the year 1700, they appear to have removed to Gloucester County in the vicinity of the town of Woodbury, N. J. Here they dwelt for several generations but the nearness of a metropolis, and their frequent intermarriage with Philadelphia families, led to their gradual removal until now none of the name are to be found near Woodbury. Tradition relates that the brothers were John, Robert and Christopher. The first and third individuals appear in the Documentary History as residents of Flushing in 1698, but only the descendants of John can be traced in succeeding generations. No doubt the destruction of the records of that town in 1789 have deprived us of much information. The descendants of John are found widely scattered. Although this line has been supposed to have been Quakers, the early Friends' Records in Flushing and Westbury do not contain the name.

Robert Hopper had land in Burlington, N. J., in 1683, and is described in the records as of Scarborough, County of York, England. As this county adjoins Durham, the suggestion is raised that he might have been one of the three brothers. He was a seafaring man and made voyages, as master of the ship The Providence between Scarborough and Philadelphia in the year above written. His only daughter, or heir, died in England circa 1701.

Capt. James Hopper, born in Chester, England, was the owner in New York City of vessels in the merchant service, 1793. He and his brothers were sons of William H. Hopper. This seems to be a distinct family from the other New York lines, and descendants now reside at Utica.

A prominent family of the name in Maryland which is represented by many branches, traces its ancestry to early times. They have been designated as the Eastern Shore Hoppers in distinction from the descendants of the Maryland branch of the Long Island and Woodbury lines. As early as 1676, Capt. William Hopper was a member of the Legislature, representing Queen Anne's County.

Hoppers appear to have early settled in Virginia and from there spread through western and southern states. These came from Ireland or England.

Another line descended from William, John, Hugh and Alexander who came with their parents from the north of Ireland in 1753 and settled in the Newberry District, South Carolina. Some of these subsequently located in Alabama.

Descendants of a settler of the name who emigrated from Wales to South Carolina about the time of the Revolution and later removed to Kentucky, now live in Indiana. One Robert Hopper of Ireland, and settled in Fayette County, Penn., prior to that war, is now represented in the Western States. He is said to have had a brother in Maryland, which suggests a possible connection with those of the Eastern Shore.

John and Sarah Hopper who were married in London in 1773, were in Philadelphia in 1787, and have descendants in New York and Florida. Sarah was of Herefordshire and some of their issue were born in England and some in Philadelphia.

Savage's Genealogical Dictionary gives Daniel Hopper of New Haven in 1654, with the suggestion that it was intended for Hooper, and in the Rhode Island Census for 1774, is Henry Hopper of South Kingston, with six in family, four males and two females. These records indicate that there were early individuals of the name in New England. Some of the traditions of the Durham Hoppers, state one of the brothers located there.

Fragmentary records of other families of the name have been found in various places and may denote other lines than those enumerated. It is of that this article relates. Riker's History of Harlem, p. 432, states that this family "of good Dutch antecedents, are descended from Andries Hoppen, who, with his wife, Geertje Hendricks, emigrated hither in 1652. He was enrolled in 1653 in the burgher corps at New Amsterdam and granted the small burgher right in 1657, when he owned considerable property in the city; but this honor he survived little more than a year." Tradition gives the date of arrival as 1620. The pioneer sometimes added, as a middle name, the designation Willemszen, denoting that he was the son of Willem and wrote his name both with and without the final "n." He never lived in Harlem and is mentioned as above because he was the great grandfather of Yallass Hopper, who resided in that section at a much later date. It was not until the fourth generation that the termination "r" became regularly affixed, a concession required to fit the English pronunciation.

A general trader and freighter, Hoppe's headquarters were at the capital. He traded in peltries, brick, timber, stone, dry goods, shoes, earthenware, seawan, tobacco and occasionally even sold a boat. With his yacht or sloop, he not only ascended the North River as far as Fort Orange, but also made trips to the north (the Dutch possessions in present New England) either for his own account or with cargoes belonging to others. It happened more than once that this enterprising trader, in order to be able to buy in a favorable market, mortgaged some of his property as security for large quantities of merchandise purchased by him. Often he appeared before the Worshipful Court of Burgomasters and Schepens, either to prosecute claims against unwilling or tardy debtors, sometimes also to protect himself against too previous or unreasonable creditors, at other times to force those who sold him merchandise to live up to the conditions of the sale.

From the little that the records contain about him, we learn that he was a strenuous, pushing, enterprising merchant ready to go with his "yacht" wherever there was a call for his services where there existed a demand for the commodities which New Amsterdam was able to supply, or where there was an offer of certain goods the Capital needed. He was a typical New Amsterdam merchant and though not nearly so wealthy as many among them, was the peer of any in enterprise, probity and business sagacity. Well-to-do for those days, he owned a number of parcels of real estate, besides his "yacht" and stock in trade.

He bought a plot of land in the City, Nov. 11, 1655, from Pieter van den Linden, described as a lot east of the Company's five houses, bounded west by Hendrik Kip, southerly close on the Old Fiscal's Kitchen. (Hendrik van Dyck, who retired as Fiscal in 1652 to be succeeded by Cornelis van Tienhoven.) So large and small, wide and long as according to the patent thereof to said Pieter van den Linden of March 26, 1646.

This property was on the north side of Bridge Street, between Whitehall and Broad (Vide Valentine's Manual, 1861, 582). This was probably used for warehouse purposes because at the time it stood very near the East River shore.

Hopper also owned a house and lot on the east side of Broadway, north of Beaver Street. In 1657, the next lot adjoining on the north was used by Jacob Leendertsen of Lubec, the southern boundary of which was described as being Hopper's lot (Vide Ibid, p. 592). Andries Hoppe's house, Oct. 25 of this year, was on the Broadway, says Year Book, 1900, Holland Society, and bounded north by that of Gysbert Imbroeck, east by the sheep meadows, south by Gerrit de Miller, and west by the aforesaid Heere wagh. It is further located Feb. 8, 1663, as being east of Heere Straat and adjoining on the south that of Adam Hardenbroock, present husband of Annetje Meinders, late widow of Ensign Dirck Barenson Smitt.

On Oct. 12, 1655, the principal burghers subscribed or were taxed for certain amounts towards needed repairs to the public works. Some offered to contribute in money, others in labor or in kind. Among the latter was Hoppe, who volunteered to furnish two cargoes of stone. He lived only six years after his arrival in the new country, and yet his name is conspicuous in the annals of the period.

Shortly before his death he entered into a contract with Jacob Jansen Stoll to purchase Bronck's Land (Morrissania). This property contained 250 morgen (500 acres) and was known to the Indians by the name of Ranachque. It is supposed that Jonas Bronck, the original owner, was killed by them in 1643. Governor Kieft granted this land Oct. 4, 1644, to Arendt van Curler who had married Bronck's widow and who transferred it to Stoll July 10, 1651. At the session of the Court of Jan. 29, 1661, Geertruyt Andries, said Stoll's widow, brought action against Geertje Hendricks, widow of Hoppen, for the payment of 400 guilders, balance due for the purchase of land and houses, according to contract, under hand, between their deceased husbands, and in addition two cows.

The defendant answered that as the plaintiff could not deliver the sold land free from Indian claims and return the 1300 tiles which had been removed from the house, she should be nonsuited and condemned to pay to her (defendant) the 2400 guilders already paid on account.

The court decided that Mrs. Hoppen should pay the balance demanded and that a due conveyance and deed should be delivered to her. In reference to the tile "she must demand them from those who enjoyed them." The deed was thereupon executed by Matthues de Vos, plaintiff's attorney and is of record bearing date Dec. 19, 1662.

Pending the conclusion of this matter, the widow Hoppen had intermarried with Dirck Gerritszen van Tright, van Buuren, May 8, 1660, and with his "approbation and consent" transferred the property to Harman Smeeman of "Comoonepau on the Maine," on the same day she had taken title. Said Smeeman, one of the earliest settlers of Bergen and a magistrate there in 1661, conveyed the land in question "for a valuable consideration" to Samuel Edsall on Oct. 22, 1664, and Governor Nicolls issued a royal patent to him therefor on the same date. Bolton's Westchester says that Capt. Richard Morris, the next possessor, must have purchased from Edsall circa 1670. The property was conveyed by letters from Governor Andros to Col. Lewis Morris, second proprietor of Morrissania, March 25, 1676.

During certain sessions of the Court held in 1665 and 1666, Thomas Hall, as attorney of Christiaen Davitsen, essayed to prove that his client had purchased of Andries Hoppen one half of the land, and that Geertje Hendricks, the widow, had sold the whole of it to Smeeman without consent and so Hall humbly craved judgment of restitution. On June 20, 1665, he demanded that she be required to give security for any judgment obtained, on the ground that she had no fixed domicile in the city. She asserted she had a house and lot there, which proved a satisfactory answer. On the trial she produced an award of arbitrators (Johannes van Burgh, Marten Cregier, Allard Anthony and Nicolaes Bayard) dated July 24, 1665, showing that Davitsen had resold the land to her. The jury, composed, among others, of Isaac Bedlow, Gulian Verplanck, William Bogardus, Walter Salter and Johannes de Peyster, decided that the sale made in presence of the arbitrators should remain in full force. Plaintiff appealed June 6, 1666, but on Sept. 17, all parties appeared before Nicolaes Bayard and declared that they had mutually agreed "about the difference which was risen about Bronck's Land" and requested him to enter judgment "to the end that all proceedings at law in this case should cease."—Minutes of the Court.

The widow Hoppe's second husband, although called van Tright in the New York records, was known as van Duyn in New Jersey. He removed from Flatbush, L. I., where he was born, his father Gerret Cornelise van Duyn being the common ancestor of the family, to Bergen where he settled and died in 1686. He bought land in 1662 from Governor Stuyvesant on the Saddle River. His children wrote their names van Dien. Among his issue was Gerret van Dien, who married Vrontie Verwey and lived west of the above river. Winfield's Land Titles of Hudson County, p. 101, cites the confirmation of the above Dutch grant of 1662 in Dirck Gerritse on May 12, 1668, by "Philip Carterett Esq., Governor of the Province of New Cesarea or New Jersey," and relates that previous to his death he had sold the land to Baltus Barentsen van Kleek. He received the purchase money but before the transfer was completed, died leaving a widow, Gerten Hoppe and son Garret van Dien, then living in Hackensack. These completed the sale Oct. 13, 1686.

Hoppe died in December, 1658, leaving five children. Their mother appeared before the Orphan Masters, Dec. 11th, and stated that her husband had died intestate but had appointed as guardian of the children, Cornelis Aarsen and Lambert Huybertsen Mol, who were thereupon ordered to inventory the estate. She plead that, until she remarried, she was not obliged to produce an inventory and was informed that "the custom of fatherland" required it and that she should agree with the guardians as to the amount which she should set apart to each child. The guardians were reminded that the eldest child must remain with the mother. On March 5, 1659, they reported that an agreement had been made "about a settlement on the children of their paternal inheritance" and that 1000 florins (200 florins for each child) had been allowed. Jacobus Vis and Isaac Kip were appointed, April 29, 1660, to take a copy of the inventory "in order to settle their inheritance upon the children."—Minutes of the Orphan Masters.

These minutes at p. 138, give the names of the five children as Catrina, Wilhelmus, Hendrick, Matthys and Adolf. Riker states that there were only four and names the fourth Matthys Adolfus. His information was doubtless obtained from the Dutch Church records wherein only four are mentioned and where can be found the baptism and marriage of said Matthias Adolphus. No child named Adolf appears either there or in the Hackensack records whither all the children removed with their mother.

His wife joined the Dutch Reformed Church at Schaghticoke, 13 June, 1769, and he followed her example 9 June, 1771. Here he officiated at various times as elder and deacon. In 1792 he was a member of the State Legislature. John Knickerbocker, Jr., during the Revolutionary War was a private in the Albany County Militia (Land Bounty Rights), Fourteenth Regiment. *William (Willem) Winne was bap. 22 April, 1716, at Albany, son of Daniel Winne and Dirkje Van Ness; m. Maria De Frondelac, called Maria De Wandelaar on the Albany Church records, probably bap. 25 Dec., 1715, at Albany, dau. of Johannes De Wandelaar, Jr., and Lysbeth Gansevoort of Schaghticoke, N. Y. Daniel Winne, son of Pieter Winne and Tanaatje Adams, m. 16 March, 1698, at Albany, Dirkje Van Ness, dau. of Jan and Aaltje Van Ness. Daniel Winne of Rensselaer Manor, yeoman, made his will, 18 Jan., 1750-1, proved 2 March, 1757, and recorded at Albany. In it he mentions wife Dirckie and nine children, one of them being William. Pieter Winne was b. in the city of Ghent in Flanders; m. (1) Aechie Jans (by whom he had Pieter Pietersen Winne, b. 1643, lived in Esopus and m. Jannetje Alberts); m. In 1677 he bought one half of Constaepel's Island, and the same year a saw-mill in Bethlehem, Albany County, N. Y. He was a lawyer and lived at Schaghticoke where he dispensed such generous hospitality that he became known as "Prince of Schaghticoke." There is a tradition to the effect that a clause in the Knickerbocker grants provides that the holder of the title to a certain tract of land must entertain the Mayor and Commonalty of Albany once a year, and this agreement was carried out strenuously. He was elected to the 11th Congress as a Federalist and served from 22 May, 1809, till 3 March, 1811. In 1816 he was chosen to State Assembly and also filled the office of County Judge. He is alluded to by Washington Irving in the Knickerbocker's History of New York as "My cousin, the congressman," and when Mr. Irving visited Washington he introduced him to President Madison as "My cousin Diedrich Knickerbocker, the great historian of New York." It was this intimate friendship which was the origin of Irving's humorous history of New York under the non de plume of Diedrich Knickerbocker (Appleton's Cyclopaedia of American Biography, Vol. 3, p. 562; N. Y. Genealogical and Biographical Record, Vol. 34, p. 1, onward). His son, Right Reverend David Buel Knickerbacker, D. D., Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Indiana, was b. 24 Feb., 1833, at Schaghticoke, d. 31 Dec., 1894, in Indianapolis. He graduated in June, 1853 from Trinity College, and during the next three years studied at the Episcopal Theological Seminary in New York. He then went out to Minnesota as a Missionary of the Episcopal Church and began his labors among the Indians. He became Rector of a church in Minneapolis where he remained until chosen Bishop of Indiana (Year Book of the Holland Society of New York, 1895).

* Abraham E. Van Allen was b. 25 June, 1750; bap. 15 July, 1750, at Claverack, N. - Fryenmoet. Evert was a famous surveyor and civil engineer, as civil engineering was understood in those days. Howell's History of Albany County, says that he was the surveyor who laid out the most part of the City of Albany. He also did much work for the State and others in Jefferson, Lewis and St. Lawrence Counties. They had eleven children, one being the mother of Admiral Van Reypen. Evert was the principal legatee of his uncle and aunt, John E. Van Allen, the Congressman, and Anne Fryenmoet, dau. of Domine Fryenmoet, and is sometimes said to have been adopted by them.

Evert was the eldest. His mar. lic. bond calls him "tailor." Abraham was son of Evert Van Allen.

Evert Van Allen was b. about 1715, but the precise date of his birth or baptism nowhere appears. He was son of Johannes Van Alen and Sara Dingman, and Sara in her will (vid. Calendar of Wills number 1806, probated 1746) mentions her son Evert. He m. Margarita Fitzgerald and had seven children, of whom John E. was the eldest and Abraham E. was the second. Evert was dead in 1769 when his brother Jacobus made his will.

Johannis Van Allen is called "my eldest son" in his father's will, but the date of his birth or baptism is not found. He m. 3 July, 1697, at Albany, Sara Dingman, dau. of Adam Dingman and Aeltie Jacobse Gardiner. They appear to have had 10 children. He took the "test oath" in 1699, "lives to ye southward of Albany." On 22 Feb., 1677-8, he bought a lot on North Pearl Street, Albany. On 30 Nov., 1702, he signed the certificate in favor of Paulus Van Vleck, preacher of the Congregation at Kinderhook, and in consequence was summoned before the council at New York and received "a caution to be more careful in future." In 1716 he was a member of the consistory of the Reformed Dutch Church at Kinderhook. He was son of Lourens Van Alen.

Lourens Van Alen was in Kingston as early as 1669, later he is found at Albany and Kinderhook; he d. in 1714. He m. Elbertje Evertse, only child of Evert Luycase Backer, one of the original patentees of Kinderhook, and through her the entire interest in the Kinderhook (otherwise known as the De Bruyn) Patent passed into the Van Alen family. Lourens was closely related to "Pieter van Haelen, van Uytrecht, shoemaker," who came to New York in the Vergulde Bever in May, 1658, and lived at Kingston and Albany, but whether his younger brother has not been determined. The family name is probably derived from Haelen, an ancient town in Belgian Limburg.

LORDS OF MANORS OF NEW YORK.

WITH A PREFACE ON THE ARYAN AND SEIGNEURIAL ORDER OF THE EMPIRE IN AMERICA.

BY THE VISCOUNT DE FRONSAC.

In 1540, Charles, Count of Hapsburgh, Grand Duke of Austria, King of Spain and Emperor of the Romans, extended the Seigneurial Order of the Empire over America, of which entire continent he had become absolute master.

To this Order, as a nobility, were admitted the Founders and Defenders of the Empire in America, to hold lands incorporated into lordships, or seigneuries, hereditarily with personal representation in the Emperor's Council in the various provinces where their seigneurial holdings extended; and as a class, even if bereft of lands and function by revolution and disaster, to constitute in their remotest generations a class of honor and precedence like the noblesse-de-race of old Europe.

The first and highest title of this Seigneurial Order he bestowed on Colan, grandson of Christopher Columbus (the Duchy of Veragua) with the additional rank of hereditary Vice-Admiral.

On the dismemberment of this great Empire of Charles by treaty and distribution, the rights of succession of rank and property of these families were continued by international agreement and the Seigneurial Order was continued by their establishment and added to by each succeeding monarchy. Thus the Dutch created their Patroon-Lords in New Netherland and when that passed to the British King Charles II, he added to them in Seigneurial succession the Lords of the Manors of New York, while in Carolina he created a special list of Seignorial titles, such as Landgrave to rank with Earl, Cacique to rank with Viscount, and Baron and Lord of Manor. His brother, King James, VII (II), later on countersigned Lord Baltimore's addition of the Lords of the Manors of Maryland.

Already the Kings of France in Canada and Louisiana had followed after King James, VI's Baronets of Nova Scotia, with Seignorial rank in the Dukes, Marquises, Counts, Barons and Seigneurs of that country—the highest of which was the Duke of Arkansas bestowed on John Law, finance minister of France and principal founder of Arkansas.

Then when all these degrees, concessions and rights passed by treaty under the sovereignty of King George, III, by the Treaty of Paris of 1763, they were expressly secured to the families who had won them by their nobility, valor and merit. So from monarch to monarch by treaty and treaty, the imperial titles and sovereignty of the Emperor Charles in America were passed on until they finally devolved on the Kings of Great Britain and Ireland, with the chiefship of the Seignorial Order of the Empire.

The Revolution in America (1776-83) and the formation of the United States has not been deemed to have abrogated the Seignorial honors of families residing in the states which were these former provinces of the Empire, any more than it destroyed the peerage rights of the family of Lord Fairfax of Virginia.

To assert, maintain and obtain recognition of these rights before the Court of the Empire, as well as to preserve the Aryan purity of succession of these families, caused their principal descendants to reorganize the Seignorial Order of the Empire in 1880 (first established in America by the Emperor Charles in 1540) to which they added the name of Aryan. In 1908, by the generosity of the Baroness Dorchester, Greywell Hill, Winchfield, England (Chief of one branch of the Order), the dies of the decoration were paid for and made by Spink, 17 and 18 Piccadilly, London (maker to the King and for the Order of the Garter). They were approved by the Herald's College and by the Earl-Marshall of England (Duke of Norfolk), and are to be worn by those descendants in the male line of the family name of the above mentioned families on registration in the Aryan and Seignorial College of Arms, Viscount de Fronsac, Herald-Marshall, London, Ontario, Canada.

QUERIES.

WALDRON—VERMILYE.—Was Maria Goverts, wife of Resolved Waldron of Amsterdam, the mother of Resolved Waldron, Jr., the Harlem, N. Y., settler? Wanted proof that the said Resolved Waldron, Jr., and Johannes Vermilye, another Harlem settler, were entitled to use coat-armor, and the blazon of their arms.

SMITH.—Caleb Smith, the third of his name, in line, m. Hannah, dau. of Jacobus Dyckman, 26 Jan., 1804. Who was the mother of the said Caleb Smith; was he of the Tangier Rock or Bull Smith; what was his line back to the founder of the Smith family on Long Island; and what was the day and month of Caleb's death in 1858?

DYCKMAN. Who was the mother of the celebrated Staats Morris Dyckman? Riker's Revised History of Harlem gives him as son of Jacob and Tryntje Benson of Spuyton Duyvil, or Harlem, and m. to Eliza Corne. Bolton says he was the fifth son of Jacob Dyckman of Phillipsburgh, and m. Eliza Kennedy. His true parentage and dates of birth for himself and his wife are desired.

The marriage date of Jacob and Tryntje (Benson) Dyckman is asked for, and a dated list of their children: Samson, Staats Morris, Benjamin, Jacobus John, Garret, Wm. Nagel, Maria, Catalina, Jane, and perhaps Jacob.

Riker says John above, m. Aletta Goetchins, but members of the family say he m. Mehitable Westcot. Which is correct?

The will of Deliverance Conkling in 1762, names his dau. Deliverance Conkling, wife of Jacob Dyckman. Who were Jacob's parents? Could he have been son of Jacob and Tryntje Benson above?

Is Mr. D. Waters Dyckman a descendant of the Long Island family of Waters, and if so, how?

The above is asked for in the interest of a Dyckman Chart now being compiled.

BOOK NOTICES.

OUR AMERICAN BARCLAYS, by Cornelia Barclay Barclay. Cloth, small Quarto, pp. 80. Limited edition, privately printed. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

This little work is filled with interesting details concerning the early members of the ancient Barclay Family of Albany, N. Y., so many of whom were loyalists at the time of the Revolutionary War. The information is largely imparted in the form of conversational letters addressed to the children of the compiler, with additional chapters on the early English and Scotch families of the name, the Saxon "de Berkeleys" and the Rev. Thomas Barclay, the first of his family in America, together with copies of various epistles written by and to members of his family. It is probable that the Rev. Thomas Barclay, who only took clerical orders at the late age of forty years, was allied to the Barclays of Fifeshire, Scotland, and was possibly a son of Sir Robert Barclay, Bart. of Pierston, County Fife, by his second wife Barbara Deas(?). Positive proof of this fact is lacking, but a skilled searcher in Scotland has produced many documents pointing to this origin of the family and the clue is well worth serious investigation. So much new and valuable data has been collected by Mrs. Barclay beyond the meagre facts hitherto known, that it is hoped a complete genealogy of this interesting Tory family will soon be published in the standard form and arrangement. In the meantime the compiler is to be congratulated upon putting the family history in so compact and readable a form, the book being beautifully printed in large clear type, with wide margins, and the paper and binding up to the high standard set by its publishers.

THE DESCENDANTS OF JAMES COLE OF PLYMOUTH, 1633. Also a record of the families of Lt. Thomas Burnham of Ipswich, 1635; Lt. Edward Winship of Cambridge, 1635, and Simon Huntington, England, 1635, with a complete record of the Cole, Coole and Coule families of America in the Revolution. By Ernest Byron Cole. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908. Cloth, Quarto. pp. 435.

There is some mention of the family before the emigration to America, but it is best known by the fact that the hill where the Mayflower pilgrims were first buried is known as Cole's Hill, since James Cole, who came to Saco, Maine, in 1632, and one year later located at Plymouth, lived on a grant of ten acres including this first burial ground. His descendants are traced to the tenth generation and their children. To this is added the three families named on the title page, and other Cole families in America, which are only briefly given, as will be seen when seven families cover that number of pages. The Revolutionary records fill about fifty pages, and an index in three columns of eighteen pages, completes a book which shows industry and will be sought by many.

THE CANTRILL-CANTRELL GENEALOGY, by Susan Cantrill Christie. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 271. Full Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

This is the first complete record of the descendants of Richard Cantrill, a resident of Philadelphia prior to 1689, and of the earlier Cantrills in England and America, and in subject matter, arrangement, and beauty of print and binding reflects high credit upon the family historian and the publishers. It is the first genealogy of this family, one of the oldest in America, to be published and represents ten years constant and faithful labor. The name can be clearly traced to the original family of Cantrill or Cantrelle in France, and a brief history is given of the early Cantrills in England, Ireland and America. No claim is made to the arms or early lines of ancestry, however, unless there is absolute proof of right or relationship, and this frank attitude of the compiler cannot be too highly commended, as the general tendency of the family historian is toward assuming the arms of a distinguished ancestry, without the slightest right or reason. No less than 2127 descendants are traced out and praise should be awarded the workmanlike manner of arrangement, which follows the best and most modern practice in genealogical manuscripts. The book is sure to become a work of reference and no large genealogical library can afford to be without a copy. A word of praise should also be said in behalf of The Grafton Press, the publishers, for its careful preparation and publication of the manuscript and the great skill and taste displayed. In this age of indifferent printing of inaccurate genealogical matter bound up in the cheapest form, it is refreshing to find a book of this character and style.

ADDITIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE HISTORY OF CHRIST CHURCH, HARTFORD, CONN., with the Records of Baptisms, Confirmations, Communicants, Marriages and Burials, 1760-1900. Volume II. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 517. Full Index. Press of Belknap & Warfield, Hartford. 1908.

This splendid transcript of the records of one of the most important churches in Hartford fitly crowns the compilation of the history of this parish, so well related in the first volume, previously reviewed in the RECORD. Church registers are dry reading save to those engaged in hunting up the lost generations of their name, yet these records are filled with many interesting details due to the untiring energy of Mr. George E. Hoadley, a member of one of the oldest families in the parish. By searching old magazines and newspapers, county and private graveyards, and by means of extensive inquiries and correspondence, Mr. Hoadley was able to add many items of incalculable value to the annals of the church. A marked feature of this volume is the exhaustive index, showing at a glance the place, number and character of the record concerning each name. The press work and binding is in keeping with and fully up to the standard of Volume I, and these volumes will have an important share in perpetuating the history of the early Connecticut churches.

DORCHESTER DAY. Celebration of the 277th Anniversary of the Settlement of Dorchester, 1630-1907, by James H. Stark. Cloth, Royal Octavo, pp. 117, with Index. Press of Municipal Printing Office, Boston. 1907.

The custom of celebrating the original founding of early Colonial towns is growing and will result in inciting civic pride and stimulating a desire to learn more concerning the historic progress of the New England cities. The more interest aroused among the descendants of the early settlers the greater harvest will result from the unearthing of private records and documents of priceless value, hitherto unavailable because of ignorance or indifference. This book was created by the efforts of the Dorchester Historical Society and contains the addresses and proceedings which marked the four annual celebrations of Dorchester Day from 1904-1907. It is well printed and illustrated with portraits and pictures of old landmarks and spots of historic interest, and will be a pleasant reminder to those who took part in honoring their native town.

ANDREW ELLICOTT, HIS LIFE AND LETTERS, by Catharine Van Cortland Mathews. Illustrated, Cloth, Octavo, pp. 256 with Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

With the exception of a few brief statements in the histories of several other allied families, a short biographical sketch in Stuart's Civil and Military Engineers of America, and a few stray newspaper articles, no adequate account of Major Andrew Ellicott's career has been published before the present work. The book has been prepared from many valuable private papers, letters, diaries and documents in the possession of his descendants relative to the surveys and plans of the District of Washington and is doubly welcome as a full, fair and final biography of one of the ablest civil engineers this land has produced, and as a timely tribute to one, who, with Major L'Enfant, planned and laid out the City of Washington, the capitol of the United States. It would be impossible in a few brief lines to do justice to the many and vast surveying tasks accomplished by Mr. Ellicott, but when it is stated that he laid out the Baltimore and western boundary of Pennsylvania in 1785, made the first measurement of Niagara in 1790, laid out the road to Presqu' Isle Fort in 1793-95, and the Florida boundary, the ability and activity of the man commands the respect of the nation. He was the son of Joseph and Judith (Bleaker) Ellicott, whose direct ancestor was that Andrew Ellicott, who came from Devonshire, England, in 1731, to settle in Bucks County, Pa.

His father was an expert clockmaker, whose strong mathematical bent of mind undoubtedly endowed his talented son with the love of the exact sciences. The numerous extracts from private dairies and the copies of his letters incorporated in the book give a vivid picture of his career and in this way the author has cleverly made her talented subject tell his own story. His literary style is excellent, the text being clear, simple and flowing, so that the readers' interest is kept up with the progress of the work and he arrives at the close all too soon and with keen regret. The art of biography is difficult in that the personality of the writer is ever struggling with the character of the subject—it may be unavoidably—and the result is too apt to prove a personal and prejudiced criticism, rather than an impartial life history. In this work, however, the authoress has confined her words to description rather than comment, with a result as happy for her subject as it is creditable to herself. The illustrations are superior in tone and finish, the typography distinct and restful and the dress of the volume appropriate in quiet taste to the Quaker attributes of its hero. It is a book for the libraries of book-lovers as well as the general public and deserves every success.

A HISTORY OF THOMAS AND ANNE BILLOPP FARMAR AND SOME OF THEIR DESCENDANTS IN AMERICA, by Charles Farmar Billopp. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 125. Full Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1907.

The family of Farmar was early established at Sanciton, Co. Oxon, England, and Major Jasper Farmar of County Cork, Ireland, first arrived in America in the ship Bristol Merchant, on September 9th, 1685, bringing with him his sons, their families and twenty servants. He settled on a tract of 5,000 acres purchased from William Penn, embracing all of "Farmars or White-marsh Township, Philadelphia County, South of Shippack Road."

His grandson, Thomas Farmar, Chief Justice of Supreme Court of New Jersey, son of Jasper Farmar, Jr., the husband of Anne Billopp, daughter of Captain Christopher Billopp of the Royal Navy, was the founder of the branch of the family whose descendants are set forth in this work. Many of these descendants were officers in the English Army, and the annals of the family show a long line of distinguished men. The material has been ably treated by the compiler and his work evidences great research, accuracy and ability. The method of arrangement is somewhat confusing, and renders the tracing of any descendant difficult to one unfamiliar with the family lines, but this must be attributed to the narrative style which the author uses and to the wealth of interesting detail which fills the pages. The illustrations of Coat Armor, portraits and pictures of manor houses, as well as the entire style of the volume is in excellent taste and the work will make a valuable addition to select genealogical libraries.

FAMILY RECORDS OF THE DESCENDANTS OF GERSHOM FLAGG (born 1730) OF LANCASTER, MASS., WITH OTHER GENEALOGICAL RECORDS OF THE FLAGG FAMILY DESCENDED FROM THOMAS FLAGG OF WATERTOWN, MASS., AND INCLUDING THE FLAGG LINEAGE IN ENGLAND, by Norman Gershorn Flagg and Lucius C. S. Flagg. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 173, with Index. Privately printed. 1907.

In collecting and compiling all Flagg records in New England, whether of those of the name directly related, or of those as yet unplaced, the authors have undoubtedly preserved information which in a few years more might have been difficult if not impossible to secure. With all these facts before them future family historians can more readily exercise the process of selection and elimination so necessary in the compilation of an accurate and complete genealogy. Thomas Flagg, baptized at Whinberg, Norfolk, England, 1615, who sailed for America in 1637, when twenty-one years of age, and settled at Watertown, Mass., was the founder of the main American line of the name and from him sprang a long line of descendants. The compilers have made the dry facts of descent interesting by adding many excellent photographs of members of the family and their homes, and when possible have inserted short biographical sketches. The book shows an earnest spirit of research, a careful and accurate selection of the important facts contained in the town, county and court records, and a comprehensive arrangement of the subject. It is to be regretted that the system of nomenclature is special rather than standard, but this must in a measure be attributed to the fact that the compilers are not trained genealogists, and hence have sacrificed general utility to the public to an individual system with which they are familiar. What is easy to them through custom of usage may be extremely intricate to the general searcher, and as time saved is the essence of success in a long hunt for family pedigrees, any new and original method of indicating descent, requiring special education, is always condemned by skilled genealogists. The press work, paper and binding of the book is in excellent taste, and as an authoritative work the book is well fitted for extensive reference.

THE GRAFTON MAGAZINE OF HISTORY AND GENEALOGY, a Quarterly Publication, Vol. I, No. 1. June, 1908. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

The appearance of a new magazine devoted to historical and genealogical subjects is always welcome for a number of manuscripts, family histories and unpublished records are constantly coming to light, and it will soon be impossible for the older and well established periodicals to print even those deserving of record. The time is rapidly approaching, however, when a nice discrimination must be exercised, not only by the libraries in accepting genealogical works but by the magazines in filling up their numbers. Pages devoted to long lines of descent, without historical or biographical notes, soon grow uninteresting and "histories of the unimportant" are becoming a drug on the genealogical market. For this reason much care should be exercised in selecting and publishing material of this nature, and it is a pleasure to note that this first number of the Grafton Magazine is filled with good reading and with articles of literary value. May it have a successful and prosperous career in its chosen field and do its part in arousing and maintaining the interest and wholesome pride of all worthy descendants of the early settlers of this land.

JOHN HARVARD'S LIFE IN AMERICA OR SOCIAL AND POLITICAL LIFE IN NEW ENGLAND IN 1637-1638, by Andrew McFarland Davis. Paper, Octavo, pp. 45. Cambridge, John Wilson & Son, University Press. 1908.

The author deals with a single year of John Harvard's life and from scanty facts at hand, has framed a strong picture of the man and his time. Strange as it may seem, scarcely any information can be had concerning the celebrated founder of Harvard University, and much of his history in the Massachusetts Colony must be supplied from documents relating to his contemporaries and companions in Cambridge. Even the will in which he wrote his "immortal bequest" of his library and fortune to Harvard College has disappeared. The author has the happy faculty of so clothing a mere skeleton of a biography with living words and phrases, as to make it most interesting reading and in a sense conveys the impression of possessing more details of the Cambridge scholar's life than he has actually gleaned. The work will be a welcome addition to the little collection of biographies and histories of one whose early gift to learning will continue to bear fruit for hundreds of generations yet unborn.

THE ANCESTRY OF ROSALIE MORRIS JOHNSON, DAUGHTER OF GEORGE CALVERT MORRIS AND ELIZABETH KUHN, HIS WIFE, by R. Winder Johnson. Second Volume. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 87. Full Index. Privately printed, Philadelphia. 1908.

The English and Flemish ancestors of the subject of this work are clearly set forth in a series of pedigree charts prepared from Heralds Visitations, Town and Church Records and family documents, and the compilation evinces much learning and attention to detail. This style of genealogy, tho comparatively rare in this country, is one which enables the searcher to note at a glance the source of birth and in fact may be called a "map of descendants."

The ancient Flemish records must be a mine full of facts concerning many of the early immigrants to this country and in tracing such portions as affect his kin, the compiler will aid and encourage other families of Flemish descent to make the effort of locating their ancestors beyond sea. Alliances with the family of Peter Paul Rubens, the great artist, and with the Stier Family of Antwerp are well worthy of perpetuation in record form and of a pardonable pride among their living descendants. The intricacies of descent have been tersely set forth and beautifully arranged by the compiler who shows a fine genealogical sense and confines his facts to simple, direct statement, without going into collateral speculations and digressions. The paper and printing of the work is worthy of admiration and imitation and it was a happy thought to add the facsimilies of family signatures from original documents in the Antwerp archives.

MIDDLETOWN UPPER HOUSES. A History of the North Society of Middletown, Ct., 1650-1800, with genealogical and biographical chapters on early families and a full genealogy of the Ranney family, by Charles Collard Adams, M.A., Secretary, Treasurer, etc. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 847. The Grafton Press, New York. 1908.

This book begins with an account of the first settlements in Connecticut prior to 1651, when Mattabesec (1653 Middletown) was made a town. Upper Houses was finally called Cromwell in 1851. The history of this place is full and interesting. The descendants of Thomas Ranney occupy the pages from 143 to 505. Brief genealogies follow of Bulkely, Butler, Clark, Doolittle, Edwards, Eells, Gaylord, Gridley, Hall, Hubbard, Hurlburt, Keith, Kelsey, Kirby, L'Hommedieu, Prout, Riley, Sage, Savage, Smith, Stocking, Stow, Treat, Warner, White, Wilcox, and Williams families. The book throughout is profusely illustrated. A three column index of fifty-eight pages concludes the volume which will prove satisfactory to many. It would have been preferable to have the genealogies follow the approved plan adopted by the Register and Record but nevertheless the work is welcome.

CONSANGUINEOUS MARRIAGES IN THE AMERICAN POPULATION, by George B. Louis Arner, Ph.D. Paper, Octavo, pp. 99. New York, Columbia University. 1908.

The subject of intermarriages among kin is ably treated by the author, who has grouped the more striking features of such alliances into seven chapters, and while he does not claim an exhaustive statistical examination of the question, he has clearly set forth such principles as should be deduced from the material available. Although the pamphlet is not of a genealogical nature yet it will prove of value to those who study the history of families and by calling the attention of genealogists to this phase of social life, may result in valuable facts and discoveries. The author's style is clear and logical and his work shows much erudition.

GEORGE MORTON, OF PLYMOUTH COLONY, AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS, by John K. Allen. Paper, Royal Octavo, pp. 43. Privately printed. 1908. Full Index.

The first known record of George Morton was in the Dutch Church Records of Leyden, Holland, and describes him as "merchant, from York in England, accompanied by Thomas Morton his brother and Roger Wilson, his acquaintance," and married to Juliana Carpenter, maid from Bath in England, accompanied by Alexander Carpenter, her father, and Alice Carpenter, her sister, and Anna Robinson, her acquaintance. The marriage took place "23 July—2 August, 1612." He came to Plymouth in the ship Anne during the latter part of July, 1623, was a brother-in-law of Gov. William Bradford, and was probably the author of "Mourt's Relation," the first publication of information about the adventure of the Pilgrims. Nothing indicates his original place of residence in England, and his English ancestry has never been authoritatively traced, but the author has followed down the first four generations in America with great accuracy and has continued certain branches down to the tenth generation. The arrangement and treatment of this genealogy is altogether admirable, following as it does, the best principles of recording descent and clearly and concisely setting forth the link without going into collateral branches and unnecessary detail. The paging, printing and type used show the taste of a trained genealogist, and the sole regret is that the pamphlet is not bound in cloth for the greater preservation of its valuable contents.

TWO CENTURIES OF NEW MILFORD, CONN., an account of the Bi-Centennial Celebration of the founding of the town, held June 15, 16, 17 and 18, 1907, with a number of historical articles and reminiscences. Prepared under the direction of the Historical Committee by various citizens of New Milford and by the editorial department of the Grafton Press. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 307. Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1907.

The selection of special writers to deal with the different subjects of interest in the history of the early towns, appears to be a wise method of collecting into one volume historical matter which could not be compiled by one author without great labor and research and credit is due to the editorial department of The Grafton Press, for inaugurating this method of arranging and preserving town and county histories. John Noble in 1707 erected the first log house in what was to be later New Milford, and by 1712, he and his son had been joined by twelve other families. Later John Read laid claim to this land but after no less than fifteen lawsuits, finally abandoned the struggle and removed to Redding. Thereafter the new town flourished and the names of Boardman, Taylor, Noble, Gaylord, Bostwick, Canfield, Baldwin, Griswold, Sherman, Sanford, Mygatt, Marsh, Hine and Turrill appear among the prominent settlers. Its most celebrated citizen was Roger Sherman, whose career during the War of the Revolution was conspicuous for sound legal sense and patriotism. The book is divided into two parts, the first relating to the ancient history of the town, the war records, the old houses and cronology, etc., and the second to the Bi-Centennial exercises. The illustrations consist of portraits of prominent citizens and some of the points of interest in the town, and are admirable half-tones, while the entire appearance of the book reflects credit upon its publishers, whose enterprise merits commercial success.

NEW JERSEY ARCHIVES. First Series, Volume XXVII. Newspaper Extracts, Vol. VIII, 1770-1771. Edited by William Nelson. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 713. Full Index. The Press Printing and Publishing Co., Paterson, N. J. 1905.

This volume continues the good work of collecting into referable shape the newspaper items concerning the State of New Jersey, and in no way falls behind its predecessors in the series. It contains many references to the celebrated Non-Importation Agreement, by which the people pledged themselves not to use or import English goods, until the tea and sugar taxes were removed; to the "Horseneck or Indian" Purchase and to the East Jersey Proprietors attempt to enforce their claims to the lands; to the British Garrisons at Elizabeth, Perth Amboy, New Brunswick and Freehold; to the Stage lines; to runaway servants and slaves, etc., and to hundreds of other minor facts, appearing in notices, advertisements, letters, etc. This material will prove invaluable to future State historians, for no surer evidence of the minds and motives of people is to be had, than the items contained in the newspapers of the times. The press work and binding is simple but effective and this book is uniform with the other volumes of the series.

NEW JERSEY ARCHIVES. Second Series, Volume III. Newspaper Extracts, Vol. III, 1779. Edited by William Nelson. Cloth, Octavo, pp. 786. The John L. Murphy Publishing Co., Trenton, N. J. 1906.

This volume chiefly relates to the progress of the War of the Revolution, of which the most notable episodes dealt with are the Battle of Minisink; Col. Sincoe's dash on New Brunswick; the Lee-Laurens duel; the depreciation of the currency; the Governor Livingston and Sir Henry Clinton correspondence; the British raid on Elizabeth; and the raids of the Loyalists on the so-called "New Jersey Volunteers;" and the events at Washington's Headquarters at Middlebrook. Mingled with these war reports are the usual advertisements for sales of real estates, recovery of runaway slaves, eloping wives, and trade notices. In brief, the volume is a running diary of the men, time and places of 1779, and contains much valuable and curious information. In conjunction with the First Series, which deals with the Colonial period, the Second or Revolutionary Series, will fill out the annals of New Jersey, a State which was one of the most active and important battlegrounds in the struggle between the large landed proprietors and the small village tradesmen, and which as strategic ground was alternately occupied by British and Patriot troops for many years of the war. This Series of Volumes of New Jersey History are all important and should be found in every Library of any size in the United States.

JOHN WATTS DE PEYSTER, by Frank Allaben. Cloth, Octavo, Two Volumes, pp. 660, with Index. Frank Allaben Genealogical Co., New York. 1908.

Perhaps there was no more interesting period in the constructive history of New York than that between the years 1820 and 1880, when the times, the customs, the manners and the populace all underwent those mighty changes which have brought about the present growth of the Imperial City. The late General dePeyster was a prime mover in many of these progressions and until his death remained one of the most interesting links between past and present New York. Of ancient and most honorable lineage, of kin to some of the best representative families in this State, possessed of an independent fortune and a generous income, of marked intelligence and ability, he early in life devoted himself to the study of military affairs, and by his sound advice and energetic efforts effected wide reforms in the Militia and Fire Department of the State of New York. For these services he was rewarded with the rank of Brigadier-General, and later breveted Major-General by the Legislature of the State of New York.

As an author of numerous monographs on a great range of subjects and as a military critic of the battles of the Revolutionary and Civil War, his writings always commanded the respect and attention of those interested in such subjects. Mr. Allaben is admirably fitted for the task of being his biographer, not only for his special genealogical knowledge, but for his ability to digest and put together the countless facts of interest found in the private diaries and writings of Mr. dePeyster. He has, when possible, made the General relate in his own language the important facts in his career and thus permitted the man to be his own defender and the reader his own critic. A complete biography of General dePeyster's writings is annexed to the second volume, as well as a full index, which greatly adds to the value of the work as a book of reference. The portraits and other illustrations are clear and well chosen and the publication merits the approval of the general reading public.

THE SANXAY FAMILY AND DESCENDANTS OF REV. JACQUES SANXAY, Huguenot Refugee to England in 1685, by Theodore F. Sanxay, A. M., LL.B. Cloth, Quarto, pp. 217, with Index. Privately printed, New York. 1908.

The name of Sanxay is unusual and can be traced back to the beginning of the Christian Era. Its Latinized form is Sensacus (A. D. 936) or Sancium, and there is a town in France, called Saxay, in the Province of Pitow, which existed as early as 300, A. D., but all indications go to prove that the family name existed before the town was established. Of several families of the name in France, that of Pierre Sanxay of Saintes, Pastor of a Reformed Church in 1569 is the first that can be traced of the present English family of the name. He was probably of gentle, if not noble birth, and the records of his church, commencing October, 1570, are still preserved. The compiler has traced out several branches in France and the main branch in England, from which springs the American branch, being descended from Rev. Jacques Sanxay, refugee to England in 1685, and pastor of St. Olaves Church, Exeter, England. The lines are clearly and fully established and the author has cleverly arranged his extensive facts in the smallest possible space. The research for the work must have been difficult and expensive, dealing as it does with ancient French notarial records, and the compiler exhibits a sound genealogical sense in his collection of family history. The type and fine paper used in this work leaves nothing to be desired, and it is an acquisition to the shelves of those interested in family research.

COLONIAL FAMILIES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in which is given the history, genealogy and armorial bearing of Colonial Families who settled in the American Colonies from the time of the settlement of Jamestown, 13th May, 1607, to the Battle of Lexington, 19th April, 1775. Edited by George Norbury Mackenzie, LL.B. Cloth, large Octavo, pp. 730. Full Index. The Grafton Press, New York. 1907.

The aim of this work is to make a complete and reliable record, devoted exclusively to those American families whose Colonial ancestors laid the foundations of the Republic, and the editor has brought to this monumental task great research, learning and ability, not only in tracing out his material from a mass of documentary data and traditional dicta, but in arranging and condensing his facts into reasonable bulk. Necessarily many of the pedigrees displayed in this volume, must have been supplied by the heads of the families interested and it would have been impossible for the editor to verify all the facts claimed, not only as to the right to bear coat-armor, but as to the original ancestor named and his location in Old England. Vast as is the difference between statement and proof of descent, the chasm is still more wide between bearing arms by right or by tradition. The desire of all good republicans for heraldic devices is after all an innocent vanity, and perhaps the strongest proof of our descent from the English commoners lies in the American Social classes so "dearly loving a Lord."

The editor of the work has wisely avoided the pitfalls of his task in accepting, without comment, those few claims which must try even the strongest genealogical faith, and simply records the pedigrees sent, leaving the reader the privilege of taking the claim with a grain of salt. The greatest value of the work lies in those pedigrees compiled since the date of arrival of the original ancestor in this country and such charts seem to be full, accurate and admirably arranged. The printing of the work follows the best English traditions and the type, paper and wood cuts of the arms all are worthy of this fine publication. The bulk of the families named are from the Southern Colonies and it is hoped that in the projected future editions of the work attention and space will be devoted to more of the New Englanders who are "armigers" of record.

The book contains an immense amount of genealogical information and for this reason should become a standard reference work on the book shelves. It will undoubtedly bring forth many more facts concerning the families dealt with from its readers and critics, who thus may aid in solving those genealogical problems which have caused and continue to cause so much controversy.

THE ASSOCIATION OF DESCENDANTS OF ANDREW WARD, January, 1907. Paper, 12mo, pp. 12. AND REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS AT THE UNVEILING OF THE ANDREW WARD MONUMENT, FAIRFIELD, CONN. Paper, Octavo, pp. 26.

These pamphlets relate to the Annual Meeting, Officers and Members, and general information concerning the Society of Descendants of this early Connecticut settler and gives a brief biography and a description of the monument erected to his memory on the 13th June, 1907.

They form an appropriate record of the honor paid to an early Colonial magistrate by his numerous descendants.

LOOMIS FAMILY. A complete revision of the Loomis Genealogy, edition of 1875, by Dr. Elias Loomis, is now in the course of preparation. It will contain important discoveries made by Prof. C. S. Hoppin, Jr., in regard to the English ancestry of the family from the Church Records at Haxted, England, extending back to 1540, and will contain much new material concerning the American branches of the family, brought down to date, and numbering over 12,000 names of persons born Loomis, verified descendants of the pioneer Joseph Loomis. Any one who may be interested should communicate with Mr. Elisha L. Loomis, Pres. Loomis Genealogical Association, Berea, O.

SCHNELL ASTRONOMY.

The Origin of the Planets, Moons, and Comets.

Man being the product of the Earth, the same law that governs Man governs the Earth, Planets reproduce their kind the same as Man, following his life from the cradle to the grave. By applying the working method of Man's magnetism to the solar system, the law of Gravitation can be entirely explained which draws everything to the Earth and binds the Earth to the Sun.

All test and experiment has demonstrated that the closer we get to the Sun the colder it gets, the book explains how daylight is produced through vibration. It explains what Sun spots are, Saturn Rings, Aurora Borealis, how the Moon causes our high tides, it even explains the composition of a Comet's tail.

SCHNELL ASTRONOMY will appeal to all readers because it is based on Man and nature, and will give you more insight in astronomy than any book in print.

AT ALL BOOK STORES OR BY POSTAL ORDER. PRICE $1.50.
